REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON THE BENGAL LOCAL SELF-GOVERNMENT (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1925.

We, the undersigned members of the Select Committee to which the Bill further to amend the Bengal Local Self-Government Act of 1885 was referred, have considered the Bill and have the honour to submit this our report.

A majority of the Committee was of opinion that—

(1) the effect of the Bill must be the disenfranchisement of some portion of the present Local Board electorate; and

(2) the financial advantages of the proposals would not justify this result.

The Committee, therefore, recommend that the Bill be not further proceeded with.

57. The provisions of this Part which are set out in Schedule III shall, subject to the restrictions and modifications specified therein, apply—

(a) to all wills and codicils made by any Hindu, Buddhist, Sikh or Jaina, on or after the first day of September, 1870, within the territories which at the said date were subject to the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal or within the local limits of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of the High Courts of Judicature at Madras and Bombay ; and

(b) to all such wills and codicils made outside those territories and limits so far as relates to immoveable property situate within those territories or limits :

Provided that marriage shall not revoke any such will or codicil.

General application of Part.

58. (1) The provisions of this Part shall not apply to testamentary succession to the property of any Muhammadan nor, save as provided by section 57, to testamentary succession to the property of any Hindu, Budhist, Sikh or Jaina ; nor shall they apply to any will made before the first day of January, 1866.

(2) Save as provided in sub-section (1) or by any other law for the time being in force, the provisions of this Part shall constitute the law of British India applicable to all cases of testamentary succession.

CHAPTER II.

Of Wills and Codicils.

Person capable of making wills.

59. Every person of sound mind not being a minor may dispose of his property by will.

Explanation 1.—A married woman may dispose by will of any property which she could alienate by her own act during her life.

Explanation 2.—Persons who are deaf or dumb or blind are not thereby incapacitated for making a will if they are able to know what they do by it.

Explanation 3.—A person who is ordinarily insane may make a will during an interval in which he is of sound mind.

Explanation 4.—No person can make a will while he is in such a state of mind, whether arising from intoxication or from illness or from any other cause, that he does not know what he is doing.

Illustrations.

(i) A can perceive what is going on in his immediate neighbourhood, and can answer familiar questions, but has not a competent understanding as to the nature of his property, or the persons who are of kindred to him, or in whose favour it would be proper that he should make his will. A cannot make a valid will.

(ii) A executes an instrument purporting to be his will, but he does not understand the nature of the instrument nor the effect of its provisions. This instrument is not a valid will.

(iii) A being very feeble and debilitated, but capable of exercising a judgment as to the proper mode of disposing of his property, makes a will. This is a valid will.

Testamentary guardian.

60. A father, whatever his age may be, may by will appoint a guardian or guardians for his child during minority.

Will obtained by fraud, coercion or importunity.

61. A will or any part of a will, the making of which has been caused by fraud or coercion, or by such importunity as takes away the free agency of the testator, is void.

Illustrations.

(i) A falsely and knowingly represents to the testator that the testator's only child is dead, or that he has done some undutiful act and thereby induces the testator to make a will in his A's favour; such will has been obtained by fraud, and is invalid.

(ii) A, by fraud and deception, prevails upon the testator to bequeath a legacy to him. The bequest is void.

(iii) A, being a prisoner by lawful authority, makes his will. The will is not invalid by reason of the imprisonment.

(iv) A threatens to shoot B, or to burn his house or to cause him to be arrested on a criminal charge, unless he makes a bequest in favour of C. B, in consequence, makes a bequest in favour of C. The bequest is void, the making of it having been caused by coercion.

(v) A, being of sufficient intellect, if undisturbed by the influence of others, to make a will yet being so much under the control of B that he is not a free agent, makes a will, dictated by B. It appears that he would not have executed the will but for fear of B. The will is invalid.

(vi) A, being in so feeble a state of health as to be unable to resist importunity, is pressed by B to make a will of a certain purport and does so merely to purchase peace and in submission to B. The will is invalid.

(vii) A being in such a state of health as to be capable of exercising his own judgment and volition, B uses urgent intercession and persuasion with him to induce him to make a will of a certain purport. A, in consequence of the intercession and persuasion, but in the free exercise of his judgment and volition, make his will in the manner recommended by B. The will is not rendered invalid by the intercession and persuasion of B.

(viii) A, with a view to obtaining a legacy from B, pays him attention and flatters him and thereby produces in him a capricious partiality to A. B, in consequence of such attention and flattery, makes his will, by which he leaves a legacy to A. The bequest is not rendered invalid by the attention and flattery of A.

Will may be revoked or altered.

62. A will is liable to be revoked or altered by the maker of it at any time when he is competent to dispose of his property by will.

CHAPTER III.

Of the Execution of unprivileged Wills.

Execution of unprivileged wills.

63. Every testator, not being a soldier employed in an expedition or engaged in actual warfare, or a mariner at sea, shall execute his will according to the following rules:—

(a) The testator shall sign or shall affix his mark to the will, or it shall be signed by some other person in his presence and by his direction.

(b) The signature or mark of the testator, or the signature of the person signing for him, shall be so placed that it shall appear that it was intended thereby to give effect to the writing as a will.

(c) The will shall be attested by two or more witnesses, each of whom has seen the testator sign or affix his mark to the will or has seen some other person sign the will, in the presence and by the direction of the testator, or has received from the testator a personal acknowledgment of his signature or mark, or of the signature of such other person; and each of the witnesses shall sign the will in the presence of the testator, but it shall not be necessary that more than one witness be present at the same time, and no particular form of attestation shall be necessary.

Incorporation of papers by reference.

64. If a testator, in a will or codicil duly attested, refers to any other document then actually written as expressing any part of his intentions, such document shall be deemed to form a part of the will or codicil in which it is referred to.

CHAPTER IV.

Of privileged Wills.

Privileged wills.

65. Any soldier being employed in an expedition or engaged in actual warfare, or any mariner being at sea, may, if he has completed the age of eighteen years, dispose of his property by a will made in the manner provided in section 66. Such wills are called privileged wills.

Illustrations.

(i) A, a medical officer attached to a regiment, is actually employed in an expedition. He is a soldier actually employed in an expedition, and can make a privileged will.

(ii) A is at sea in a merchant-ship, of which he is the purser. He is a mariner, and, being at sea, can make a privileged will.

(iii) A, a soldier serving in the field against insurgents, is a soldier engaged in actual warfare, and as such can make a privileged will.

(iv) A, a mariner of a ship, in the course of a voyage, is temporarily on shore while she is lying in harbour. He is, for the purposes of this section, a mariner at sea, and can make a privileged will.

(v) A, an admiral who commands a naval force, but who lives on shore, and only occasionally goes on board his ship, is not considered as at sea, and cannot make a privileged will.

(vi) A, a mariner serving on a military expedition, but not being at sea, is considered as a soldier, and can make a privileged will.

Mode of making, and rules for executing, privileged wills

66. (1) Privileged wills may be in writing, or may be made by word of mouth.

(2) The execution of privileged wills shall be governed by the following rules:—

(a) The will may be written wholly by the testator, with his own hand. In such case it need not be signed or attested.

(b) It may be written wholly or in part by another person, and signed by the testator. In such case it need not be attested.

(c) If the instrument purporting to be a will is written wholly or in part by another person and is not signed by the testator, it shall be deemed to be his will, if it is shown that it was written by the testator's directions or that he recognised it as his will.

(d) If it appears on the face of the instrument that the execution of it in the manner intended by the testator was not completed, the instrument shall not, by reason of that circumstance, be invalid, provided that his non-execution of it can be reasonably ascribed to some cause other than the abandonment of the testamentary intentions expressed in the instrument.

(e) If the soldier or mariner has written instructions for the preparation of his will, but has died before it could be prepared and executed, such instructions shall be considered to constitute will.

(f) If the soldier or mariner has, in the presence of two witnesses, given verbal instructions for the preparation of his will, and they have been reduced into writing in his lifetime, but he has died before the instrument could be prepared and executed, such instructions shall be considered to constitute his will, although they may not have been reduced into writing in his presence, nor read over to him.

(g) The soldier or mariner may make a will by word of mouth by declaring his intentions before two witnesses present at the same time.

(h) A will made by word of mouth shall be null at the expiration of one month after the testator being still alive, has ceased to be entitled to make a privileged will.

CHAPTER V.

Of the Attestation, Revocation, Alteration and Revival of Wills.

Effect of gift to attesting witness

67. A will shall not be deemed to be insufficiently attested by reason of any benefit thereby given either by way of bequest or by way of appointment to any person attesting it, or to his or her wife or husband; but the bequest or appointment shall be void so far as concerns the persons so attesting, or the wife or husband of such person, or any person claiming under either of them.

Explanation.—A legatee under a will does not lose his legacy by attesting a codicil which confirms the will.

Witness not disqualified by interest or by being executor.

68. No person, by reason of interest in, or of his being an executor of, a will shall be disqualified as a witness to prove the execution of the will or to prove the validity or invalidity thereof.

Revocation of will by testator's marriage.

69. Every will shall be revoked by the marriage of the maker, except a will made in exercise of a power of appointment, when the property over which the power of appointment is exercised would not, in default of such appointment, pass to his or her executor or administrator, or to the person entitled in case of intestacy.

Explanation.—Where a man is invested with power to determine the disposition of property of which he is not the owner, he is said to have power to appoint such property.

Revocation of unprivileged will or codicil.

70. No unprivileged will or codicil, nor any part thereof, shall be revoked otherwise than by marriage, or by another will or codicil, or by some writing declaring an intention to revoke the same and executed in the manner in which an unprivileged will is hereinbefore required to be executed, or by the burning, tearing or otherwise destroying the same by the testator or by some person in his presence and by his direction with the intention of revoking the same.

Illustrations.

(i) A has made an unprivileged will. Afterwards A makes another unprivileged will which purports to revoke the first. This is a revocation.

(ii) A has made an unprivileged will. Afterwards, A, being entitled to make a privileged will, makes a privileged will which purports to revoke his unprivileged will. This is a revocation.

Effect of obliteration, interlineation or alteration in unprivileged will.

71. No obliteration, interlineation or other alteration made in any unprivileged will after the execution thereof shall have any effect, except so far as the words or meaning of the will have been thereby rendered illegible or undiscernible, unless such alteration has been executed in like manner as hereinbefore is required for the execution of the will:

Provided that the will, as so altered, shall be deemed to be duly executed if the signature of the testator and the subscription of the witnesses is made in the margin or on some other part of the will opposite or near to such alteration, or at the foot or end of or opposite to a memorandum referring to such alteration, and written at the end or some other part of the will.

Revocation of privileged will or codicil.

72. A privileged will or codicil may be revoked by the testator by an unprivileged will or codicil, or by any act expressing an intention to revoke it and accompanied by such formalities as would be sufficient to give validity to a privileged will, or by the burning, tearing or otherwise destroying the same by the testator, or by some person in his presence and by his direction, with the intention of revoking the same.

Explanation.—In order to the revocation of a privileged will or codicil by an act accompanied by such formalities as would be sufficient to give validity to a privileged will, it is not necessary that the testator should at the time of doing that act be in a situation which entitles him to make a privileged will.

Revival of unprivileged will.

73. (1) No unprivileged will or codicil, nor any part thereof, which has been revoked in any manner, shall be revived otherwise than by the re-execution thereof, or by a codicil executed in manner hereinbefore required, and showing an intention to revive the same.

(2) When any will or codicil, which has been partly revoked and afterwards wholly revoked, is revived, such revival shall not extend to so much thereof as has been revoked before the revocation of the whole thereof, unless an intention to the contrary is shown by the will or codicil.

CHAPTER VI.

OF THE CONSTRUCTION OF WILLS.

Wording of will.

74. It is not necessary that any technical words or terms of art be used in a will, but only that the wording be such that the intentions of the testator can be known therefrom.

Inquiries to determine questions as to object or subject of will.

75. For the purpose of determining questions as to what person or what property is denoted by any words used in a will, a Court shall inquire into every material fact relating to the persons who claim to be interested under such will, the property which is claimed as the subject of disposition, the circumstances of the testator and of his family, and into every fact a knowledge of which may conduce to the right application of the words which the testator has used.

Illustrations.

(i) A, by his will, bequeaths 1,000 rupees to his eldest son or to his youngest grandchild, or to his cousin, Mary. A Court may make inquiry in order to ascertain to what person the description in the will applies.

(ii) A, by his will, leaves to B "my estate called Black Acre." It may be necessary to take evidence in order to ascertain what is the subject-matter of the bequest; that is to say, what estate of the testator's is called Black Acre.

(iii) A, by his will, leaves to B "the estate which I purchased of C." It may be necessary to take evidence in order to ascertain what estate the testator purchased of C.

Misnomer or misdescription of object.

76. (1) Where the words used in a will to designate or describe a legatee or a class of legatees sufficiently show what is meant, an error in the name or description shall not prevent the legacy from taking effect.

(2) A mistake in the name of a legatee may be corrected by a description of him, and a mistake in the description of a legatee may be corrected by the name.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths a legacy to "Thomas, the second son of my brother John." The testator has an only brother named John, who has no son named Thomas, but has a second son whose name is William. William will have the legacy.

(ii) A bequeaths a legacy "to Thomas, the second son of my brother John." The testator has an only brother, named John, whose first son is named Thomas, and whose second son is named William. Thomas will have the legacy.

(iii) The testator bequeaths his property "to A and B, the legitimate children of C." C has no legitimate child, but has two illegitimate children, A and B. The bequest to A and B takes effect, although they are illegitimate.

(iv) The testator gives his residuary estate to be divided among "my seven children" and, proceeding to enumerate them, mentions six names only. This omission will not prevent the seventh child from taking a share with the others.

(v) The testator, having six grandchildren, makes a bequest to "my six grandchildren" and, proceeding to mention them by their Christian names, mentions one twice over omitting another altogether. The one whose name is not mentioned will take a share with the others.

(vi) The testator bequeaths "1,000 rupees to each of the three children of A.' At the date of the will A has four children Each of these four children will, if he survives the testator, receive a legacy of 1,000 rupees.

When words may be supplied.

77. Where any word material to the full expression of the meaning has been omitted, it may be supplied by the context.

Illustration.

The testator gives a legacy of "five hundred" to his daughter A and a legacy of "five hundred rupees" to his daughter B. A will take a legacy of five hundred rupees.

Rejection of erroneous particulars in description of subject.

78. If the thing which the testator intended to bequeath can be sufficiently identified from the description of it given in the will, but some parts of the description do not apply, such parts of the description shall be rejected as erroneous, and the bequest shall take effect.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths to B "my marsh-lands lying in L and in the occupation of X." The testator had marsh lands lying in L but had no marsh-lands in the occupation of X. The words "in the occupation of X" shall be rejected as erroneous and the marsh-lands of the testator lying in L will pass by the bequest.

(ii) The testator bequeaths to A "my zamindari of Rampur." He had an estate at Rampur but it was a taluq and not a zamindari. The taluq passes by this bequest.

When part of description may not be rejected as erroneous

79. If a will mentions several circumstances as descriptive of the thing which the testator intends to bequeath, and there is any property of his in respect of which all those circumstances exist, the bequest shall be considered as limited to such property, and it shall not be lawful to reject any part of the description as erroneous, because the testator had other property to which such part of the description does not apply.

Explanation.—In judging whether a case falls within the meaning of this section, any words which would be liable to rejection under section 78 shall be deemed to have been struck out of the will.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths to B "my marsh-lands lying in L, and in the occupation of X." The testator had marsh-lands lying in L, some of which were in the occupation of X, and some not in the occupation of X. The bequest will be considered as limited to such of the testator's marsh-lands lying in L as were in the occupation of X.

(ii) A bequeaths to B "my marsh-lands lying in L and in the occupation of X, comprising 1,000 bighas of lands." The testator had marsh-lands lying in L some of which were in the occupation of X and some not in the occupation of X. The measurement is wholly inapplicable to the marsh-lands of either class, or to the whole taken together. The measurement will be considered as struck out of the will, and such of the testator's marsh-lands lying in L as were in the occupation of X shall alone pass by the bequest.

Extrinsic evidence admissible in cases of patent ambiguity.

80. Where the words of a will are unambiguous, but it is found by extrinsic evidence that they admit of applications, one only of which can have been intended by the testator, extrinsic evidence may be taken to show which of these applications was intended.

Illustrations.

(i) A man, having two cousins of the name of Mary, bequeaths a sum of money to "my cousin Mary." It appears that there are two persons, each answering the description in the will. That description, therefore, admits of two applications, only one of which can have been intended by the testator. Evidence is admissible to show which of the two applications was intended.

(ii) A, by his will, leaves to B "my estate called Sultanpur Khurd." It turns out that he had two estates called Sultanpur Khurd. Evidence is admissible to show which estate was intended.

Extrinsic evidence inadmissible in case of patent ambiguity or deficiency.

81. Where there is an ambiguity or deficiency on the face of a will, no extrinsic evidence as to the intentions of the testator shall be admitted.

Illustrations.

(i) A man has an aunt, Caroline, and a cousin, Mary, and has no aunt of the name of Mary. By his will he bequeaths 1,000 rupees to "my aunt, Caroline" and 1 000 rupees to "my cousin, Mary" and afterwards bequeaths 2,000 rupees to "my before mentioned aunt, Mary." There is no person to whom the description given in the will can apply, and evidence is not admissible to show who was meant by "my before mentioned aunt, Mary." The bequest is therefore void for uncertainty under section 89.

(ii) A bequeaths 1,000 rupees to leaving a blank for the name of the legatee. Evidence is not admissible to show what name the testator intended to insert.

(iii) A bequeaths to B rupees, or "my estate of ." Evidence is not admissible to show what sum or what estate the testator intended to insert.

Meaning of clause to be collected from entire will.

82. The meaning of any clause in a will is to be collected from the entire instrument, and all its parts are to be construed with reference to each other.

Illustrations.

(i) The testator gives to B a specific fund or property at the death of A, and by a subsequent clause gives the whole of his property to A. The effect of the several clauses taken together is to vest the specific fund or property in A for life, and after his decease in B; it appearing from the bequest to B that the testator meant to use in a restricted sense the words in which he describes what he gives to A.

(ii) Where a testator having an estate, one part of which is called Black Acre, bequeaths the whole of his estate to A, and in another part of his will bequeaths Black Acre to B, the latter bequest is to be read as an exception out of the first as if he had said "I give Black Acre to B, and all the rest of my estate to A."

When words may be understood in restricted sense, and when in sense wider than usual.

83. General words may be understood in a restricted sense where it may be collected from the will that the testator meant to use them in a restricted sense; and words may be understood in a wider sense than that which they usually bear, where it may be collected from the other words of the will that the testator meant to use them in such wider sense.

Illustrations.

(i) A testator gives to A "my farm in the occupation of B," and to C "all my marsh-lands in L". Part of the farm in the occupation of B consists of marsh-lands in L, and the testator also has other marsh-lands in L. The general words, "all my marsh-lands in L," are restricted by the gift to A. A takes the whole of the farm in the occupation of B, including that portion of the farm which consists of marsh-lands in L.

(ii) The testator (a sailor on ship-board) bequeathed to his mother his gold ring, buttons and chest of clothes, and to his friend, A (a shipmate), his red box, clasp-knife and all things not before bequeathed. The testator's share in a house does not pass to A under this bequest.

(iii) A, by his will, bequeathed to B all his household furniture, plate, linen, china, books, pictures and all other goods of whatever kind; and afterwards bequeathed to B a specified part of his property. Under the first bequest, B is entitled only to such articles of the testator's as are of the same nature with the articles therein enumerated.

Which of two possible constructions preferred.

84. Where a clause is susceptible of two meanings according to one of which it has some effect, and according to the other of which it can have none, the former shall be preferred.

No part rejected, if it can be reasonably construed.

85. No part of a will shall be rejected as destitute of meaning if it is possible to put a reasonable construction upon it.

Interpretation of words repeated in different parts of will

86. If the same words occur in different parts of the same will, they shall be taken to have been used everywhere in the same sense, unless a contrary intention appears.

Testator's intention to be effectuated as far as possible

87. The intention of the testator shall not be set aside because it cannot take effect to the full extent, but effect is to be given to it as far as possible.

Illustration.

The testator by a will made on his death-bed bequeathed all his property to C D for life and after his decease to a certain hospital. The intention of the testator cannot take effect to its full extent because the gift to the hospital is void under section 118, but it will take effect so far as regards the gift to C D.

The last of two inconsistent clauses prevails.

88. Where two clauses or gifts in a will are irreconcileable, so that they cannot possibly stand together, the last shall prevail.

Illustrations.

(i) The testator by the first clause of his will leaves his estate of Ramnagar "to A," and by the last clause of his will leaves it "to B and not to A" B will have it.

(ii) If a man at the commencement of his will gives his house to A, and at the close of it directs that his house shall be sold and the proceeds invested for the benefit of B, the latter disposition will prevail.

Will or bequest void for uncertainty.

89. A will or bequest not expressive of any definite intention is void for uncertainty.

Illustration.

If a testator says "I bequeath goods to A," or "I bequeath to A," or "I leave to A all the goods mentioned in the Schedule" and no Schedule is found, or "I bequeath 'money,' 'wheat,' 'oil'" or the like, without saying how much, this is void.

Words describing subject refer to property answering description at testator's death.

90. The description contained in a will of property, the subject of gift, shall, unless a contrary intention appears by the will, be deemed to refer to and comprise the property answering that description at the death of the testator.

Power of appointment executed by general bequest.

91. Unless a contrary intention appears by the will, a bequest of the estate of the testator shall be construed to include any property which he may have power to appoint by will to any object he may think proper, and shall operate as an execution of such power; and a bequest of property described in a general manner shall be construed to include any property to which such description may extend, which he may have power to appoint by will to any object he may think proper, and shall operate as an execution of such power.

Implied gift to objects of power in default of appointment.

92. Where property is bequeathed to or for the benefit of certain objects as a specified person may appoint or for the benefit of certain objects in such proportions as a specified person may appoint, and the will does not provide for the event of no appointment being made; if the power given by the will is not exercised, the property belongs to all the objects of the power in equal shares.

Illustration.

A, by his will, bequeaths a fund to his wife, for her life, and directs that at her death it shall be divided among his children in such proportions as she shall appoint. The widow dies without having made any appointment. The fund will be divided equally among the children.

Bequest to "heirs," etc., of particular person without qualifying terms.

93. Where a bequest is made to the "heirs" or "right heirs" or "relations" or "nearest relations" or "family" or "kindred" or "nearest of kin" or "next-of-kin" of a particular person without any qualifying terms, and the class so designated forms the direct and independent object of the bequest, the property bequeathed shall be distributed as if it had belonged to such person and he had died intestate in respect of it, leaving assets for the payment of his debts independently of such property.

Illustrations.

(i) A leaves his property "to my own nearest relations". The property goes to those who would be entitled to it if A had died intestate, leaving assets for the payment of his debts independently of such property.

(ii) A bequeaths 10,000 rupees "to B for his life, and, after the death of B, to my own right heirs". The legacy after B's death belongs to those who would be entitled to it if it had formed part of A's unbequeathed property.

(iii) A leaves his property to B; but if B dies before him, to B's next-of-kin; B dies before A; the property devolves as if it had belonged to B, and he had died intestate, leaving assets for the payment of his debts independently of such property.

(iv) A leaves 10,000 rupees "to B for his life, and after his decease to the heirs of C". The legacy goes as if it had belonged to C, and he had died intestate, leaving assets for the payment of his debts independently of the legacy.

Bequest to "representatives," etc., of particular person.

94. Where a bequest is made to the "representatives" or "legal representatives" or "personal representatives" or "executors or administrators" of a particular person, and the class so designated forms the direct and independent object of the bequest, the property bequeathed shall be distributed as if it had belonged to such person and he had died intestate in respect of it.

Illustration.

A bequest is made to the "legal representatives" of A. A has died intestate and insolvent. B is his administrator. B is entitled to receive the legacy, and will apply it in the first place to the discharge of such part of A's debts as may remain unpaid: if there be any surplus B will pay it to those persons who at A's death would have been entitled to receive any property of A's which might remain after payment of his debts, or to the representatives of such persons.

Bequest without words of limitation.

95. Where property is bequeathed to any person, he is entitled to the whole interest of the testator therein, unless it appears from the will that only a restricted interest was intended for him.

Bequest in alternative.

96. Where property is bequeathed to a person with a bequest in the alternative to another person or to a class of persons, then, if a contrary intention does not appear by the will, the legatee first named shall be entitled to the legacy if he is alive at the time when it takes effect; but if he is then dead, the person or class of persons named in the second branch of the alternative shall take the legacy.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequest is made to A or to B. A survives the testator. B takes nothing.

(ii) A bequest is made to A or to B. A dies after the date of the will, and before the testator. The legacy goes to B.

(iii) A bequest is made to A or to B. A is dead at the date of the will. The legacy goes to B.

(iv) Property is bequeathed to A or his heirs. A survives the testator. A takes the property absolutely.

(v) Property is bequeathed to A or his nearest of kin. A dies in the lifetime of the testator. Upon the death of the testator, the bequest to A's nearest of kin takes effect.

(vi) Property is bequeathed to A for life, and after his death to B or his heirs. A and B survive the testator. B dies in A's lifetime. Upon A's death the bequest to the heirs of B takes effect

(vii) Property is bequeathed to A for life, and after his death to B or his heirs. B dies in the testator's lifetime. A survives the testator. Upon A's death the bequest to the heirs of B takes effect.

Effect of words describing a class added to bequest to person.

97. Where property is bequeathed to a person, and words are added which describe a class of persons but do not denote them as direct objects of a distinct and independent gift, such person is entitled to the whole interest of the testator therein, unless a contrary intention appears by the will.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequest is made—to A and his children, to A and his children by his present wife,

to A and his heirs,
to A and the heirs of his body,
to A and the heirs male of his body,
to A and the heirs female of his body,
to A and his issue,
to A and his family.
to A and his descendants,
to A and his representatives, to A and his personal representatives, to A, his executors and administrators

In each of these cases, A takes the whole interest which the testator had in the property.

(ii) A bequest is made to A and his brothers. A and his brothers are jointly entitled to the legacy.

(iii) A bequest is made to A for life and after his death to his issue. At the death of A the property belongs in equal shares to all persons who then answer the description of issue of A.

Bequest to class of persons under general description only.

98. Where a bequest is made to a class of persons under a general description only, no one to whom the words of the description are not in their ordinary sense applicable shall take the legacy.

Construction of terms.

99. In a will—

(a) the word "children" applies only to lineal descendants in the first degree of the person whose "children" are spoken of;

(b) the word "grandchildren" applies only to lineal descendants in the second degree of the person whose "grandchildren" are spoken of;

(c) the words "nephews" and "nieces" apply only to children of brothers or sisters;

(d) the words "cousins," or "first cousins," or "cousins-german," apply only to children of brothers or of sisters of the father or mother of the person whose "cousins," or "first cousins," or "cousins-german," are spoken of;

(e) the words "first cousins once removed" apply only to children of cousins-german, or to cousins-german of a parent of the person whose "first cousins once removed" are spoken of;

(f) the words "second cousins" apply only to grandchildren of brothers or of sisters of the grandfather or grandmother of the person whose "second cousins" are spoken of;

(g) the words "issue" and "descendants" apply to all lineal descendants whatever of the person whose "issue" or "descendants" are spoken of;

(h) words expressive of collateral relationship apply alike to relatives of full and of half blood; and (i) all words expressive of relationship apply to a child in the womb who is afterwards born alive.

Words expressing relationship denote only legitimate relatives or failing such relatives reputed legitimate.

100. In the absence of any intimation to the contrary in a will, the word "child," the word "son," the word "daughter," or any word which expresses relationship, is to be understood as denoting only a legitimate relative, or, where there is no such legitimate relative, a person who has acquired, at the date of the will, the reputation of being such relative.

Illustrations.

(i) A having three children, B, C and D, of whom B and C are legitimate and D is illegitimate, leaves his property to be equally divided among "my children." The property belongs to B and C in equal shares, to the exclusion of D.

(ii) A, having a niece of illegitimate birth, who has acquired the reputation of being his niece, and having no legitimate niece, bequeaths a sum of money to his niece. The illegitimate niece is entitled to the legacy.

(iii) A, having in his will enumerated his children, and named as one of them B, who is illegitimate, leaves a legacy to "my said children." B will take a share in the legacy along with the legitimate children.

(iv) A leaves a legacy to "the children of B". B is dead and has left none but illegitimate children. All those who had at the date of the will acquired the reputation of being the children of B are objects of the gift.

(v) A bequeaths a legacy to "the children of B". B never had any legitimate child. C and D had, at the date of the will, acquired the reputation of being children of B. After the date of the will and before the death of the testator, E and F were born, and acquired the reputation of being children of B. Only C and D are objects of the bequest.

(vi) A makes a bequest in favour of his child by a certain woman, not his wife. B had acquired at the date of the will the reputation of being the child of A by the woman designated. B takes the legacy.

(vii) A makes a bequest in favour of his child to be born of a woman who never becomes his wife. The bequest is void.

(viii) A makes a bequest in favour of the child of which a certain woman, not married to him, is pregnant. The bequest is valid.

Rules of construction where will purports to make two bequests to same person.

101. Where a will purports to make two bequests to the same person, and a question arises whether the testator intended to make the second bequest instead of or in addition to the first; if there is nothing in the will to show what he intended, the following rules shall have effect in determining the construction to be put upon the will:—

(b) Where one and the same will or one and the same codicil purports to make, in two places, a bequest to the same person of the same quantity or amount of anything, he shall be entitled to one such legacy only.

(c) Where two legacies of unequal amount are given to the same person in the same will, or in the same codicil, the legatee is entitled to both.

(d) Where two legacies, whether equal or unequal in amount, are given to the same legatee, one by a will and the other by a codicil, or each by a different codicil, the legatee is entitled to both legacies.

Explanation.—In clauses (a) to (d) of this section, the word "will" does not include a codicil.

Illustrations.

(i) A, having ten shares, and no more, in the Imperial Bank of India, made his will, which contains near its commencement the words "I bequeath my ten shares in the Imperial Bank of India to B." After other bequests, the will concludes with the words "and I bequeath my ten shares in the Imperial Bank of India to B". B is entitled simply to receive A's ten shares in the Imperial Bank of India.

(ii) A, having one diamond ring, which was given him by B. bequeaths to C the diamond ring which was given by B A afterwards made a codicil to his will, and thereby, after giving other legacies, he bequeathed to C the diamond ring which was given him by B. C can claim nothing except the diamond ring which was given to A by B.

(iii) A, by his will, bequeaths to B the sum of 5 000 rupees and afterwards in the same will repeats the bequest in the same words. B is entitled to one legacy of 5,000 rupees only.

(iv) A, by his will, bequeaths to B the sum of 5,000 rupees and afterwards in the same will bequeaths to B the sum of 6,000 rupees. B is entitled to receive 11,000 rupees.

(v) A, by his will, bequeaths to B 5,000 rupees and by a codicil to the will he bequeaths to him 5,000 rupees. B is entitled to receive 10,000 rupees.

(vi) A, by one codicil to his will, bequeaths to B 5,000 rupees and by another codicil bequeaths to him 6,000 rupees. B is entitled to receive 11,000 rupees.

(vii) A, by his will, bequeaths " 500 rupees to B because she was my nurse," and in another part of the will bequeaths 500 rupees to B " because she went to England with my children." B is entitled to receive 1,000 rupees.

(viii) A, by his will, bequeaths to B the sum of 5,000 rupees and also, in another part of the will, an annuity of 400 rupees. B is entitled to both legacies.

(ix) A, by his will, bequeaths to B the sum of 5,000 rupees and also bequeaths to him the sum of 5,000 rupees if he shall attain the age of 18. B is entitled absolutely to one sum of 5,000 rupees, and takes a contingent interest in another sum of 5,000 rupees.

Constitution of residuary legatee.

102. A residuary legatee may be constituted by any words that show an intention on the part of the testator that the person designated shall take the surplus or residue of his property.

Illustrations.

(i) A makes her will, consisting of several testmentary papers, in one of which are contained the following words :—" I think there will be something left, after all funeral expenses, etc., to give to B, now at school, towards equipping him to any profession he may hereafter be appointed to". B is constituted residuary legatee.

(ii) A makes his will, with the following passage at the end of it :—" I believe there will be found sufficient in my banker's hands to defray and discharge my debts, which I hereby desire B to do, and keep the residue for her own use and pleasure". B is constituted the residuary legatee.

(iii) A bequeaths all his property to B, except certain stocks and funds, which he bequeaths to C. B is the residuary legatee.

Property to which residuary legatee entitled.

103. Under a residuary bequest, the legatee is entitled to all property belonging to the testator at the time of his death, of which he has not made any other testamentary disposition which is capable of taking effect.

Illustration.

A by his will bequeaths certain legacies, of which one is void under section 118, and another lapses by the death of the legatee. He bequeaths the residue of his property to B. After the date of his will A purchases a zamindari, which belongs to him at the time of his death. B is entitled to the two legacies and the zamindari as part of the residue.

Time of vesting legacy in general terms.

104. If a legacy is given in general terms without specifying the time when it is to be paid, the legatee has a vested interest in it from the day of the death of the testator, and, if he dies without having received it, it shall pass to his representatives.

In what case legacy lapses.

105. (1) If the legatee does not survive the testator, the legacy cannot take effect, but shall lapse and form part of the residue of the testator's property, unless it appears by the will that the testator intended that it should go to some other person.

(2) In order to entitle the representatives of the legatee to receive the legacy, it must be proved that he survived the testator.

Illustrations.

(i) The testator bequeaths to B "500 rupees which B owes me". B dies before the testator; the legacy lapses (ii) A bequest is made to A and his children. A dies before the testator, or happens to be dead when the will is made. The legacy to A and his children lapses.

(iii) A legacy is given to A, and, in case of his dying before the testator, to B. A dies before the testator. The legacy goes to B.

(iv) A sum of money is bequeathed to A for life, and after his death to B. A dies in the lifetime of the testator; B survives the testator. The bequest to B takes effect.

(v) A sum of money is bequeathed to A on his completing his eighteenth year, and in case he should die before he completes his eighteenth year, to B. A completes his eighteenth year, and dies in the lifetime of the testator. The legacy to A lapses and the bequest to B does not take effect.

(vi) The testator and the legatee perished in the same ship-wreck. There is no evidence to show which died first. The legacy lapses.

Legacy does not lapse if one of two joint legatees die before testator.

106. If a legacy is given to two persons jointly, and one of them dies before the testator, the other legatee takes the whole

Illustration.

The legacy is simply to A and B. A dies before the testator. B takes the legacy.

Effect of words showing testator's intention to give distinct shares.

107. If a legacy is given to legatees in words which show that the testator intended to give them distinct shares of it, then, if any legatee dies before the testator, so much of the legacy as was intended for him shall fall into the residue of the testator's property.

Illustration.

A sum of money is bequeathed to A, B and C, to be equally divided among them. A dies before the testator B and C will only take so much as they would have had if A had survived the testator.

When lapsed share goes as undisposed of

108. Where a share which lapses is a part of the general residue bequeathed by the will, that share shall go as undisposed of

Illustration.

The testator bequeaths the residue of his estate to A, B and C, to be equally divided between them. A dies before the testator. His one-third of the residue goes as undisposed of.

When bequest to testator's child or lineal descendant does not lapse on his death in testator's lifetime

109. Where a bequest has been made to any child or other lineal descendant of the testator, and the legatee dies in the lifetime of the testator, but any lineal descendant of his survives the testator, the bequest shall not lapse, but shall take effect as if the death of the legatee had happened immediately after the death of the testator, unless a contrary intention appears by the will.

Illustration.

A makes his will, by which he bequeaths a sum of money to his son, B, for his own absolute use and benefit. B dies before A, leaving a son, C, who survives A, and having made his will whereby he bequeaths all his property to his widow, D. The money goes to D.

Bequest to A for benefit of B does not lapse by A's death.

110. Where a bequest is made to one person for the benefit of another, the legacy does not lapse by the death, in the testator's lifetime, of the person to whom the bequest is made.

Survivorship in case of bequest to described class.

111. Where a bequest is made simply to a described class of persons, the thing bequeathed shall go only to such as are alive at the testator's death.

Exception.—If property is bequeathed to a class of persons described as standing in a particular degree of kindred to a specified individual, but their possession of it is deferred until a time later than the death of the testator by a reason of a prior bequest or otherwise, the property shall at that time go to such of them as are then alive, and to the representatives of any of them who have died since the death of the testator.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths 1,000 rupees to "the children of B" without saying when it is to be distributed among them. B had died previous to the date of the will, leaving three children, C, D and E. E died after the date of the will, but before the death of A. C and D survive A. The legacy will belong to C and D, to the exclusion of the representatives of E.

(ii) A lease for years of a house was bequeathed to A for his life, and after his decease to the children of B. At the death of the testator, B had two children living, C and D, and he never had any other child. Afterwards, during the lifetime of A, C died, leaving E, his executor. D has survived A. D and E are jointly entitled to so much of the lease-hold term as remains unexpired.

(iii) A sum of money was bequeathed to A for her life, and after her decease, to the children of B. At the death of the testator, B had two children living, C and D, and, after that event, two children, E and F, were born to B. C and E died in the lifetime of A, C having made a will, E having made no will. A has died, leaving D and F surviving her. The legacy is to be divided into four equal parts, one of which is to be paid to the executor of C, one to D, one to the administrator of E, and one to F.

(iv) A bequeaths one-third of his lands to B for his life, and after his decease to the sisters of B. At the death of the testator, B had two sisters living, C and D, and after that event another sister E was born. C died during the life of B, D and E have survived B. One-third of A's lands belong to D, E and the representatives of C, in equal shares.

(v) A bequeaths 1,000 rupees to B for life and after his death equally among the children of C. Up to the death of B, C had not had any child. The bequest after the death of B is void.

(vi) A bequeaths 1,000 rupees to "all the children born or to be born" of B to be divided among them at the death of C. At the death of the testator, B has two children living, D and E. After the death of the testator, but in the lifetime of C, two other children, F and G, are born to B. After the death of C, another child is born to B. The legacy belongs to D, E, F and G, to the exclusion of the after-born child of B.

(vii) A bequeaths a fund to the children of B, to be divided among them when the eldest shall attain majority. At the testator's death B had one child living, named C. He afterwards had two other children, named D and E. E died, but C and D were living when C attained majority. The fund belongs to C, D and the representatives of E, to the exclusion of any child who may be born to B after C's attaining majority.

CHAPTER VII.

Of void Bequests.

Bequest to a person by particular description, who is not in existence at testator's death.

112. Where a bequest is made to a person by a particular description, and there is no person in existence at the testator's death who answers the description, the bequest is void.

Exception.—If property is bequeathed to a person described as standing in a particular degree of kindred to a specified individual, but his possession of it is deferred until a time later than the death of the testator, by reason of a prior bequest or otherwise; and if a person answering the description is alive at the death of the testator, or comes into existence between that event and such later time, the property shall, at such later time, go to that person, or, if he is dead, to his representatives.

Illustrations

(i) A bequeaths 1,000 rupees to the eldest son of B. At the death of the testator, B has no son. The bequest is void.

(ii) A bequeaths 1,000 rupees to B for life, and after his death to the eldest son of C. At the death of the testator, C had no son. Afterwards, during the life of B, a son is born to C. Upon B's death the legacy goes to C's son.

(iii) A bequeaths 1,000 rupees to B for life, and after his death to the eldest son of C. At the death of the testator, C had no son. Afterwards, during the life of B, a son, named D, is born to C, D dies, then B dies. The legacy goes to the representative of D.

(iv) A bequeaths his estate of Green Acre to B for life, and at his decease, to the eldest son of C. Up to the death of B, C has had no son. The bequest to C's eldest son is void.

(v) A bequeaths 1,000 rupees to the eldest son of C, to be paid to him after the death of B. At the death of the testator, C has no son, but a son is afterwards born to him during the life of B and is alive at B's death. C's son is entitled to the 1,000 rupees.

Bequest to person not in existence at testator's death, subject to prior bequest.

113. Where a bequest is made to a person not in existence at the time of the testator's death, subject to a prior bequest contained in the will, the later bequest shall be void, unless it comprises the whole of the remaining interest of the testator in the thing bequeathed.

Illustrations.

(i) Property is bequeathed to A for his life, and after his death to his eldest son for life and after the death of the latter to his eldest son. At the time of the testator's death, A has no son. Here the bequest to A's eldest son is a bequest to a person not in existence at the testator's death. It is not a bequest of the whole interest that remains to the testator. The bequest to A's eldest son for his life is void.

(ii) A fund is bequeathed to A for his life, and after his death to his daughters. A survives the testator. A has daughters some of whom were not in existence at the testator's death. The bequest to A's daughters comprises the whole interest that remains to the testator in the thing bequeathed. The bequest to A's daughters is valid.

(iii) A fund is bequeathed to A for his life, and after his death to his daughters, with a direction that, if any of them marries under the age of eighteen, her portion shall be settled so that it may belong to herself for life and may be divisible among her children after her death. A has no daughters living at the time of the testator's death, but has daughters born afterwards who survive him. Here the direction for a settlement has the effect in the case of each daughter who marries under eighteen of substituting for the absolute bequest to her a bequest to her merely for her life; that is to say, a bequest to a person not in existence at the time of the testator's death of something which is less than the whole interest that remains to the testator in the thing bequeathed. The direction to settle the fund is void.

(iv) A bequeaths a sum of money to B for life, and directs that upon the death of B the fund shall be settled upon his daughter, so that the portion of each daughter may belong to herself for life, and may be divided among her children after her death. B has no daughter living at the time of the testator's death. In this case the only bequest to the daughters of B is contained in the direction to settle the fund, and this direction amounts to a bequest to persons not yet born, of a life-interest in the fund, that is to say, of something which is less than the whole interest that remains to the testator in the thing bequeathed. The direction to settle the fund upon the daughters of B is void.

Rule against perpetuity.

114. No bequest is valid whereby the vesting of the thing bequeathed may be delayed beyond the lifetime of one or more persons living at the testator's death and the minority of some persons who shall be in existence at the expiration of that period, and to whom, if he attains full age, the thing bequeathed is to belong.

Illustrations.

(i) A fund is bequeathed to A for his life and after his death to B for his life ; and after B's death to such of the sons of B as shall first attain the age of 25. A and B survive the testator. Here the son of B who shall first attain the age of 25 may be a son born after the death of the testator ; such son may not attain 25 until more than 18 years have elapsed from the death of the longer liver of A and B ; and the vesting of the fund may thus be delayed beyond the lifetime of A and B and the minority of the sons of B. The bequest after B's death is void.

(ii) A fund is bequeathed to A for his life, and after his death to B for his life, and after B's death to such of B's sons as shall first attain the age of 25. B dies in the lifetime of the testator, leaving one or more sons. In this case the sons of B are persons living at the time of the testator's decease, and the time when either of them will attain 25 necessarily falls within his own lifetime. The bequest is valid.

(iii) A fund is bequeathed to A for his life, and after his death to B for his life, with a direction that after B's death it shall be divided amongst such of B's children as shall attain the age of 18, but that, if no child of B shall attain that age, the fund shall go to C. Here the time for the division of the fund must arrive at the latest at the expiration of 18 years from the death of B, a person living at the testator's decease. All the bequests are valid.

(iv) A fund is bequeathed to trustees for the benefit of the testator's daughters, with a direction that, if any of them marry under age, her share of the fund shall be settled so as to devolve after her death upon such of her children as shall attain the age of 18. Any daughter of the testator to whom the direction applies must be in existence at his decease, and any portion of the fund which may eventually be settled as directed must vest not later than 18 years from the death of the daughters whose share it was. All these provisions are valid

Bequest to a class some of whom may come under rules in sections 113 and 114.

115. If a bequest is made to a class of persons with regard to some of whom it is inoperative by reason of the provisions of section 113 or section 114, such bequest shall be wholly void.

Illustrations.

(i) A fund is bequeathed to A for life, and after his death to all his children who shall attain the age of 25. A survives the testator, and has some children living at the testator's death Each child of A's living at the testator's death must attain the age of 25 (if at all) within the limits allowed for a bequest. But A may have children after the testator's decease, some of whom may not attain the age of 25 until more than 18 years have elapsed after the decease of A. The bequest to A's children, therefore, is inoperative as to any child born after the testator's death ; and, as it is given to all his children as a class it is not good as to any division of that class, but is wholly void.

(ii) A fund is bequeathed to A for his life, and after his death to B, C, D and all other children of A who shall attain the age of 25. B, C, D are children of A living at the testator's decease. In all other respects the case is the same as that supposed in Illustration (i). The mention of B, C and D by name does not prevent the bequest from being regarded as a bequest to a class, and the bequest is wholly void.

Bequest to take effect on failure of bequest void under section 113, 114 or 115.

116. Where a bequest is void by reason of any of the provisions of section 113, section 114, or section 115, any bequest contained in the same will, and intended to take effect after or upon failure of such prior bequest, is also void.

Illustrations.

(i) A fund is bequeathed to A for his life, and after his death to such of his sons as shall first attain the age of 25 for his life, and after the decease of such son to B. A and B survive the testator. The bequest to B is intended to take effect after the bequest to such of the sons of A as shall first attain the age of 25, which bequest is void under section 114. The bequest to B is void.

(ii) A fund is bequeathed to A for his life, and after his death to such of his sons as shall first attain the age of 25, and, if no son of A shall attain that age, to B. A and B survive the testator. The bequest to B is intended to take effect upon failure of the bequest to such of A's sons as shall first attain the age of 25, which bequest is void under section 114. The bequest to B is void.

Effect of direction for accumulation.

117. A direction to accumulate the income arising from any property shall be void; and the property shall be disposed of as if no accumulation had been directed.

Exception.—Where the property is immoveable, or where accumulation is directed to be made from the death of the testator, the direction shall be valid in respect only of the income arising from the property within one year next following the testator's death; and at the end of the year such property and income shall be disposed of respectively, as if the period during which the accumulation has been directed to be made had elapsed.

Illustrations.

(i) The will directs that the sum of 10,000 rupees shall be invested in Government securities, and the income accumulated for 20 years, and that the principal, together with the accumulations, shall then be divided between A, B and C. A, B and C are entitled to receive the sum of 10,000 rupees at the end of a year from the testator's death.

(ii) The will directs that 10,000 rupees shall be invested, and the income accumulated until A shall marry, and shall then be paid to him. A is entitled to receive 10,000 rupees at the end of a year from the testator's death.

(iii) The will directs that the rents of the farm of Sultanpur shall be accumulated for ten years, and that the accumulation shall be then paid to the eldest son of A. At the death of the testator, A has an eldest son living, named B. B will receive, at the end of one year from the testator's death, the rents which have accrued during the year, together with any interest which may have been made by investing them.

(iv) The will directs that the rents of the farm of Sultanpur shall be accumulated for ten years, and that the accumulation shall then be paid to the eldest son of A. At the death of the testator, A has no son. The bequest is void.

(v) A bequeaths a sum of money to B, to be paid to him when he shall attain the age of 18, and directs the interest to be accumulated till he shall arrive at that age. At A's death the legacy becomes vested in B; and so much of the interest as is not required for his maintenance and education is accumulated, not by reason of the direction contained in the will, but in consequence of B's minority.

Bequest to religious or charitable uses.

118. No man having a nephew or niece or any nearer relative shall have power to bequeath any property to religious or charitable uses, except by a will executed not less than twelve months before his death, and deposited within six months from its execution in some place provided by law for the safe custody of the wills of living persons.

Illustrations.

A having a nephew makes a bequest by a will not executed and deposited as required—for the relief of poor people; for the maintenance of sick soldiers;

for the erection or support of a hospital;
for the education and preferment of orphans;
for the support of scholars;
for the erection or support of a school;
for the building and repairs of a bridge;
for the making of roads;
for the erection or support of a church;
for the repairs of a church;
for the benefit of ministers of religion;
for the formation or support of a public garden;

All these bequests are void.

CHAPTER VIII.

Of the vesting of Legacies.

Date of vesting of legacy when payment or possession postponed.

119. Where by the terms of a bequest the legatee is not entitled to immediate possession of the thing bequeathed, a right to receive it at the proper time shall, unless a contrary intention appears by the will, become vested in the legatee on the testator's death, and shall pass to the legatee's representatives if he dies before that time and without having received the legacy, and in such cases the legacy is from the testator's death said to be vested in interest.

Explanation.—An intention that a legacy to any person shall not become vested in interest in him is not to be inferred merely from a provision whereby the payment or possession of the thing bequeathed is postponed, or whereby a prior interest therein is bequeathed to some other person, or whereby the income arising from the fund bequeathed is directed to be accumulated until the time of payment arrives, or from a provision that, if a particular event shall happen, the legacy shall go over to another person.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths to B 100 rupees, to be paid to him at the death of C. On A's death the legacy becomes vested in interest in B, and if he dies before C, his representatives are entitled to the legacy.

(ii) A bequeaths to B 100 rupees, to be paid to him upon his attaining the age of 18. On A's death the legacy becomes vested in interest in B.

(iii) A fund is bequeathed to A for life, and after his death to B. On the testator's death the legacy to B becomes vested in interest in B.

(iv) A fund is bequeathed to A until B attains the age of 18 and then to B. The legacy to B is vested in interest from the testator's death.

(v) A bequeaths the whole of his property to B upon trust to pay certain debts out of the income, and then to make over the fund to C. At A's death the gift to C becomes vested in interest in him.

(vi) A fund is bequeathed to A, B and C in equal shares to be paid to them on their attaining the age of 18, respectively, with a proviso that, if all of them die under the age of 18, the legacy shall devolve upon D. On the death of the testator, the shares vested in interest in A, B and C, subject to be divested in case A, B and C shall all die under 18, and, upon the death of any of them (except the last survivor) under the age of 18, his vested interest passes, so subject, to his representatives.

Date of vesting when legacy contingent upon specified uncertain event.

120. (1) A legacy bequeathed in case a specified uncertain event shall happen does not vest until that event happens.

(2) A legacy bequeathed in case a specified uncertain event shall not happen does not vest until the happening of that event becomes impossible.

(3) In either case, until the condition has been fulfilled, the interest of the legatee is called contingent.

Exception.—Where a fund is bequeathed to any person upon his attaining a particular age, and the will also gives to him absolutely the income to arise from the fund before he reaches that age, or directs the income, or so much of it as may be necessary, to be applied for his benefit, the bequest of the fund is not contingent.

Illustrations

(i) A legacy is bequeathed to D in case A, B and C shall all die under the age of 18. D has a contingent interest in the legacy until A, B and C all die under 18, or one of them attains that age.

(ii) A sum of money is bequeathed to A "in case he shall attain the age of 18," or "when he shall attain the age of 18." A's interest in the legacy is contingent until the condition is fulfilled by his attaining that age.

(iii) An estate is bequeathed to A for life, and after his death to B if B shall then be living; but if B shall not be then living to C. A, B and C survive the testator. B and C each take a contingent interest in the estate until the event which is to vest it in one or in the other has happened.

(iv) An estate is bequeathed as in the case last supposed. B dies in the lifetime of A and C. Upon the death of B, C acquires a vested right to obtain possession of the estate upon A's death.

(v) A legacy is bequeathed to A when she shall attain the age of 18, or shall marry under that age with the consent of B, with a proviso that, if she neither attains 18 nor marries under that age with B's consent, the legacy shall go to C. A and C each take a contingent interest in the legacy. A attains the age of 18. A becomes absolutely entitled to the legacy although she may have married under 18 without the consent of B.

(vi) An estate is bequeathed to A until he shall marry and after that event to B. B's interest in the bequest is contingent until the condition is fulfilled by A's marrying.

(vii) An estate is bequeathed to A until he shall take advantage of any law for the relief of insolvent debtors, and after that event to B. B's interest in the bequest is contingent until A takes advantage of such a law.

(viii) An estate is bequeathed to A if he shall pay 500 rupees to B. A's interest in the bequest is contingent until he has paid 500 rupees to B.

(ix) A leaves his farm of Sultanpur Khurd to B, if B shall convey his own farm of Sultanpur Buzurg to C. B's interest in the bequest is contingent until he has conveyed the latter farm to C.

(x) A fund is bequeathed to A if B shall not marry C within five years after the testator's death. A's interest in the legacy is contingent until the condition is fulfilled by the expiration of the five years without B's having married C, or by the occurrence within that period of an event which makes the fulfilment of the condition impossible.

(xi) A fund is bequeathed to A if B shall not make any provision for him by will. The legacy is contingent until B's death.

(xii) A bequeaths to B 500 rupees a year upon his attaining the age of 18, and directs that the interest, or a competent part thereof, shall be applied for his benefit until he reaches that age. The legacy is vested.

(xiii) A bequeaths to B 500 rupees when he shall attain the age of 18, and directs that a certain sum, out of another fund, shall be applied for his maintenance until he arrives at that age. The legacy is contingent.

Vesting of interest in bequest to such members of a class as shall have attained particular age.

121. Where a bequest is made only to such members of a class as shall have attained a particular age, a person who has not attained that age cannot have a vested interest in the legacy.

Illustration.

A fund is bequeathed to such of the children of A as shall attain the age of 18, with a direction that, while any child of A shall be under the age of 18, the income of the share, to which it may be presumed he will be eventually entitled, shall be applied for his maintenance and education. No child of A who is under the age of 18 has a vested interest in the bequest.

CHAPTER IX.

Of Onerous Bequests.

Onerous bequests.

122. Where a bequest imposes an obligation on the legatee, he can take nothing by it unless he accepts it fully.

Illustration.

A, having shares in (X), a prosperous joint stock company and also shares in (Y), a joint stock company in difficulties, in respect of which shares heavy calls are expected to be made, bequeaths to B all his shares in joint stock companies ; B refuses to accept the shares in (Y) He forfeits the shares in (X).

One of two separate and independent bequests to same person may be accepted, and other refused.

123. Where a will contains two separate and independent bequests to the same person, the legatee is at liberty to accept one of them and refuse the other, although the former may be beneficial and the latter onerous.

Illustration.

A, having a lease for a term of years of a house at a rent which he and his representatives are bound to pay during the term, and which is higher than the house can be let for, bequeaths to B the lease and a sum of money. B refuses to accept the lease. He will not by this refusal forfeit the money.

CHAPTER X.

Of Contingent Bequests.

Bequest contingent upon specified uncertain event, no time being mentioned for its occurrence.

124. Where a legacy is given if a specified uncertain event shall happen and no time is mentioned in the will for the occurrence of that event, the legacy cannot take effect, unless such event happens before the period when the fund bequeathed is payable or distributable.

Illustrations.

(i) A legacy is bequeathed to A, and, in case of his death, to B. If A survives the testator, the legacy to B does not take effect.

(ii) A legacy is bequeathed to A, and, in case of his death without children, to B. If A survives the testator or dies in his lifetime leaving a child, the legacy to B does not take effect.

(iii) A legacy is bequeathed to A when and if he attains the age of 18, and, in case of his death, to B. A attains the age of 18. The legacy to B does not take effect.

(iv) A legacy is bequeathed to A for life, and, after his death to B, and, " in case of B's death without children," to C. The words " in case of B's death without children " are to be understood as meaning in case B dies without children during the lifetime of A.

(v) A legacy is bequeathed to A for life, and, after his death to B, and, " in case of B's death," to C. The words " in case of B's death ", are to be considered as meaning " in case B dies in the lifetime of A."

Bequest to such of certain persons as shall be surviving at some period not specified.

125. Where a bequest is made to such of certain persons as shall be surviving at some period, but the exact period is not specified, the legacy shall go to such of them as are alive at the time of payment or distribution, unless a contrary intention appears by the will.

Illustrations.

(i) Property is bequeathed to A and B to be equally divided between them, or to the survivor of them. If both A and B survive the testator, the legacy is equally divided between them. If A dies before the testator, and B survives the testator, it goes to B.

(ii) Property is bequeathed to A for life, and, after his death, to B and C, to be equally divided between them, or to the survivor of them. B dies during the life of A ; C survives A. At A's death the legacy goes to C.

(iii) Property is bequeathed to A for life, and after his death to B and C, or the survivor, with a direction that, if B should not survive the testator, his children are to stand in his place; C dies during the life of the testator; B survives the testator, but dies in the lifetime of A. The legacy goes to the representative of B.

(iv) Property is bequeathed to A for life, and, after his death, to B and C, with a direction that, in case either of them dies in the lifetime of A, the whole shall go to the survivor. B dies in the lifetime of A. Afterwards C dies in the lifetime of A. The legacy goes to the representative of C.

CHAPTER XI.

Of Conditional Bequests.

126. A bequest upon an impossible condition is void.

Illustrations.

(i) An estate is bequeathed to A on condition that he shall walk 100 miles in an hour. The bequest is void.

(ii) A bequeaths 5,000 rupees to his niece if she will desert her husband. The bequest is void.

Fulfilment of condition precedent to vesting of legacy.

128. Where a will imposes a condition to be fulfilled before the legatee can take a vested interest in the thing bequeathed, the condition shall be considered to have been fulfilled if it has been substantially complied with.

Illustrations.

(i) A legacy is bequeathed to A on condition that he shall marry with the consent of B, C, D and E. A marries with the written consent of B. C is present at the marriage. D sends a present to A previous to the marriage. E has been personally informed by A of his intentions, and has made no objection. A has fulfilled the condition.

(ii) A legacy is bequeathed to A on condition that he shall marry with the consent of B, C and D. D dies. A marries with the consent of B and C. A has fulfilled the condition.

(iii) A legacy is bequeathed to A on condition that he shall marry with the consent of B, C and D. A marries in the lifetime of B, C and D, with the consent of B and C only. A has not fulfilled the condition.

(iv) A legacy is bequeathed to A on condition that he shall marry with the consent of B, C and D. A obtains the unconditional assent of B, C and D to his marriage with E. Afterwards B, C and D capriciously retract their consent. A marries E. A has fulfilled the condition.

(v) A legacy is bequeathed to A on condition that he shall marry with the consent of B, C and D. A marries without the consent of B, C and D, but obtains their consent after the marriage. A has not fulfilled the condition.

(vi) A makes his will whereby he bequeaths a sum of money to B if B shall marry with the consent of A's executors. B marries during the lifetime of A, and A afterwards expresses his approbation of the marriage. A dies. The bequest to B takes effect.

(vii) A legacy is bequeathed to A if he executes a certain document within a time specified in the will. The document is executed by A within a reasonable time, but not within the time specified in the will. A has not performed the condition, and is not entitled to receive the legacy.

Bequest to A and on failure of prior bequest to B.

129. Where there is a bequest to one person and a bequest of the same thing to another, if the prior bequest shall fail the second bequest shall take effect upon the failure of the prior bequest although the failure may not have occurred in the manner contemplated by the testator.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths a sum of money to his own children surviving him, and, if they all die under 18, to B. A dies without having ever had a child. The bequest to B takes effect.

(ii) A bequeaths a sum of money to B, on condition that he shall execute a certain document within three months after A's death, and, if he should neglect to do so, to C. B dies in the testator's lifetime. The bequest to C takes effect.

When second bequest not to take effect on failure of first.

130. Where the will shows an intention that the second bequest shall take effect only in the event of the first bequest failing in a particular manner, the second bequest shall not take effect, unless the prior bequest fails in that particular manner.

Illustrations.

A makes a bequest to his wife, but in case she should die in his lifetime, bequeaths to B that which he had bequeathed to her. A and his wife perish together, under circumstances which make it impossible to prove that she died before him, the bequest to B does not take effect.

Bequest over, conditional upon happening or not happening of specified uncertain event.

131. (1) A bequest may be made to any person with the condition superadded that, in case a specified uncertain event shall happen, the thing bequeathed shall go to another person, or that in case a specified uncertain event shall not happen, the thing bequeathed shall go over to another person.

(2) In each case the ulterior bequest is subject to the rules contained in sections 120, 121, 122, 123, 124, 125, 126, 127, 129 and 130.

Illustrations.

(i) A sum of money is bequeathed to A, to be paid to him at the age of 18, and if he shall die before he attains that age, to B. A takes a vested interest in the legacy, subject to be divested and to go to B in case A dies under 18.

(ii) An estate is bequeathed to A with a proviso that if A shall dispute the competency of the testator to make a will, the estate shall go to B A disputes the competency of the testator to make a will. The estate goes to B.

(iii) A sum of money is bequeathed to A for life, and, after his death, to B ; but if B shall then be dead, leaving a son, such son is to stand in the place of B. B takes a vested interest in the legacy, subject to be divested if he dies leaving a son in A's lifetime.

(iv) A sum of money is bequeathed to A and B, and if either should die during the life of C then to the survivor living at the death of C. A and B die before C. The gift over cannot take effect, but the representative of A takes one-half of the money, and the representative of B takes the other half.

(v) A bequeaths to B the interest of a fund for life, and directs the fund to be divided at her death equally among her three children, or such of them as shall be living at her death. All the children of B die in B's lifetime. The bequest over cannot take effect, but the interests of the children pass to their representatives.

Condition must be strictly fulfilled.

132. An ulterior bequest of the kind contemplated by section 131 cannot take effect, unless the condition is strictly fulfilled.

Illustrations.

(i) A legacy is bequeathed to A, with a proviso that, if he marries without the consent of B, C and D, the legacy shall go to E. D dies Even if A marries without the consent of B and C, the gift to E does not take effect.

(ii) A legacy is bequeathed to A, with a proviso that, if he marries without the consent of B, the legacy shall go to C. A marries with the consent of B. He afterwards becomes a widower and marries again without the consent of B. The bequest of C does not take effect.

(iii) A legacy is bequeathed to A, to be paid at 18, or marriage, with a proviso that, if A dies under 18 or marries without the consent of B, the legacy shall go to C. A marries under 18, without the consent of B. The bequest to C takes effect.

Original bequest affected by invalidity of second.

133. If the ulterior bequest be not valid, the original bequest is not affected by it.

Illustrations.

(i) An estate is bequeathed to A for his life with condition superadded that, if he shall not on a given day walk 100 miles in an hour, the estate shall go to B. The condition being void, A retains his estate as if no condition had been inserted in the will.

(ii) An estate is bequeathed to A for her life and, if she do not desert her husband, to B. A is entitled to the estate during her life as if no condition had been inserted in the will.

(iii) An estate is bequeathed to A for life, and, if he marries, to the eldest son of B for life. B, at the date of the testator's death, had not had a son. The bequest over is void under section 105, and A is entitled to the estate during his life.

Bequest conditioned that it shall cease to have effect in case a specified uncertain event shall happen, or not happen.

134. A bequest may be made with the condition superadded that it shall cease to have effect in case a specified uncertain event shall happen, or in case a specified uncertain event shall not happen.

Illustrations.

137. Where the will requires an act to be performed by the legatee within a specified time, either as a condition to be fulfilled before the legacy is enjoyed, or as a condition upon the non-fulfilment of which the subject-matter of the bequest is to go over to another person or the bequest is to cease to have effect, the act must be performed within the time specified, unless the performance of it be prevented by fraud, in which case such further time shall be allowed as shall be requisite to make up for the delay caused by such fraud.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths to B the interest of his 5 per cent. promissory notes of the Government of India. There is no other clause in the will affecting those securities. B is entitled to A's 5 per cent. promissory notes of the Government of India.

Illustrations.

(i) A bequeaths to B 500 rupees a year. B is entitled during his life to receive the annual sum of 500 rupees.

(ii) A bequeaths to B the sum of 500 rupees monthly. B is entitled during his life to receive the sum of 500 rupees every month.

Period of vesting where will directs that annuity be provided out of proceeds of property, or out of property generally, or where money bequeathed to be invested in purchase of annuity

174. Where the will directs that an annuity shall be provided for any person out of the proceeds of property, or out of property generally, or where money is bequeathed to be invested in the purchase of any annuity for any person, on the testator's death the legacy vests in interest in the legatee, and he is entitled at his option to have an annuity purchased for him or to receive the money appropriated for that purpose by the will.

Illustrations.

(i) A by his will directs that his executors shall, out of his property, purchase an annuity of 1,000 rupees for B. B is entitled at his option to have an annuity of 1,000 rupees for his life purchased for him, or to receive such a sum as will be sufficient for the purchase of such an annuity.

(ii) A bequeaths a fund to B for his life, and directs that after B's death, it shall be laid out in the purchase of an annuity for C. B and C survive the testator. C dies in B's lifetime. On B's death the fund belongs to the representative of C.

Where gift of annuity and residuary gift, whole annuity to be first satisfied.

176. Where there is a gift of an annuity and a residuary gift, the whole of the annuity is to be satisfied before any part of the residue is paid to the residuary legatee, and, if necessary, the capital of the testator's estate shall be applied for that purpose.

CHAPTER XXI.

Child primâ facie entitled to legacy as well as portion.

Illustration.

A, by articles entered into in contemplation of his marriage with B covenanted that he would pay to each of the daughters of the intended marriage a portion of 20,000 rupees on her marriage. 179. No bequest shall be wholly or partially adeemed by a subsequent provision made by settlement or otherwise for the legatee.

Illustrations

(i) A bequeaths 20,000 rupees to his son B. He afterwards gives to B the sum of 20,000 rupees. The legacy is not thereby adeemed.

(ii) A bequeaths 40,000 rupees to B, his orphan niece whom he had brought up from her infancy. Afterwards, on the occasion of B's marriage, A settles upon her the sum of 30,000 rupees. The legacy is not thereby diminished.

CHAPTER XXII.

Of Election.

Circumstances in which election takes place.

180. Where a person, by his will, professes to dispose of something which he has no right to dispose of, the person to whom the thing belongs shall elect either to confirm such disposition or to dissent from it, and in the latter case, he shall give up any benefits which may have been provided for him by the will.

Devolution of interest relinquished by owner.

181. An interest relinquished in the circumstances stated in section 180 shall devolve as if it had not been disposed of by the will in favour of the legatee, subject, nevertheless, to the charge of making good to the disappointed legatee the amount or value of the gift attempted to be given to him by the will.

Testator's belief as to his ownership immaterial.

182. The provisions of sections 180 and 181 apply whether the testator does or does not believe that which he professes to dispose of by his will to be his own.

Illustrations.

(i) The farm of Sultanpur was the property of C. A bequeathed it to B, giving a legacy of 1,000 rupees to C. C has elected to retain his farm of Sultanpur, which is worth 800 rupees. C forfeits his legacy of 1,000 rupees, of which 800 rupees goes to B, and the remaining 200 rupees falls into the residuary bequest, or devolves according to the rules of intestate succession, as the case may be.

(ii) A bequeaths an estate to B in case B's elder brother (who is married and has children) shall leave no issue living at his death. A also bequeaths to C a jewel, which belongs to B. B must elect to give up the jewel or to lose the estate.

(iii) A bequeaths to B 1,000 rupees, and to C an estate which will, under a settlement, belong to B if his elder brother (who is married and has children) shall leave no issue living at his death. B must elect to give up the estate or to lose the legacy.

(iv) A, a person of the age of 18, domiciled in British India but owning real property in England, to which C is heir at law, bequeaths a legacy to C and, subject thereto, devises and bequeaths to be "all my property whatsoever and wheresoever," and dies under 21. The real property in England does not pass by the will. C may claim his legacy without giving up the real property in England.

Bequest for man's benefit how regarded for purpose of election.

183. A bequest for a prson's benefit is, for the purpose of election, the same thing as a bequest made to himself.

Illustration.

The farm of Sultanpur Khurd being the property of B. A. bequeathed it to C: and bequeathed another farm called Sultanpur Buzurg to his own executors with a direction that it should be sold and the proceeds applied in payment of B's debts. B must elect whether he will abide by the will, or keep his farm of Sultanpur Khurd in opposition to it.

Person deriving benefit indirectly not put to election.

184. A person taking no benefit directly under a will, but deriving a benefit under it indirectly, is not put to his election.

Illustration.

The lands of Sultanpur are settled upon C for life, and after his death upon D, his only child. A bequeaths the lands of Sultanpur to B, and 1,000 rupees to C, C dies intestate shortly after the testator, and without having made any election. D takes out administration to C, and as administrator elects on behalf of C's estate to take under the will. In that capacity he receives the legacy of 1,000 rupees and accounts to B for the rents of the lands of Sultanpur which accrued after the death of the testator and before the death of C. In his individual character he retains the lands of Sultanpur in opposition to the will.

Person taking in individual capacity under will may in other character elect to take in opposition.

185. A person who in his individual capacity takes a benefit under a will may, in another character, elect to take in opposition to the will.

Illustration.

The estate of Sultanpur is settled upon A for life, and after his death, upon B. A leaves the estate of Sultanpur to D, and 2,000 rupees to B, and 1,000 rupees to C, who is B's only child. B dies intestate, shortly after the testator, without having made an election. C takes out administration to B, and as administrator elects to keep the estate of Sultanpur in opposition to the will, and to relinquish the legacy of 2,000 rupees. C may do this, and yet claim his legacy of 1,000 rupees under the will.

Exception to provisions of last six sections.

186. Notwithstanding anything contained in sections 180 to 185, where a particular gift is expressed in the will to be in lieu of something belonging to the legatee which is also in terms disposed of by the will, then, if the legatee claims that thing, he must relinquish the particular gift, but he is not bound to relinquish any other benefit given to him by the will.

Illustration.

Under A's marriage-settlement his wife is entitled, if she survives him, to the enjoyment of the estate of Sultanpur during her life. A by his will bequeaths to his wife an annuity of 200 rupees during her life, in lieu of her interest in the estate of Sultanpur, which estate he bequeaths to his son. He also gives his wife a legacy of 1,000 rupees. The widow elects to take what she is entitled to under the settlement. She is bound to relinquish the annuity but not the legacy of 1,000 rupees.

When acceptance of benefit given by will constitutes election to take under will.

187. Acceptance of a benefit given by a will constitutes an election by the legatee to take under the will, if he had knowledge of his right to elect and of those circumstances which would influence the judgment of a reasonable man in making an election, or if he waives inquiry into the circumstances.

Illustrations.

(i) A is owner of an estate called Sultanpur Khurd, and has a life interest in another estate called Sultanpur Buzurg to which upon his death his son B will be absolutely entitled. The will of A gives the estate of Sultanpur Khurd to B, and the estate of Sultanpur Buzurg to C. B, in ignorance of his own right to the estate of Sultanpur Buzurg, allows C to take possession of it, and enters into possession of the estate of Sultanpur Khurd. B has not confirmed the bequest of Sultanpur Buzurg to C.

(ii) B, the eldest son of A, is the possessor of an estate called Sultanpur. A bequeaths Sultanpur to C, and to B the residue of A's property. B having been informed by A's executors that the residue will amount to 5,000 rupees allows C to take possession of Sultanpur. He afterwards discovers that the residue does not amount to more than 500 rupees. B has not confirmed the bequest of the estate of Sultanpur to C.

Circumstances in which knowledge or waiver is presumed or inferred.

188. (1) Such knowledge or waiver of inquiry shall, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, be presumed if the legatee has enjoyed for two years the benefits provided for him by the will without doing any act to express dissent.

(2) Such knowledge or waiver of enquiry may be inferred from any act of the legatee which renders it impossible to place the persons interested in the subject-matter of the bequest in the same condition as if such act had not been done.

Illustration.

A bequeaths to B an estate to which C is entitled, and to C a coal-mine. C takes possession of the mine and exhausts it. He has thereby confirmed the bequest of the estate to B.

When testator's representatives may call upon legatee to elect.

189. If the legatee does not, within one year after the death of the testator, signify to the testator's representatives his intention to confirm or to dissent from the will, the representatives shall, upon the expiration of that period, require him to make his election; and, if he does not comply with such requisition within a reasonable time after he has received it, he shall be deemed to have elected to confirm the will.

Postponement of election in case of disability.

190. In case of disability the election shall be postponed until the disability ceases, or until the election is made by some competent authority.

CHAPTER XXIII.

Of Gifts in Contemplation of Death.

Property transferable by gift made in contemplation of death.

191. (1) A man may dispose, by gift made in contemplation of death, of any moveable property which he could dispose of by will.

(2) A gift is said to be made in contemplation of death where a man, who is ill and expects to die shortly of his illness, delivers to another the possession of any moveable property to keep as a gift in case the donor shall die of that illness.

(3) Such a gift may be resumed by the giver; and shall not take effect if he recovers from the illness during which it was made; nor if he survives the person to whom it was made.

Illustrations.

(i) A, being ill, and in expectation of death delivers to B, to be retained by him in case of A's death,—

a bond granted by C to A :

a promissory note of the Government of India endorsed in blank :

a bill of exchange endorsed in blank :

certain mortgage-deeds.

A dies of the illness during which he delivered these articles.

B is entitled to—

the debt secured by C's bond :

the bank-note :

the promissory note of the Government of India :

the bill of exchange :

the money secured by the mortgage deeds.

(ii) A, being ill, and in expectation of death, delivers to B the key of a trunk or the key of a warehouse in which goods of bulk belonging to A are deposited, with the intention of giving him the control over the contents of the trunk, or over the deposited goods, and desires him to keep them in case of A's death. A dies of the illness during which he delivered these articles. B is entitled to the trunk and its contents or to A's goods of bulk in the warehouse.

(iii) A, being ill, and in expectation of death, puts aside certain articles in separate parcels and marks upon the parcels respectively the names of B and C. The parcels are not delivered during the life of A. A dies of the illness during which he set aside the parcels. B and C are not entitled to the contents of the parcels.

PART VII.

PROTECTION OF PROPERTY OF DECEASED.

Person claiming right by succession to property of deceased may apply for relief against wrongful possession.

192. (1) If any person dies leaving property, moveable or immoveable, any person claiming a right by succession thereto, or to any portion thereof, may make application to the District Judge of the district where any part of the property is found or situate for relief, either after actual possession has been taken by another person, or when forcible means of seizing possession are apprehended.

(2) Any Agent, relative or near friend, or the Court of Wards in cases within their cognizance, may, in the event of any minor, or any disqualified or absent person being entitled by succession to such property as aforesaid, make the like application for relief.

Inquiry made by Judge.

193. The District Judge to whom such application is made shall, in the first place, examine the applicant on oath, and may make such further inquiry, if any, as he thinks necessary as to whether there is sufficient ground for believing that the party in possession or taking forcible means for seizing possession has no lawful title, and that the applicant, or the person on whose behalf he applies, is really entitled and is likely to be materially prejudiced if left to the ordinary remedy of a suit, and that the application is made bonâ fide.

Procedure.

194. If the District Judge is satisfied that there is sufficient ground for believing as aforesaid but not otherwise, he shall summon the party complained of, and give notice of vacant or disturbed possession by publication, and, after the expiration of a reasonable time, shall determine summarily the right to possession (subject to a suit as hereinafter provided) and shall deliver possession accordingly :

Provided that the Judge shall have the power to appoint an officer who shall take an inventory of effects, and seal or otherwise secure the name, upon being applied to for the purpose, without delay, whether he shall have concluded the inquiry necessary for summoning the party complained of or not.

Appointment of curator pending determination of proceeding.

195. If it further appears upon such inquiry as aforesaid that danger is to be apprehended of the misappropriation or waste of the property before the summary proceeding can be determined, and that the delay in obtaining security from the party in possession or the insufficiency thereof is likely to expose the party out of possession to considerable risk, provided he is the lawful owner, the District Judge may appoint one or more curators whose authority shall continue according to the terms of his or their respective appointments, and in no case beyond the determination of the summary proceeding and the confirmation or delivery of possession in consequence thereof :

Provided that, in the case of land, the Judge may delegate to the Collector, or to any officer subordinate to the Collector, the powers of a curator :

Provided, further, that every appointment of a curator in respect of any property shall be duly published.

Powers conferable on curator.

196. The District Judge may authorise the curator to take possession of the property either generally, or until security is given by the party in possession, or until inventories of the property have been made, or for any other purpose necessary for securing the property from misappropriation or waste by the party in possession :

Provided that it shall be in the discretion of the Judge to allow the party in possession to continue in such possession on giving security or not, and any continuance in possession shall be subject to such orders as the Judge may issue touching inventories, or the securing of deeds or other effects.

Prohibition of exercise of certain powers by curators. Payment of debts, etc., to curator.

197. (1) Where a certificate has been granted under Part X or under the Succession Certificate Act, 1889, or a grant of probate or letters of administration has been made, a curator appointed under this Part shall not exercise any authority lawfully belonging to the holder of the certificate or to the executor or administrator. VII of 1889.

(2) All persons who have paid debts or rents to a curator authorised by a Court to receive them shall be indemnified, and the curator shall be responsible for the payment thereof to the person who has obtained the certificate, probate or letters of administration, as the case may be.

Curator to give security and may receive remuneration.

198. (1) The District Judge shall take from the curator security for the faithful discharge of his trust, and for rendering satisfactory accounts of the same as hereinafter provided, and may authorise him to receive out of the property such remuneration, in no case exceeding five per centum on the moveable property and on the annual profits of the immoveable property, as the District Judge thinks reasonable.

(2) All surplus money realized by the curator shall be paid into Court, and invested in public securities for the benefit of the persons entitled thereto upon adjudication of the summary proceeding.

(3) Security shall be required from the curator with all reasonable despath, and, where it is practicable, shall be taken generally to answer all cases for which the person may be afterwards appointed curator; but no delay in the taking of security shall prevent the Judge from immediately investing the curator with the powers of his office.

Report from Collector where estate includes revenue-paying land.

199. (1) Where the estate of the deceased person consists wholly or in part of land paying revenue to Government, in all matters regarding the propriety of summoning the party in possession, of appointing a curator, or of nominating individuals to that appointment, the District Judge shall demand a report from the Collector, and the Collector shall thereupon furnish the same:

Provided that in cases of urgency the Judge may proceed, in the first instance, without such report.

(2) The Judge shall not be obliged to act in conformity with any such report, but in case of his acting otherwise than according to such report, he shall immediately forward a statement of his reasons to the High Court, and the High Court, if it is dissatisfied with such reasons, shall direct the Judge to proceed conformably to the report of the Collector.

Institution and defence of suits.

200. The curator shall be subject to all orders of the District Judge regarding the institution or the defence of suits, and all suits may be instituted or defended in the name of the curator on behalf of the estate:

Provided that an express authority shall be requisite in the order of the curator's appointment for the collection of debts or rents: but such express authority shall enable the curator to give a full acquittance for any sums of money received by virtue thereof.

Allowances to apparent owners pending custody by curator.

201. Pending the custody of the property by the curator, the District Judge may make such allowances to parties having a primâ facie right thereto as upon a summary investigation of the rights and circumstances of the parties interested he considers necessary, and may, at his discretion, take security for the repayment thereof with interest, in the event of the party being found, upon the adjudication of the summary proceeding, not to be entitled thereto.

Accounts to be filed by curator.

202. The curator shall file monthly accounts in abstract, and shall, on the expiry of each period of three months, if his administration lasts so long, and upon giving up the possession of the property, file a detailed account of his administration to the satisfaction of the District Judge.

Inspection of accounts and right of interested party to keep duplicate.

203. (1) The accounts of the curator shall be open to the inspection of all parties interested; and it shall be competent for any such interested party to appoint a separate person to keep a duplicate account of all receipts and payments by the curator.

(2) If it is found that the accounts of the curator are in arrear, or that they are erroneous or incomplete, or if the curator does not produce them whenever he is ordered to do so by the District Judge, he shall be punishable with fine not exceeding one thousand rupees for every such default.

Bar to appointment of second curator for same property.

204. If the Judge of any district has appointed a curator, in respect of the whole of the property of a deceased person, such appointment shall preclude the Judge of any other district within the same province from appointing any other curator, but the appointment of a curator in respect of a portion of the property of the deceased shall not preclude the appointment within the same province of another curator in respect of the residue or any portion thereof:

Provided that no Judge shall appoint a curator or entertain a summary proceeding in respect of property which is the subject of a summary proceeding previously instituted under this Part before another Judge:

Provided, further, that if two or more curators are appointed by different Judges for several parts of an estate, the High Court may make such order as it thinks fit for the appointment of one curator of the whole property.

Limitation of time for application for curator.

205. An application under this Part to the District Judge must be made within six months of the death of the proprietor whose property is claimed by right in succession.

Bar to enforcement of Part against public settlement or legal directions by deceased

206. Nothing in this Part shall be deemed to authorise the contravention of any public act of settlement or of any legal directions given by a deceased proprietor of any property for the possession of his property after his decease in the event of minority or otherwise, and, in every such case, as soon as the Judge having jurisdiction over the property of a deceased person is satisfied of the existence of such directions, he shall give effect thereto.

Court of Wards to be made curator in case of minors having property subject to its jurisdiction.

207. Nothing in this Part shall be deemed to authorise any disturbance of the possession of a Court of Wards of any property; and in case a minor, or other disqualified person whose property is subject to the Court of Wards, is the party on whose behalf application is made under this Part, the District Judge, if he determines to summon the party in possession and to appoint a curator, shall invest the Court of Wards with the curatorship of the estate pending the proceeding without taking security as aforesaid; and if the minor or other disqualified person, upon the adjudication of the summary proceeding, appears to be entitled to the property, possession shall be delivered to the Court of Wards.

Saving of right to bring suit.

208. Nothing contained in this Part shall be any impediment to the bringing of a suit either by the party whose application may have been rejected before or after the summoning of the party in possession, or by the party who may have been evicted from the possession under this Part.

Effect of decision of summary proceeding.

209. The decision of a District Judge in a summary proceeding under this part shall have no other effect than that of settling the actual possession ; but for this purpose it shall be final, and shall not be subject to any appeal or review.

Appointment of public curators

210. The Local Government may appoint public curators for any district or number of districts ; and the District Judge having jurisdiction shall nominate such public curators in all cases where the choice of a curator is left discretionary with him under this Part.

PART VIII.

CHAPTER I.

Of Grant of Probate and Letters of Administration.

To whom administration may be granted, where deceased is a Hindu, Muhammadan, Buddhist, Sikh, Jaina or exempted person.

218. (1) If the deceased has died intestate and was a Hindu, Muhammadan, Buddhist, Sikh or Jaina or an exempted person, administration of his estate may be granted to any person who, according to the rules for the distribution of the estate applicable in the case of such deceased would be entitled to the whole or any part of such deceased's estate.

(2) When several such persons apply for such administration, it shall be in the discretion of the Court to grant it to any one or more of them.

(3) When no such person applies, it may be granted to a creditor of the deceased.

Where deceased is not a Hindu, Muhammadan, Buddhist, Sikh, Jaina or exempted person.

219. If the deceased has died intestate and was not a person belonging to any of the classes referred to in section 218, those who are connected with him, either by marriage or by consanguinity, are entitled to obtain letters of administration of his estate and effects in the order and according to the rules hereinafter stated, namely:—

(a) If the deceased has left a widow, administration shall be granted to the widow, unless the Court sees cause to exclude her, either on the ground of some personal disqualification, or because she has no interest in the estate of the deceased.

Illustrations.

(i) The widow is a lunatic or has committed adultery or has been barred by her marriage settlement of all interest in her husband's estate. There is cause for excluding her from the administration.

(ii) The widow has married again since the decease of her husband. This is not good cause for her exclusion.

(b) If the Judge thinks proper, he may associate any person or persons with the widow in the administration who would be entitled solely to the administration if there were no widow.

(c) If there is no widow, or if the Court sees cause to exclude the widow, it shall commit the administration to the person or persons who would be beneficially entitled to the estate according to the rules for the distribution of an intestate's estate:

Provided that, when the mother of the deceased is one of the class of persons so entitled, she shall be solely entitled to administration.

(d) Those who stand in equal degree of kindred to the deceased are equally entitled to administration.

(e) The husband surviving his wife has the same right of administration of her estate as the widow has in respect of the estate of her husband.

(f) When there is no person connected with the deceased by marriage or consanguinity who is entitled to letters of administration and willing to act, they may be granted to a creditor.

(g) Where the deceased has left property in British India, letters of administration shall be granted according to the foregoing rules, notwithstanding that he had his domicile in a country in which the law relating to testate and intestate succession differs from the law of British India.

Effect of letters of administration.

220. Letters of administration entitle the administrtor to all rights belonging to the intestate as effectually as if the administration had been granted at the moment after his death.

Acts not validated by administration.

351. Where no time has been fixed for the payment of a general legacy, interest begins to run from expiration of one year from the testator's death.

Exception.—(1) Where the legacy is bequeathed in satisfaction of a debt, interest runs from the death of the testator.

(2) Where the testator was a parent or a more remote ancestor of the legatee, or has put himself in the place of a parent of the legatee, the legacy shall bear interest from the death of the testator.

(3) Where a sum is bequeathed to a minor with a direction to pay for his maintenance out of it, interest is payable from the death of the testator.

Interest when time fixed.

352. Where a time has been fixed for the payment of a general legacy, interest begins to run from the time so fixed. The interest up to such time forms part of the residue of the testator's estate.

Exception.—Where the testator was a parent or a more remote ancestor of the legatee, or has put himself in the place of a parent of the legatee and the legatee is a minor, the legacy shall bear interest from the death of the testator, unless a specific sum is given by the will for maintenance or unless the will contains a direction to the contrary.

Rate of interest.

353. The rate of interest shall be four per cent. per annum in all cases except when the testator was a Hindu, Muhammadan, Buddhist, Sikh or Jaina or an exempted person, in which case it shall be six per cent. per annum.

No interest on arrears of annuity within first year after testator's death.

354. No interest is payable on the arrears of an annuity within the first year from the death of the testator, although a period earlier than the expiration of that year may have been fixed by the will for making the first payment of the annuity.

Interest on sum to be invested to produce annuity

355. Where a sum of money is directed to be invested to produce an annuity, interest is payable on it from the death of the testator.

CHAPTER XII.

Of the Refunding of Legacies

Refund of legacy paid under Court's orders.

356. When an executor or administrator has paid a legacy under the order of a Court, he is entitled to call upon the legatee to refund in the event of the assets proving insufficient to pay all the legacies.

No refund if paid voluntarily.

357. When an executor or administrator has voluntarily paid a legacy, he cannot call upon a legatee to refund in the event of the assets proving insufficient to pay all the legacies.

Refund when legacy has become due on performance of condition within further time allowed under section 137.

358. When the time prescribed by the will for the performance of a condition has elapsed, without the condition having been performed, and the executor or administrator has thereupon, without fraud, distributed the assets; in such case, if further time has been allowed under section 137 for the performance of the condition and the condition has been performed accordingly, the legacy cannot be claimed from the executor or administrator, but those to whom he has paid it are liable to refund the amount.

When each legatee compellable to refund in proportion

359. When the executor or administrator has paid away the assets in legacies, and he is afterwards obliged to discharge a debt of which he had no previous notice, he is entitled to call upon each legatee to refund in proportion.

Distribution of assets.

360. Where an executor or administrator has given such notices as the High Court may, by any general rule, prescribe or, if no such rule has been made, as the High Court would give in an administration suit, for creditors and others to send in to him their claims against the estate of the deceased, he shall, at the expiration of the time therein named for sending in claims, be at liberty to distribute the assets, or any part thereof, in discharge of such lawful claims as he knows of, and shall not be liable for the assets so distributed to any person of whose claim he shall not have had notice at the time of such distribution:

Provided that nothing herein contained shall prejudice the right of any creditor or claimant to follow the assets or any part thereof, in the hands of the persons who may have received the same respectively.

Creditor may call upon legatee to refund

361. A creditor who has not received payment of his debt may call upon a legatee who has received payment of his legacy to refund, whether the assets of the testator's estate were or were not sufficient at the time of his death to pay both debts and legacies; and whether the payment of the legacy by the executor or administrator was voluntary or not.

When legatee, not satisfied or compelled to refund under section 361, cannot oblige one paid in full to refund.

362. If the assets were sufficient to satisfy all the legacies at the time of the testator's death, a legatee who has not received payment of his legacy, or who has been compelled to refund under section 361, cannot oblige one who has received payment in full to refund, whether the legacy were paid to him with or without suit, although the assets have subsequently become deficient by the wasting of the executor.

When unsatisfied legatee must first proceed against executor, if solvent.

363. If the assets were not sufficient to satisfy all the legacies at the time of the testator's death, a legatee who has not recieved payment of his legacy must, before he can call on a satisfied legatee to refund, first proceed against the executor or administrator if he is solvent; but if the executor or administrator is insolvent or not liable to pay, the unsatisfied legatee can oblige each satisfied legatee to refund in proportion.

Limit to refunding of one legatee to another.

364. The refunding of one legatee to another shall not exceed the sum by which the satisfied legacy ought to have been reduced if the estate had been properly administered.

Illustration.

A has bequeathed 240 rupees to B, 480 rupees to C, and 720 rupees to D. The assets are only 1,200 rupees and, if properly administered, would give 200 rupees to B, 400 rupees to C, and 600 rupees to D. C and D have been paid their legacies in full, leaving nothing to B. B can oblige C to refund 80 rupees, and D to refund 120 rupees.

Refunding to be without interest.

365. The refunding shall in all cases be without interest.

Residue after usual payments to be paid to residuary legatee.

366. The surplus or residue of the deceased's property, after payment of debts and legacies, shall be paid to the residuary legatee when any has been appointed by the will.

Transfer of assets from British India to executor or administrator in country of domicile for distribution.

367. Where a person not having his domicile in British India has died leaving assets both in British India and in the country in which he had his domicile at the time of his death, and there has been a grant of probate or letters of administration in British India with respect to the assets there and a grant of administration in the country of domicile with respect to the assets in that country, the executor or administrator, as the case may be, in British India, after having given such notices as are mentioned in section 360, and after having discharged, at the expiration of the time therein named, such lawful claims as he knows of, may, instead of himself distributing any surplus or residue of the deceased's property to persons residing out of British India who are entitled thereto, transfer, with the consent of the executor or administrator, as the case may be, in the country of domicile, the surplus or residue to him for distribution to those persons.

CHAPTER XIII.

Of the Liability of an Executor or Administrator for Devastation.

Liability of executor or administrator for devastation.

368. When an executor or administrator misapplies the estate of the deceased, or subjects it to loss or damage, he is liable to make good the loss or damage so occasioned.

Illustrations.

(i) The executor pays out of the estate an unfounded claim. He is liable to make good the loss.

(ii) The deceased had a valuable lease renewable by notice which the executor neglects to give at the proper time. The executor is liable to make good the loss.

(iii) The deceased had a lease of less value than the rent payable for it, but terminable on notice at a particular time. The executor neglects to give the notice. He is liable to make good the loss.

Liability of executor or administrator for neglect to get in any part of property.

369. When an executor or administrator occasions a loss to the estate by neglecting to get in any part of the property of the deceased, he is liable to make good the amount.

Illustrations.

(i) The executor absolutely releases a debt due to the deceased from a solvent person, or compounds with a debtor who is able to pay in full. The executor is liable to make good the amount.

(ii) The executor neglects to sue for a debt till the debtor is able to plead that the claim is barred by limitation and the debt is thereby lost to the estate. The executor is liable to make good the amount.

PART X.

SUCCESSION CERTIFICATES.

Restriction on grant of certificates under this Part.

370. (1) A succession certificate (hereinafter in this Part referred to as a certificate) shall not be granted under this Part with respect to any debt or security to which a right is required by section 212 or section 213 to be established by letters of administration or probate:

Provided that nothing contained in this section shall be deemed to prevent the grant of a certificate to any person claiming to be entitled to the effects of a deceased Indian Christian, or to any part thereof, with respect to any debt or security, by reason that a right thereto can be established by letters of administration under this Act.

(2) For the purposes of this Part, "security" means—

(a) any promissory note, debenture, stock or other security of the Government of India or of a Local Government;

(b) any bond, debenture, or annuity charged by Act of Parliament on the revenues of India;

(c) any stock or debenture of, or share in, a company or other incorporated institution;

(d) any debenture or other security for money issued by, or on behalf of, a local authority;

(e) any other security which the Governor General in Council may, by notification in the Gazette of India, declare to be a security for the purposes of this Part.

Court having jurisdiction to grant certificate

371. The District Judge within whose jurisdiction the deceased ordinarily resided at the time of his death, or, if at that time he had no fixed place of residence, the District Judge, within whose jurisdiction any part of the property of the deceased may be found, may grant a certificate under this Part.

Application for certificate.

372. (1) Application for such a certificate shall be made to the District Judge by a petition signed and verified by or on behalf of the applicant in the manner prescribed by the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, for the signing and verification of a plaint by or on behalf of a plaintiff, and setting forth the following particulars, namely:— V of 1908.

(a) the time of the death of the deceased;

(b) the ordinary residence of the deceased at the time of his death and, if such residence was not within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Judge to whom the application is made, then the property of the deceased within those limits;

(c) the family or other near relatives of the deceased and their respective residences;

(d) the right in which the petitioner claims;

(f) the debts and securities in respect of which the certificate is applied for.

(2) If the petition contains any averment which the person verifying it knows or believes to be false, or does not believe to be true, that person shall be deemed to have committed an offence under section 198 of the Indian Penal Code. XLV of 1860.

Procedure on application.

373. (1) If the District Judge is satisfied that there is ground for entertaining the application, he shall fix a day for the hearing thereof and cause notice of the application and of the day fixed for the hearing—

(a) to be served on any person to whom, in the opinion of the Judge, special notice of the application should be given, and

(b) to be posted on some conspicuous part of the court-house and published in such other manner, if any, as the Judge, subject to any rules made by the High Court in this behalf, thinks fit, and upon the day fixed, or as soon thereafter as may be practicable, shall proceed to decide in a summary manner the right to the certificate.

(2) When the Judge decides the right thereto to belong to the applicant, the Judge shall make an order for the grant of the certificate to him.

(3) If the Judge cannot decide the right to the certificate without determining questions of law or fact which seem to him to be too intricate and difficult for determination in a summary proceeding, he may nevertheless grant a certificate to the applicant if he appears to be the person having primâ facie the best title thereto.

(4) When there are more applicants than one for a certificate, and it appears to the Judge that more than one of such applicants are interested in the estate of the deceased, the Judge may, in deciding to whom the certificate is to be granted, have regard to the extent of interest and the fitness in other respects of the applicants.

Contents of certificate.

374. When the District Judge grants a certificate, he shall therein specify the debts and securities set forth in the application for the certificate, and may thereby empower the person to whom the certificate is granted—

(a) to receive interest or dividends on, or

(b) to negotiate or transfer, or

(c) both to receive interest or dividends on, and to negotiate or transfer, the securities or any of them.

Requisition of security from grantee of certificate.

375. (1) The District Judge shall in any case in which he proposes to proceed under sub-section (3) or sub-section (4) of section 373, and may, in any other case, require, as a condition precedent to the granting of a certificate, that the person to whom he proposes to make the grant shall give to the Judge a bond with one or more surety or sureties, or other sufficient security, for rendering an account of debts and securities received by him and for indemnity of persons who may be entitled to the whole or any part of those debts and securities.

(2) The Judge may, on application made by petition and on cause shown to his satisfaction, and upon such terms as to security, or providing that the money received be paid into Court, or otherwise, as he thinks fit, assign the bond or other security to some proper person, and that person shall thereupon be entitled to sue thereon in his own name as if it had been originally given to him instead of to the Judge of the Court, and to recover, as trustee for all persons interested, such amount as may be recoverable thereunder.

Extension of certificate.

376. (1) A District Judge may, on the application of the holder of a certificate under this Part, extend the certificate to any debt or security not originally specified therein, and every such extension shall have the same effect as if the debt or security to which the certificate is extended had been originally specified therein.

(2) Upon the extension of a certificate, powers with respect to the receiving of interest or dividends on, or the negotiation or transfer of, any security to which the certificate has been extended may be conferred, and a bond or further bond or other security for the purposes mentioned in section 375 may be required, in the same manner as upon the original grant of a certificate.

Forms of certificate and extended certificate.

377. Certificates shall be granted and extensions of certificates shall be made, as nearly as circumstances admit, in the forms set forth in Schedule VIII.

Amendment of certificate in respect of powers as to securities.

378. Where a District Judge has not conferred on the holder of a certificate any power with respect to a security specified in the certificate, or has only empowered him to receive interest or dividends on, or to negotiate or transfer, the security, the Judge may, on application made by petition and on cause shown to his satisfaction, amend the certificate by conferring any of the powers mentioned in section 374 or by substituting any one for any other of those powers.

Mode of collecting Court-fees on certificates.

379. (1) Every application for a certificate or for the extension of certificate shall be accompanied by a deposit of a sum equal to the fee payable under the Court-fees Act, 1870, in respect of the certificate or extension applied for. VII of 1870.

(2) If the application is allowed, the sum deposited by the applicant shall be expended, under the direction of the Judge, in the purchase of the stamp to be used for denoting the fee payable as aforesaid.

(3) Any sum received under sub-section (1) and not expended under sub-section (2) shall be refunded to the person who deposited it.

Local extent of certificate.

380. A certificate under this Part shall have effect throughout the whole of British India.

Effect of certificate.

381. Subject to the provisions of this Part, the certificate of the District Judge shall, with respect to the debts and securities specified therein, be conclusive as against the persons owing such debts or liable on such securities, and shall, notwithstanding any contravention of section 370, or other defect, afford full indemnity to all such persons as regards all payments made, or dealings had, in good faith in respect of such debts or securities to or with the person to whom the certificate was granted.

Effect of certificate granted or extended by British representative in Foreign State.

382. Where a certificate in the form, as nearly as circumstances admit, of Schedule VIII has been granted to a resident within a Foreign State by the British representative accredited to the State, or where a certificate so granted has been extended in such form by such representative, the certificate shall, when stamped in accordance with the provisions of the Court-fees Act, 1870, with respect to certificates under this Part have the same effect in British India as a certificate granted or extended under this Part. V of 1870.

Revocation of certificate.

383. A certificate granted under this Part may be revoked for any of the following causes, namely :—

(a) that the proceedings to obtain the certificate were defective in substance ;

(b) that the certificate was obtained fraudulently by the making of a false suggestion, or by the concealment from the Court of something material to the case ;

(c) that the certificate was obtained by means of an untrue allegation of a fact essential in point of law to justify the grant thereof, though such allegation was made in ignorance or inadvertently ;

(d) that the certificate has become useless and inoperative through circumstances ;

(e) that a decree or order made by a competent Court in a suit or other proceeding with respect to effects comprising debts or securities specified in the certificate renders it proper that the certificate should be revoked.

Appeal.

384. (1) Subject to the other provisions of this Part, an appeal shall lie to the High Court from an order of a District Judge granting, refusing or revoking a certificate under this Part, and the High Court may, if it thinks fit, by its order on the appeal, declare the person to whom the certificate should be granted and direct the District Judge, on application being made therefor, to grant it accordingly, in supersession of the certificate, if any, already granted.

(2) An appeal under sub-section (1) must be preferred within the time allowed for an appeal under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908. V of 1908.

(3) Subject to the provisions of sub-section (1) and to the provisions as to reference to and revision by the High Court and as to review of judgment of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, as applied by section 141 of that Code, an order of a District Judge under this Part shall be final. V of 1908.

Effect on certificate of previous certificate, probate or letters of administration.

385. Save as provided by this Act, a certificate granted thereunder in respect of any of the effects of a deceased person shall be invalid if there has been a previous grant of such a certificate or of probate or letters of administration in respect of the estate of the deceased person and if such previous grant is in force.

Validation of certain payments made in good faith to holder of invalid certificate.

386. Where a certificate under this Part has been superseded or is invalid by reason of the certificate having been revoked under section 383, or by reason of the grant of a certificate to a person named in an appellate order under section 384, or by reason of a certificate having been previously granted, or for any other cause, all payments made, or dealings had, as regards debts and securities specified in the superseded or invalid certificate, to or with the holder of that certificate in ignorance of its supersession or invalidity, shall be held good against claims under any other certificate.

Effect of decisions under this Act, and liability of holder of certificate thereunder

387. No decision under this Part upon any question of right between any parties shall be held to bar the trial of the same question in any suit or in any other proceeding between the same parties, and nothing in this Part shall be construed to affect the liability of any person who may receive the whole or any part of any debt or security, or any interest or dividend on any security, to account therefor to the person lawfully entitled thereto.

Investiture of inferior Courts with jurisdiction of District Court for purposes of this Act.

388. (1) The Local Government may, by notification in the local official Gazette, invest any Court inferior in grade to a District Judge with power to exercise the functions of a District Judge under this Part.

(2) Any inferior Court so invested shall, within the local limits of its jurisdiction, have concurrent jurisdiction with the District Judge in the exercise of all the powers conferred by this Part upon the District Judge, and the provisions of this Part relating to the District Judge shall apply to such an inferior Court as if it were a District Judge:

Provided that an appeal from any such order of an inferior Court as is mentioned in sub-section (1) of section 384 shall lie to the District Judge, and not to the High Court, and that the District Judge may, if he thinks fit, by his order on the appeal, make any such declaration and direction as that sub-section authorises the High Court to make by its order on an appeal from an order of a District Judge.

(3) An order of a District Judge on an appeal from an order of an inferior Court under the last foregoing sub-section shall, subject to the provisions as to reference to and revision by the High Court and as to review of judgment of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, as applied by section 141 of that Code, be final. V of 1908.

(4) The District Judge may withdraw any proceedings under this Part from an inferior Court and may either himself dispose of them or transfer them to another such Court established within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the District Judge and having authority to dispose of the proceedings.

(5) A notification under sub-section (1) may specify any inferior Court specially or any class of such Courts in any local area.

(6) Any Civil Court which for any of the purposes of any enactment is subordinate to, or subject to the control of, a District Judge shall for the purposes of this section be deemed to be a Court inferior in grade to a District Judge.

Surrender of superseded and invalid certificates.

389. (1) When a certificate under this Part has been superseded or is invalid from any of the causes mentioned in section 386, the holder thereof shall, on the requisition of the Court which granted it, deliver it up to that Court.

(2) If he wilfully and without reasonable cause omits so to deliver it up, he shall be punishable with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months, or with both.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Third Forecast of the Cotton Crops of Bengal, 1925-26.

[NOTE.—On an average of the five years ending 1923-24, the area under the cotton crops in Bengal has represented some 0·2 per cent. of the total area under cotton in India.]

THERE are two crops—early and late. The "early" crop is chiefly grown in the Chittagong Hill Tracts and in the Tripura State and to a small extent also in other districts. The "late" crop is chiefly grown in Bankura and Midnapore.

Character of the season.—During the initial stages the early crop suffered from absence of rain in Bankura and Midnapore and from excessive rain in Mymensingh and the Tripura State. But subsequent weather conditions favoured the growth, and a good yield was reaped. In the Chittagong Hill Tracts, however, the weather was favourable throughout. The prospects of the late crop, so far, are satisfactory.

Area sown.—The total area sown with early cotton is returned at 75,175 acres and that with late at 1,563 acres, against 75,777 acres and 1,207 acres, respectively, in the corresponding forecast of last year.

Outturn.—The outturn of the early crop is estimated at 25,489 bales and the late crop at 348 bales, against 23,905 bales and 350 bales, respectively, in the corresponding forecast of the last year.

The Commissioners at a meeting shall, every month, inquire into all matters connected with the water supply of the municipality and examine and pass the accounts submitted under rule 4, and shall record that the accounts have been passed in the book of the minutes of the proceedings of the meeting.

6. In all engineering matters connected with the water-works the Commissioners shall be guided by the advice of the Chief Engineer. The Commissioners shall afford the Chief Engineer all information he may from time to time require, and shall consider and attend to all communications received from him.

7. The Chief Engineer, and the inspecting officers of the Engineering Branch of the Public Health Department may, whenever it is desirable, correspond direct with the Superintendent of the Pumping Station in regard to technical matters. Copies of all such letters shall be forwarded to the Chairman of the Municipality.

8. (1) An officer of the Engineering Branch, Public Health Department, shall visit the water-works not less than once a year, and his report thereon shall be submitted to the Sanitary Board by the Chief Engineer. The Commissioners shall arrange for the proper inspection of the boilers and pumping machinery not less than twice a year by a qualified Machinery Inspector or firm of Machinery Inspectors who must be approved by the Chief Engineer.

(2) The reports of the Inspectors must be submitted,—

(i) in the case of boilers and pumping machinery worked by steam, in P. H. D. Form No. 6 (Appendix A), in the case of mechanical fitters, in P. H. D. Form No. 6B (Appendix A), to the Chief Engineer, and by him to the Sanitary Board :

Provided that in the case of small water-works the said inspection may, with the consent of the Chief Engineer, be held only once a year.

9. Until all points raised in the reports of the Chief Engineer and the Machinery Inspector have been disposed of, the Commissioners shall submit to the District Magistrate, for transmission to the Chief Engineer, a monthly progress report showing how far effect has been given to the recommendations made in the reports.

(e) a settling tank log in P. H. D. Form No. 5B; and (f) such other forms as the Chief Engineer, may, from time to time, prescribe.

(2) The said forms shall be written up daily by the Superintendent of the Pumping Station and shall be available at all times for inspecting officers and visitors appointed under clause (1) of rule 15.

11. The Commissioners shall submit to the Chief Engineer not later than the tenth of each month:—

(a) indicator diagrams from each engine in P. H. D. Form No. 1 (Appendix A) for one day in the preceding month, which must be accompanied by a copy of the engine room log, Form No. 3 (Appendix A), for the day on which they are taken;

12. The Commissioners shall submit quarterly a return showing the number of metered and unmetered house connections, and the quantity of water measured by meter and charged for in P. H. D. Form No. 7 (Appendix A).

13. The Commissioners shall in addition furnish such other information as the Chief Engineer may, from time to time, require.

14. It shall be the duty of the Commissioners to see that the rules for working settling tanks and slow sand and mechanical filters in water-works (Appendix B) are properly attended to by the Superintendent of the Pumping Station. If, owing to the design of the works, the rules cannot be conformed to, the matter shall be referred to the Chief Engineer, for orders.

15. (1) The Commissioners shall appoint two of their numbers in rotation to be monthly visitors of the water-works.

(2) It shall be the duty of these visitors to ascertain by enquiry—

(a) whether an efficient supply of water is being given;

APPENDIX B.

(See Rule 14.)

Rules for working settling tanks and slow sand and mechanical filters in water-works in Bengal.

Settling Tanks.

1. It is important that water drawn from the rivers of Bengal should have as long a settlement as possible before being passed on to slow sand filters, in order that the action of sunlight, the precipitation of suspended matter and the natural tendency to elimination of pathogenic bacteria may have their maximum purifying effect.

2. Settling tanks are worked either on (a) the continuous flow, or (b) the intermittent system. In the first system, the tanks are kept full, and the water is continually admitted at one end and drawn off from near the surface at the other. In order that this system may be properly used with slow sand filters, the unfiltered water pumps must be worked continuously throughout the 24 hours or the settling tanks must be fed from a storage reservoir. When designed on the intermittent system, each tank in turn is filled and then kept full until the tanks filled before it are drawn down ; the settled water is then decanted through a floating arm or similar apparatus until the tank is lowered to the lowest draw off level, when it is again filled.

The whole available storage capacity of settling tanks should always be used as far as possible. On the other hand care must be taken in tanks unprovided with fixed overflows not to fill them to a greater depth than they are designed for.

3. When a deposit of from 18 inches to 2 feet of silt has formed at the bottom, the tank should be emptied and cleansed out. This work must always be done in the dry weather and preferably at the end of October or as soon after as possible.

4. In the rains and when there is an excessive amount of suspended matter in the raw water, clarification will generally have to be assisted by the use of a coagulant. The precipitant most commonly used in Bengal water-works is aluminoferric. This depends for its effective action upon the temporary hardness of the water. If more of the chemical is used than can be decomposed by the carbonates present, it will remain dissolved in the water and will be wasted.

Generally speaking, not more than two grains of aluminoferric are required per gallon of water. Aluminoferric and sulphate of aluminum should always be ordered under a proper specification. Samples of each consignment of the precipitant should be sent to the Director of Public Health Laboratories for analysis to see if the samples conform to the specification. His advise will also be necessary from time to time as to the quantity of precipitant to be added to the water.

5. The aluminoferric must be added at the inlet end of the settling tanks. A solution of a fixed strength should be prepared and the rate of flow of the solution ascertained and regulated by experiment in cases where there is no automatic apparatus for its addition. The method of adding the salt in solid form by suspending in a bucket is unsatisfactory and should not be adopted.

Slow sand filters.

6. The rate of delivery on to a sand filter is regulated by (a) the available head between the settling tanks and the inlet valve and (b) the amount the inlet valve is open.

The rate of flow through the filter depends upon (c) the resistance of the sand in the filter. In order to overcome this resistance a difference in level forms between the surface of water on the filter-bed and the water in the outlet well. This is called the filtration head. The longer the filter-bed is in operation, the greater becomes the resistance of the sand and consequently a larger filtration head is necessary to force the water through the filter.

The discharge from the outlet well to the clear water reservoir depends on (d) the amount the outlet valve is open or in the case of a telescopic outlet the extent to which the bell mouth is lowered.

It is obvious that these factors are mutually interdependent, for more water cannot flow out of a filter than is delivered on to it, nor than can make its way through the sand.

Factors (a) and (c) continually tend to vary, so (b) and (d) must also be altered from time to time in order to maintain a constant flow through the filter. In some filters the inlet is controlled by a ball valve which keeps the level of the water on the filter always the same. In this case, the flow through the filter is regulated by (d). In all filters the surface of the water on the sand should be always kept as nearly at same level as possible and filtration head regulated by the outlet valve or telescopic weir. The depth of water on the sand should not be less than 2 feet. Gauges measuring to the same datum should be fixed on the wall of the filter and in the outlet well so that the difference in level can be easily measured.

7. Filtration should be carried on continuously and as nearly as possible at the same rate, which should be between 3 or 4 inches vertical an hour. The rate of flow must on no account exceed the latter figure.

Where there is no direct method of measuring the flow of water through a filter such as an outlet gauge notch or a meter, it may be ascertained by closing the inlet valve and leaving the outlet valve open. The fall of the surface of the water in inches at the end of an hour will give the rate of flow per hour.

8. In a new filter or one recently scraped, the filtration head required will be very small but its increase will be rapid. In the usual way, a filter should be scraped when the filtration head reaches 18 inches. In certain cases it may be safe to exceed this limit, but before allowing a greater working head the advice of the Chief Engineer should be obtained.

Filters should not be scraped until it is necessary, for not only does frequent scraping increase the cost of operation but for some time after scraping the efficiency of the filters is reduced.

9. A filter must be scraped by carefully removing the slimy ooze which has formed on the top, together with about ¼ inch of sand. The sand removed may subsequently be used again if properly washed in a sand-washer. In the usual way when the depth of fine sand is reduced to 18 inches it is time to replenish the filter. Before replenishing about two or three inches of sand is to be removed, clean washed sand is then to be added until the original thickness is obtained.

10. If the water filtered has been of a very bad quality or the filter has been mismanaged, or been long in use the whole filter may require to be renewed. In such case the advice of the Chief Engineer, Public Health Department, must be obtained, when full instructions as to the work required will be issued.

11. After a filter-bed has been scraped, replenished or renewed it should, if possible, be charged from below by admitting filtered water very slowly until the surface is about three inches above the sand; the filling can then be completed from above. If there is no arrangement for filling from below, the filling must be very carefully and slowly done from above.

After filling, water should be passed through the filter commencing at the rate not exceeding one inch vertical per hour and run to waste for 24 hours after scraping and 48 hours after replenishing. The rate of filtration should be increased gradually after putting the filter into use. If possible the maximum rate of flow should not be reached for four or five days. After complete renewal the filter must not be put into operation until the Director of Public Health Laboratories has analysed samples of the water and pronounced them safe.

12. Daily records must be kept in the filter bed log book [P. H. D. Form No. 5 (Appendix A)] of the quantity of water filtered and the filtration head recorded at intervals of three hours throughout the day.

Mechanical filters.

13. For each installation of mechanical filters, rules for working must be obtained from the makers of the plant, but the following points must be attended to in all cases :—

(i) The efficiency of the plant depends upon the proper proportioning and correct addition of the coagulant. The actual amount of coagulant required depends on the design of the installation, the type of filter, the quality and hardness of the water and general local conditions. It will vary during different season of the year and can be best ascertained by experiment in actual working. Such experiments require scientific supervision and must be carried out under the instructions of the Chief Engineer, Public Health Department, who will when necessary take the advice of the Director of Public Health Laboratories on the subject.

(ii) The precipitant generally used is sulphate of alumina and this should be purchased under a proper specification of chemical composition. The precipitant is made up into a strong solution in large vats and added to the raw water by an adjustable apparatus.

The water so treated is then allowed to settle for sufficient time to allow the formation of optimism flock.

In cases where sedimentation continues for a considerable time after the coagulant has been applied, it may be necessary to add a small additional quantity of the chemical to the water immediately before passing it to the filters.

In pressure filters if sulphate of alumina is allowed to stand in the alum pots for any length of time there is a tendency for it to deposit and clog the small pipe leading to the filter inlet. In such cases the use of crystal potash alumina is recommended. If sulphate of alumina is used it is necessary to keep the solution stirred and also to examine the alum pipes to see that the flow is taking place properly. In any properly designed installation means are provided for testing the rate of flow through the alum pipe at any time.

Aluminoferric and ammonia alum are not to be used in mechanical filters.

(iii) The rate of filtration should be kept as nearly as possible constant and must not exceed the rate for which the filters had been designed. All filters used on the gravity system are provided with automatic controllers, and these must on no account be tampered with or made to pass more water than intended.

(iv) The maximum filtration head permissible varies with different types of plant; it is usually not more than 10 feet. When the maximum head is reached, as shown by the indicator, the filter must be washed.

(v) Washing must always be done with filtered water. In the case of a battery of two or more pressure filters, they may be arranged so that one can be washed with filtered water from another. Washing must be continued until the waste water becomes quite clear. After washing, the filtered water must be run to waste for 15 minutes before connecting to the town. All valves operated during the process of washing must be opened and cleansed slowly.

(vi) The addition of coagulant throughout the filtering process is unnecessary. After four hours of filtration with coagulant a sufficiently impervious layer is formed on and in the upper layers of sand to stop the passage of bacteria and filtration can then be carried on for two days or more without the addition of any more alum.

(vii) Daily records must be kept in the filter log book [P. H. D. Form No. 5A (Appendix A)] of the quantity of water filtered, the amount of sulphate of alumina used, the hours during which filtration has been carried on the filtration head (recorded at intervals of three hours), the length of time taken to wash each filter, and the hour at which it was washed.

No. F.-37-VII-F. E.—The despatch below from the Secretary of State for India, No. 9-Accounts, dated the 22nd October 1925, and its enclosures, relating to the Indian Civil Service Family Pension Rules and the Indian Civil Service (non-European members) Family Pension Rules are published for general information. A reprint of these rules in pamphlet form with preface and explanatory foot-notes, will be issued shortly :—

INDIA OFFICE, LONDON,
22nd October 1925.

Accounts,
No. 9.

TO HIS EXCELLENCY THE RIGHT HONOURABLE THE GOVERNOR GENERAL OF INDIA IN COUNCIL.

MY LORD,

I enclose copy of a Resolution passed by me in Council making Rules under section 96B (2) of the Government of India Act, for the regulation of Family Pensions of the Indian Civil Service.

Indian Civil Service Family Pension Regulations redrafted as Statutory Rules.

2. These Rules are in the main a redraft, in a form more suitable for Statutory Rules, of the Indian Civil Service Family Pension Regulations hitherto in force; but opportunity has been taken to revise the substance of those Regulations in certain respects.

3. The Preamble to the Regulations contains a proviso to the effect that the benefits provided at the cost of the State are to be reduced should it at any time appear, from a valuation, that their aggregate annual amount will exceed £35,000 when the pension list shall have reached a normal state. The reasons for which this proviso was adopted are not now clear; but it may be observed that the limit was fixed at a time when the active service cadre of the Indian Civil Service was approximately 900, and it would therefore have been a matter for consideration, had the conditions prevailing immediately before the war continued, whether, in the event of the proviso appearing likely to become operative, the figure should not in equity have been raised to correspond with the increased cadre. With the changed conditions of to-day, the proviso has to a great extent lost its meaning. It is based on the idea of steady approach to a stationary state, and with a reduced membership no such approach is actually being made. The probable course of the balance in the future will be increase up to a peak and then decrease, with the possibility of ultimate decline to a stationary condition corresponding to some comparatively small membership. It might be possible to replace the present limit of £35,000 by a variable amount dependent on the membership. It appears certain, however, from the figures given by the late Sir G. Hardy in his Report on the state of the Scheme as at 31st March 1911, that the cost of the Government contribution per member does not exceed that originally contemplated, as measured by the limit then imposed. In view of this fact and of the possibility that a reduction of the expressed limit might be regarded as a breach of faith, I have decided not to include in the new Rules any limitati n based on the proviso.

4. The existing Regulations contain somewhat elaborate provisions limiting the right of admittance of the posthumous child. These provisions, though doubtless justifiable in theory, are in practice likely to be productive of trouble and possible hardship out of proportion to any benefit gained. The new Rules accordingly provide for the unconditional admittance of such children, subject of course, in the case of marriages after retirement, to payment of the appropriate donation.

5. I enclose also copy of a Resolution passed by me in Council making Rules confirming the position of Indian members of the Service appointe i since 4th January 1923 or appointed before 1912 and admitted as subscribers.

I have the honour to be,

MY LORD,

Your Lordship's most obedient humble Servant.

(Signed) BIRKENHEAD.

(b) were appointed in the years 1912 and 1913 and have been admitted as subscribers.

(3) If any question arises as to whether these Rules apply or do not apply to any individual member of the Indian Civil Service, the question shall be decided by the Secretary of State in Council and his decision shall be final.

2. Every person to whom these Rules apply (hereinafter referred to as a "subscriber") shall make, with effect from the date of his arrival in India to join his first appointment, the contributions and payments hereinafter prescribed.

3. The sums so contributed or paid shall be credited by the Secretary of State in Council to the revenues of India, and the pensions or other benefits payable under these Rules shall be debited as a charge upon those revenues.

4. The pensions and other benefits payable under these Rules shall be divided into two portions, the one met from the contributions of subscribers and the other met from public funds.

5. A pro formâ account shall be maintained by the Secretary of State in Council of all contributions and payments received and of all disbursements made therefrom, together with an account of interest accruing on the balance calculated at such rates as may from time to time be fixed by the Secretary of State in Council with reference to the market rates of the day.

6.—(1) The Secretary of State in Council shall from time to time, at such periods as he may determine, place the pro formâ accounts referred to in Rule 5, together with statistics of the ages, births, marriages and deaths of the subscribers and of their dependants, before such Actuary or Actuaries as he may select, with instructions to examine them and report thereon.

(2) The Report of the Actuary or Actuaries shall be published in such manner as the Secretary of State in Council may direct.

(3) The Secretary of State in Council shall, after consideration of the Actuary's Report, make by amendment of these Rules such alterations in the rates of contributions payments, and benefits as he may think necessary. Provided that the Secretary of State in Council may at his discretion permit any subscriber who has resigned without being entitled to an annuity or pension to continue his contributions and thereby to retain for his family the benefits of these Rules, and if such permission is granted contributions shall be payable until the subscriber's 54th birthday.

11.—(1) Subject to the provisions of Rule 13, every subscriber in the Service shall report his marriage, in the form prescribed in the Second Schedule, within one month of the date thereof, or within one month of his arrival in India if he was then married, and shall on marriage, or remarriage, or on entering the Service married pay, in addition to the monthly contributions prescribed by Rule 7, the donation specified in the Third Schedule to these Rules against the year of his age, and if the age of the susbcriber exceeds that of his wife by five years or more he shall further pay the disparity fine specified in the Fourth Schedule.

NOTIFICATION.

Delhi, the 1st December 1925.

No. F.-130-F.—The following statement is published for general information :—

A statement by His Excellency the Governor General of the reasons which have moved him, in exercise of the powers conferred upon him by section 72 of the Government of India Act, to make and promulgate an Ordinance to suspend the levy and collection of the Cotton Excise Duty.

A. C. MCWATTERS,

Secretary to the Government of India.

STATEMENT.

In August last, when replying to a deputation which waited upon me on behalf of the mill-owners of Bombay and Ahmedabad to urge the relief of the mill industry from the cotton excise duty, I affirmed that the Government of India stood by the letter and the spirit of the pledge given by my predecessor, Lord Hardinge, that the excise duty would be abolished as soon as financial considerations permitted. At the same time, while fully recognising the special difficulties with which the cotton-mill industry in India was faced, it was necessary for me to explain that it was impossible to grant this request in the middle of the financial year, before the year had fully declared itself and before the commitments and the prospects of next year were known.

Again, on the 16th September 1925, when a motion for suspension of the collection of the cotton excise duty was debated in the Legislative Assembly, it was made clear on behalf of Government that suspension must inevitably be followed immediately by abolition, and that abolition ought to be considered only in connection with the finances of the year as a whole, that is, at the time of the Budget, when the claims of the cotton-mill industry could be balanced against rival claims. It was definitely stated that a vote for suspension would be taken by Government as an expression of the view that the abolition of the cotton excise duty should take precedence of other claims. The Assembly accepted by a large majority the motion for suspension.

The time has not yet come when a detailed estimate of the revenue and expenditure for the current year, or of the prospects for 1926-27, can be made, but the final results of the monsoon are now known and it is possible to make a more reliable estimate of the financial position than in September. On such information as is now before them the Government of India are satisfied that there would be no serious risk of a large deficit in the current year if the cotton excise duty were suspended for the rest of the year, and that there is a reasonable prospect that the Budget for next year can be balanced without assistance from the cotton excise duty in the absence of any big change for the worse in the next few months. I and my Government have therefore come to the conclusion that the moment has arrived when financial considerations permit of the abolition of the duty. This can however be finally accomplished only by the passage of the necessary legislation by the Indian Legislature. In the meanwhile, having regard to the emergency caused by the grave difficulties confronting the industry, to the pledge given and reaffirmed, and to the expressed views of the Legislative Assembly, I have decided that with effect from the 1st December 1925, the duty shall be suspended by Ordinance. It is the intention of my Government, unless the financial position as disclosed in the Budget estimates for next year substantially fails to confirm present anticipations, to place before the Legislature, at the time of the Budget, proposals for the abolition of the duty.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 3180L., dated Calcutta, the 11th December, 1925.—The following Bill was introduced in the Bengal Legislative Council on the 4th December, 1925, and is hereby published for general information, together with Statement of Objects and Reasons annexed thereto:—

THE BENGAL FOOD ADULTERATION (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1925.

A

to amend the Bengal Food Adulteration Act, 1919.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Bengal Food Adulteration Act, 1919, in the manner hereinafter appearing;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title.

1. This Act may be called the Bengal Food Adulteration (Amendment) Act, 1925.

Amendment of section 15 of Bengal Act VI of 1919.

2. After section 15 of the Bengal Food Adulteration Act, 1919, the following shall be added, namely:—

"Provided that in the case of an offence committed within a municipality such order or consent shall be valid if made or given by the Chairman of the Commissioners of the Municipality."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Section 15 of Act VI of 1919 does not authorize the Chairman of a local authority to exercise powers on its behalf by sanctioning prosecutions for offences under the Act. Each such prosecution requires the order or consent in writing of the local authority concerned. Local authorities ordinarily meet monthly or even less often, and inconvenience is often caused by the necessity of obtaining their sanction to every prosecution instituted under Act VI of 1919. The Howrah Municipality has recently moved Government to amend the Bengal Food Adulteration Act so as to empower the Chairman to sanction prosecutions thereunder, and the present Bill is the outcome of that application. It is proposed to empower only the Chairman of municipalities to exercise the powers of the Commissioners under section 15 of the Act, since prosecutions under this Act will rarely be instituted by other local authorities.

Expressions of opinion by public bodies or by individuals interested in the Bills should be sent so as to reach the undersigned before the 15th January, 1926 :—

THE BENGAL PHUKA BILL, 1925.

BILL

to prevent the practice of phuka on milch animals.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to make further provision for the prevention of the practice of phuka on milch animals;

And whereas the previous sanction of the Governor General has been obtained under sub-section (3) of section 80A of the Government of India Act to the passing of this Act: 5 & 6 Geo. V, c. 61; 6 & 7 Geo. V, c. 37; 9 & 10 Geo. V, c. 101.

It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Short title and local extent.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Bengal Phuka Act, 1925.

(2) It extends in the first instance only to—

(a) Calcutta as defined in clause (11) of section 3 of the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1923, Ben. Act III of 1923.

(b) the port of Calcutta, and

(c) the Howrah Municipality.

(3) The Local Government may, by notification in the Calcutta Gazette, extend this Act to any place defined in such notification.

Definition of "phuka".

2. In this Act "phuka" means any unnatural process of blowing or inserting air or any other substance in the vagina of any milch animal with the intention of thereby drawing off from the animal any secretion of milk.

Power of arrest of any person practising phuka.

3. Any person specially authorised by the Local Government in this behalf who has reason to believe that an offence against section 6 is being committed in respect of any milch animal, may at any time either by day or by night enter any cattle shed or any place where milch animals are kept and may arrest without a warrant any person found by him practising the operation called phuka on any milch animal.

(Clauses 4-9.)

Appointment of special officers for the detection of phuka.

4. The Corporation of Calcutta may appoint special officers for the detection of phuka, who shall have all the powers under section 3. [Cf. Ben. Act I of 1920, s. 33.]

Persons appointed under sections 3 and 4 to be public servants.

5. Every person appointed under sections 3 and 4 shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of section 21 of the Indian Penal Code. XLV of 1860. [Cf. Ben. Act I of 1920, s. 6.]

Penalty for practising phuka.

6. If any person performs the operation of phuka or wilfully or knowingly permits the performance thereof, upon any milch animal he shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees or with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months or with both, and the owner of the milch animal and any person in possession of or control over it shall be liable to the same punishment. [Cf. Ben. Act I of 1920, s. 34.]

Indemnity.

7. No suit, prosecution or other legal proceeding shall lie against any person who is, or who has been declared to be, a public servant within the meaning of section 21 of the Indian Penal Code for anything which is, in good faith, done or intended to be done under this Act. XLV of 1860.

Application of fines.

8. All fines paid or collected under the provisions of this Act shall be kept as a separate fund and paid at the discretion of the Local Government towards the upkeep and support of any officers appointed under the provisions of sections 3 and 4.

Repeal of section 5A of Ben Act I of 1869

9. Section 5A of the Bengal Cruelty to Animals Act, 1869, as amended by the Bengal Cruelty to Animals Act, 1900, is hereby repealed in areas to which this Act extends. Ben. Act I of 1869. Ben. Act III of 1900.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The Bill is intended to stop the practice of phuka by providing for closer supervision of such cases and by imposing more deterrent punishment. The Bengal Cruelty to Animals Act, 1920 (Ben. Act I of 1920) did introduce some wholesome provisions against the practice of phuka but that Act has not up to now, been enforced; the introduction of this Bill has therefore become necessary. This unnatural and cruel process on cows is being practised daily in about 1,000 cattle sheds in Calcutta and the suburbs alone; some such measures are, therefore, required for the prevention of so pernicious a practice, thereby saving useful cattle, mostly milch cows, which owing to such ravages, are rendered sterile and unserviceable for the future, which causes the eventual diminution of milk and milk products.

Realisation of fine.

39. In case of non-payment, the fine may be realised by any of the processes laid down in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, and the amount of compensation ordered under section 38 shall on realisation be paid to the village Board or to the local authority, as the case may be. V of 1898.

40. (1) The Local Government may make rules to carry out the purposes of this Act.

(2) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power such rules may prescribe—

(1) the form of keeping accounts;

(2) the form of receipts to be granted to payees; and

(3) the form in which the extent, situation and boundaries, etc., of pasture lands are to be kept.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The Bill intends to secure the right of pasturage in lands formerly used as such but since encroached for cultivation or otherwise. The need for such a measure will be apparent on reading cattle census reports and settlement reports of various provinces which complain of the serious want of pasturage and encroachment of land for cultivation. Similarly one of the causes ascribed for the deterioration of cattle of this country has been the gross inadequacy of pasture land which is also considered to be a circumstance adverse to cattle breeding. The grazing that exist in this country now are very poor both in quality and in quantity. The proportion of grazing lands to the total land area of India is the minimum of all the countries being 1 : 27, whereas the proportion in Japan is 1 : 6, in Germany 1 : 6, in New Zealand 1 : 3. The great shortage of pasture land will also be apparent from a comparison of the number of acres that is available for grazing per head of cattle in different countries. It is only ·17 in Bengal and a little more in other provinces in India, 1·6 in the United States of America, 1·35 in New Zealand and 1·44 in Germany.

BILL

Ben. Act I of 1924.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The object of this Bill is to rectify some anomalies of the Calcutta Rent Act, 1920, and to remove some ambiguities in its wording which have led the President of the Tribunal and the High Court to interpret some of the sections in a way that has to a great extent been prejudicial to the objects of the Act itself.

At the time of the introduction of the Calcutta Rent (Amendment) Bill of 1924 in the January session of the Bengal Legislative Council by which the operation of the Act in respect of premises the rent of which did not exceed Rs. 250 in November 1918 was extended till the end of March 1927, the mover undertook to bring in a Bill later on to remove the defects of the Act. The principal amendments have been necessitated by the following circumstances :—

(a) The President of the Tribunal held that when part of a building is separately let for the first time it is a case of " first letting " within the meaning of section 2 (f) (ii). This has, however, been held by the High Court to be wrong in the case Roberro vs. Jacob reported in 27 C.W.N., p. 569.

(b) In the case of Wells vs. Dickinson reported in 28 C.W.N., p. 774, Mr. Justice Buckland held that when a house is let furnished the Controller or the Court cannot interfere with the amount which the parties fixed as rent because it includes the hire of furniture which is not rent payable for the premises as defined in section 2 (c).

(c) Again in the case of Bhulchand vs. Grace reported in 26 C.W.N., p. 678, Mr. Justice Buckland held that a tenant who had once made default in paying his rent was for ever deprived of the benefits of the Act by reason of section 11 (5) although the rent had been subsequently paid and the landlord had accepted it.

(d) In many cases landlords have abused the provisions of the proviso to section 11 (1) and obtained decrees for ejectment on the pretext of requiring premises for their own occupation or for rebuilding. In the case of R. M. Chatterjee vs. D. O. C. Ryan the High Court has held that the Court cannot question the landlord's bona fides if he simply produces an Engineer's certificate that the house requires to be rebuilt.

These interpretations of the various sections have enabled middlemen, profiteers and unscrupulous landlords to evade the provisions of the Act.

Doubts have also arisen as to the jurisdiction of the Controller and the President of the Tribunal in respect of premises which have been excluded from the operation of the Act by the Calcutta Rent (Amendment) Act, 1924 (Bengal Act, I of 1924).

The present Bill aims at removing these defects and anomalies.

Power to arrest without warrant.

6. (1) Any officer-in-charge of a police-station or any person or authority anthorised by the Local Government by notification in this behalf may without warrant arrest any person committing an offence under this Act and send him for trial before any Court authorised by the Local Government by notification in the Calcutta Gazette in this behalf: provided that the name and address of the person are unknown to such officer, and that the person declines to give his name and address or there is reason to doubt the accuracy of the name and address given by such person.

Power to make rules.

7. The Local Government may make rules under this Act for the punishment of offenders and for the better preservation of the fish fry.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THIS Bill has been introduced to put a stop to the destruction of fish fry in Bengal. Fishes are daily becoming scarce and have now-a-days become almost a luxury, and not a necessity, as they were in former days The population of the province is gradually increasing and the supply of fish has failed to keep pace with the rapid growth of the population. In this province fish is one of the chief articles of consumption, nay—it is an indispensable article of food to the Bengalees. Beels and navigable rivers are being gradually silted up, while new tanks are not being excavated in large numbers as before. There being no law for the preservation of fish fry, they are being destroyed wantonly. These fry, if they can be preserved, will be able to increase the supply of fish gradually, and remove one of the chief wants of the Bengalees. An Act on these lines has become an urgent necessity, and hence it is introduced.

Section 1—Gives the designation and the scope of the Act.

Section 2, clause 2.—Fish fry come into being from the month of Baisakh every year and are not developed till the month of Ashadh, as they flock together till that time, and hence, for the protection of these undeveloped fry, this definition has been inserted.

Section 3.—Fish fry are caught or destroyed and are sometimes used as articles of human consumption, even in this undeveloped state. To prevent this, this section has been inserted.

Section 4.—To prevent the fish fry from being sold as an article of consumption or for trade purposes, this section has been introduced.

But selling these fish fry for fish cultivation in other waters has been made an exception.

Section 5.—Unless some provision for punishment is made in this Act, the practice of destroying fry will not be put a stop to; to put a stop to this practice effectively provision has been made for a light punishment, i.e., to levy a fine which may not exceed Rs. 10 or in default 3 days' simple imprisonment on those committing any act towards destroying the fish fry or reducing their number.

Section 6.—Provision has been made in this section for means of bringing the offenders to book promptly.

Section 7.—In this section, provision is made for better administration and justice.

(3) "Khodai bull" means a bull dedicated to the public by a Muhammadan in any religious, ceremonial or other occasion ;

(4) "cattle" means and includes a cow, heifer, bull, bullock, calf, he-buffalo, she-buffalo, and buffalo-calf ;

(Clauses 5—9.)

Nothing in this section shall apply to a police officer above the rank of sub-inspector who on receipt of proper information and on his being satisfied that a Brahmini or Khodai bull is dangerous to a locality or to the residents of a locality, destroy the same, provided that he shall submit to the local authority concerned his reasons in writing for so doing within three days after the occurrence.

Maintenance of a minimum number of stud-bulls by a local authority.

5. (1) Every local authority shall maintain or cause to be maintained within its jurisdiction a minimum number of stud-bulls as may be prescribed by the Local Government and shall lend stud-bulls for service to the cattle of the locality under such terms and conditions as may be prescribed by such authority in the rules made under this Act.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law it shall be lawful for such authority to allot a portion of its fund for the purpose of maintenance of such stud-bulls; and the local authority shall allot for such purpose one-fourth of all monies received in the area within its jurisdiction under the Cattle Trespass Act, 1871. I of 1871

6. A local authority may, for the purpose of section 5, take possession of Brahmini or Khodai bulls. A register shall be maintained by a local authority of all bulls taken possession of by such authority under this section.

Grants to any person by local authority for the purchase and maintenance of stud-bulls

7. It shall be lawful for a local authority to make suitable grant or grants to any person or persons from its funds for the purchase and maintenance of stud-bulls to be kept within the local limits of its jurisdiction and under such terms and conditions as may be prescribed by such authority from time to time by rules made under this Act.

Power to Local Government to fix the number of stud-bulls for a local authority

8. The Local Government shall after consideration of the views of a local authority, by notification, fix the minimum number of stud-bulls to be maintained by such authority.

Power to make rules

9. (1) A local authority may, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, make rules—

(a) prescribing the terms and conditions for lending any stud-bull for breeding purposes to any person or persons or other local authorities;

(b) prescribing the terms and conditions of a grant under section 7;

(c) prescribing fees for services rendered by its stud-bulls and for the levy of such fees;

(d) for the proper up-keep, maintenance and periodical inspection and medical examination of stud-bulls; and

(e) generally for carrying out the purposes of this Act.

(2) Rules made under this section shall be posted up in a conspicuous position at the office of such local authority, and in such other public places as that local authority may direct.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The Bill intends in the main to make provision for the protection and maintenance of Brahmini bulls by local authorities. The need of adequate and suitable stud-bulls is being keenly felt in the Province. The Brahmini and Khodai bulls which helped to serve the purpose of breeding have now become scarce, and the res-nullius judgments of the Calcutta High Court reported in I. L. R. Calcutta, Vol. 17, page 852, goes to prove that the destruction and diversion to other purposes of such bulls can be carried on with impunity. There is no special provision in the Local Self-Government Acts enjoining the maintenance of stud-bulls by local bodies especially for breeding purposes. Provision has been made in this Bill for rectifying the existing defects in Legislature concerning cattle and cattle breeding.

18. In section 58 of the said Act, after the words "body of persons" the words "or to any individual" shall be inserted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The Village Self-Government Act was passed in 1919, before the reform scheme came into existence.

Now that all the chairmen of the district boards are non-officials, and some time has passed to enable the public to make observations on the working of the Act by past experience as the intention of the Government, by passing this Act, is to give to the people real self-government, it is not desirable that the district magistrate with the circle officer should nominate the members of the union boards and exercise supreme control over the union boards. It is proper to give to the people real power to govern themselves. It is necessary to give to the district boards the control of the union boards which now rest with the magistrate. The appointment, salary, etc., of the chaukidars and dafadars should be given to the union boards under the control of the district boards. These and other necessities require amendment of this Act.

Notes on Clauses.

Clause 2.—It has been observed that in several cases local areas forming union boards have not been properly distributed with regard to the population, proximity and area. It is, therefore, necessary that there should be such power given to the district boards and also a clear provision is necessary.

Clauses 3, 12 and 15.—It is most desirable that for "district magistrate," the "district board," should be substituted.

Clause 4.—It is very necessary that most of the poor villagers should be empowered to be voters. The present qualification of the voters, one rupee, is very high, and in the mentioned clauses of sub-section (1) of section 7 it is very necessary to reduce it.

Clauses 5 and 6.—It is very desirable that an opportunity should be given to the members and president of a union board who are removed from the office under sections 12 and 16, respectively, of the Act to explain the charges preferred against them; and to meet any charges that may have been brought against them that they should have a right of an appeal.

Clause 7.—The union rate realized from the villagers and at present the number of chaukidars and their pay is very high; and in respect of the number and pay, etc., of Chaukidars, opinions of the villagers should be highly taken into consideration. As the Government do not defray the expenses about the matter, the all-supreme power should not remain with the district magistrate. So apparently this provision is made for the encouragement of some power of the union board. It is also practically important for the Government to reduce the Chaukidari Tax which will remove public discontent and make the people more loyal, and also such provision was made in the Chaukidari Amendment Act. Under the circumstances it is the most desirable that there can be no question that this Act is far more important than the Chaukidari Act.

Clause 8.—It is considered that section 27 should include the removal of the plague of the water-hyacinth, and that this should be specifically mentioned in the Act.

Clause 9.—The term of fifteen days is very short. So provision should be made for thirty days.

Clause 10.—Public halots, which were formerly very good means of communication during the dry season and which also served as boat passages during the rains have, in many cases, been encroached upon and ploughed up.

With a view to put a stop to this practice and re-open the old halots, the aforesaid amendment is necessary.

Clause 11.—An amendment of section 32 has been suggested in order to provide for the engagement of the services of medical practitioners by union boards. This seems very desirable.

Clause 13.—If there is no holding in the union but there is an estate or portion of the lands, this can be assessed according to the income derived therefrom This kind of amendment has been added in section 37 of the Act.

Clause 14.—Provision has been made in sub-clause (1) that if a person has lands in two or three unions his assessment should not exceed forty rupees for each union and if he has lands in four or more unions his assessment should not exceed thirty rupees for each union, and in sub-clause (2) a new sub-section (2) has been proposed in section 38.

Clause 16.—Generally the poor become defaulters. So a fine is not at all desirable. Hence it should be discontinued. However, a one-anna fine may be exacted out of eight annas per rupee.

Clause 17.—Provision is made for the better encouragement for the works of sanitation, irrigation or education or the improvement of the public health.

Clause 18.—The intention of the small verbal amendment in section 58 of the Act is to make the meaning of that section more clear.

A

BILL

further to amend the Calcutta Improvement Act, 1911.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Calcutta Improvement Act, 1911, so as to make the constitution of the Board of Trustees more representative; Ben. Act V of 1911.

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title

1. This Act may be called the Calcutta Improvement (Amendment) Act, 1925.

Amendment of section 5 of Bengal Act V of 1911

2. (1) In section 5 of the Calcutta Improvement Act, 1911, after the words "Chairman and" the words "one out of" shall be inserted; and

(2) to that section the following shall be added, namely:—

> "The remaining three of such persons shall be elected by the elected members of the Bengal Legislative Council."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The Calcutta Improvement Act was passed in 1911. It is the general feeling that the objects of the Act have not been carried out with due regard to the needs and circumstances of the inhabitants of Calcutta. The activities of the Trust have chiefly been of a destructive character, resulting in considerable hardship upon residents and a great shortage in housing accommodation. The operations of the Improvement Trust have thus seriously affected the poorer sections of the community. The failure of the Trust to conduct its operations in a satisfactory manner has been due, in the main, to the fact that the Board, as at present constituted, is not sufficiently in touch with the views and wishes of the people of the city. It is, therefore, proposed in this Bill to amend the constitution of the Board of Trustees so as to make this body more popular than it is at present.

Fee payable on confirmation of provisional registration of servant ...	... 0	8	0
Fee payable by the servant for a duplicate Engagement Book ...	... 0	8	0

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

There is a real need for the registration of domestic servants in Calcutta, not only in the interests of masters, but of the domestic servants themselves, who will thereby be given distinct advantages in whatever form of domestic service they may accept; the introduction, then, of such legislation while protecting the interests of domestic servants, will also go largely to prevent servants of doubtful character and qualifications being engaged in domestic service. In this Bill the registration of domestic servants is made optional under specified conditions, in the town of Calcutta. In Ceylon, by Ordinance No. 11 of 1865 and by Ordinance No. XVII of 1914 of the Straits Settlements, the registration of domestic servants is provided for in the towns, districts or local areas as prescribed by these Ordinances. In the Cantonments of India similar forms of registration are in vogue for the proper regulation of the conditions of service of domestic servants.

THE BENGAL VILLAGE SELF-GOVERNMENT (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1925.

A

BILL

to amend the Bengal Village Self-Government Act, 1919.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Bengal Village Self-Government Act, 1919, in the manner hereinafter appearing; Ben. Act V of 1919.

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title.

1. This Act may be called the Bengal Village Self-Government (Amendment) Act, 1925.

Amendment of section 6 of Bengal Act V of 1919.

2. In sub-section (4) of section 6 of the Bengal Village Self-Government Act, 1919, the words "or by appointment by the District Magistrate, and any person so appointed shall be deemed to be a duly elected member" shall be omitted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

This Bill is intended to develop further the system of Local Self-Government in Bengal and to secure this end the power of wholesale appointment of union boards in cases of failure of election by District Magistrate is sought to be abolished and the training of people in the elective system is asked for. Such a step will establish the union boards on the bedrock of popular will and not considered as an exotic institution thrust on the villagers by a foreign agency.

to amend the Bengal Village Self-Government Act, 1919.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Bengal Village Self-Government Act, 1919 (Bengal Act V of 1919) in the manner hereinafter appearing; Ben. Act V of 1919.

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. This Act may be called the Bengal Village Self-Government (Amendment) Act, 1925.

Amendment of section 6 of Bengal Act V of 1919.

2. In sub-section (3) of section 6 of the Bengal Village Self-Government Act of 1919, hereinafter referred to as the said Act, for the words "one-third" the words "one-fifth" shall be substituted.

Amendment of section 101.

3. In clause (a) of sub-section (2) of section 101 of the said Act, the words "voting of which shall be by ballot" shall be inserted between the words "or election" and "of members of union boards".

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

This Bill intends in the first place to increase the number of elected representatives on the union boards. This provision has been suggested for the gradual development of self-governing institutions which, it is hoped, will ultimately lead to the realisation of responsible self-government in the country. In the second place this Bill intends to guarantee the free exercise of independent will of the voters which they under the present circumstances cannot do on account of the fear and pressure they are brought to bear.

RESOLUTION ON THE ANNUAL PROGRESS REPORT ON THE FOREST ADMINISTRATION IN THE PRESIDENCY OF BENGAL FOR THE YEAR ENDING THE 31st MARCH 1925.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

Forests.

CALCUTTA, THE 14TH DECEMBER 1925.

RESOLUTION—No. 12687 For.

READ—

The Annual Progress Report on the Forest Administration in the Presidency of Bengal for the year ending the 31st March 1925.

READ ALSO—

The report of the previous year and the Government resolution thereon.

Mr. Milward held charge of the Department till the 16th April 1924, when he went on leave preparatory to retirement, being relieved by Mr. Homfray. Mr. Shebbeare was in charge from the 1st October till the end of the year.

The area of the Reserved Forests is now 5,288 square miles, one square mile having been added during the year. There has been no change in the area of protected forests, which is 1,753 square miles, but a large decrease of 981 square miles is recorded in the area of Unclassed State Forests. This appears to be due to the discovery of a mistake in computation; the Conservator has been asked for further information.

The working plans of the Jalpaiguri and Buxa Divisions were under revision. As the period of these plans expired in March 1924 and June 1925, the revision is overdue. It is satisfactory that working plans have now been prepared for 96 per cent. of the Reserved Forests.

The facts regarding the future value of the plantations, given in paragraph 47 of the Conservator's report, deserve careful attention. They show how valuable an asset is being created by this system of regeneration which substitutes plantations of good timber trees for forest of small value. The area of these plantations has increased in the last five years from 8,802 to 15,353 acres, but the Conservator of Forests has shown how far this work has fallen behind the programme laid down in the working plans. This is attributed to the lack of roads and to the shortage of labour for plantation work. Plantations also require close supervision, for which the present staff of Rangers and Deputy Rangers is not sufficient. It appears that the working plans were prepared on too hopeful a basis. It is obvious that if there is to be progress in development, new communications must be opened, conditions must be adapted to secure an adequate supply of labour, and a sufficient staff for supervision must be provided. Only four miles of new cart-roads were made in 1923-24 and twelve in 1924-25, the cost being Rs. 5,069 and Rs. 11,981. His Excellency in Council is inclined to think that a fixed sum should be set aside every year for development. It will then be possible, in preparing the working plans, to plan the exploitation of new areas on a more assured basis.

There was a substantial increase in both the quantity and value of timber and other products extracted by departmental agency, the value rising from Rs. 3,68,126 to Rs. 4,30,097. This work was done mostly in Kurseong, Jalpaiguri and Buxa Divisions. Interesting operations were carried on at Toong and Sukna, where skidders and saw-mills have been started to deal with the timber from the clear-felled areas. The Conservator of Forests has dealt with these enterprises in his chapter on Research and Experiments; they are an important part of the work which is replacing forests of comparatively small value with plantations of valuable trees, but must still be regarded as experimental.

Departmental operations account for only a small percentage of forest products, the greater part being sold standing to purchasers either by auction or on a royalty basis. It is satisfactory to record that there was again a considerable increase both in outturn and value of the timber sold in this way. The outturn increased by more than a million cubic feet to 17,440,000, and the value rose from Rs. 10,71,451 to Rs. 12,62,124.

The financial results of the year's work were satisfactory. Gross revenue rose to 24¾ lakhs, and was two lakhs more than in the previous year and almost four lakhs more than the average of the five years ending 1922-23. Expenditure increased by almost Rs. 1,59,000 to more than 14 lakhs, which is about Rs. 2,70,000 above the average of the same five years, and the net revenue increased by Rs. 55,000 and was 1¼ lakhs above the same average. An examination of the figures shows that expenditure on establishment has remained almost stationary, and that the increase in expenditure has been largely due to development work, which will be remunerative. The expenditure included Rs. 76,834 spent on the purchase, erection and working of a skidder, saw-mill and aerial rope-way in the Kurseong Division and Rs. 55,923 on new roads and buildings.

The year's record is one of careful management and steady progress, and the Governor in Council is pleased to record his appreciation of the good work done by the Forest Department under the guidance of Mr. Homfray and Mr. Shebbeare.

ORDER.—Ordered that the above resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

Ordered also that a copy of the above resolution be forwarded to the Conservator of Forests, Bengal, for information.

4. If any measure which the Chief Sanitary Officer has, by a notice issued under any of these regulations, required to be carried out, be not carried out to his satisfaction within the time stated in the notice, the Chief Sanitary Officer shall be entitled to carry out the measure.

Provided that where the conditions, which led the Chief Sanitary Officer to pass such an order, are not attributable to the act or default of the person in possession of the property, the Board may pay to such person the whole or part of the expenses incurred by him in carrying out the order.

(2) The Board may recover all expenses incurred by the Chief Sanitary Officer in carrying out the measures under regulation 4 from the person or persons to whom the notice was originally issued.

The normal surplus which may be expected in future, i.e., difference between the average ordinary income and the expenditure, calculated on the figures in columns 13 to 15 and 17 to 19, respectively.	Remarks.

In addition to the details required on the reverse, clear information should be given below under the following heads :—

(a) If the ordinary surplus is insufficient to meet the charge of the proposed loan, the particular steps which the District Board has taken or has agreed to take to make good the deficiency.	(a) It has been stated in paragraph (d) that the interest together with the capital would be met out of the sum annually set apart for improvement of rural water-supply in the district. Virtually there is no deficit if the closing balance of the previous year is taken into account.
(b) Possible means of income in the revenue of the District Board.	(b) The settlement has nearly been over. The District Board expects a substantial increase to their income at the next revaluation.
(c) A statement of all outstanding loans as well as the annual charges involved on their account.	(c) (1) Loan of Rs. 40,000 taken on 20th March 1923, out of which 5 instalments at Rs. 1,873-1-6 were paid up to date. (2) Loan of Rs. 30,000 taken on 14th February, 1925, out of which only one instalment of Rs. 1,404-13 was paid up to date.
(d) Any explanation in regard to receipts and expenditure to show the true financial position of the Board when such is otherwise than the ordinary surplus would indicate.	(d) From the copy of Budget estimate sent herewith it will be seen that Rs. 17,443 has been provided in the current year's budget out of Rs. 24,000 available annually for improvement of water-supply under 45—Civil works for improvement of water-supply and the balance Rs. 6,557 has been provided under head " Repayment of Loan ". If this loan is granted there would be no difficulty in meeting the charges out of the above sum.

REPORT ON PUBLIC INSTRUCTION IN BENGAL, 1924-25.

CHAPTER I.

Introductory.

1. Institutions and pupils.—This report describes briefly the educational work undertaken, the changes effected, and the progress achieved in educational work in the province of Bengal during the year ending 31st March 1925. The number of recognised and unrecognised institutions in Bengal rose during the year under review from 56,001 to 57,173 or by 1,172. Of the total number of institutions returned on 31st March 1925, 43,415 were for males, and 13,758 were for females as compared with 42,761 and 13,240 institutions respectively returned on the corresponding date in 1924. The number of pupils attending both recognised and unrecognised institutions in 1924-25 increased from 2,057,062 to

2,150,942 or by 93,880. Recognised institutions increased in number from 54,649 to 55,890; the number of unrecognised institutions fell from 1,352 to 1,283. The number of pupils reading in recognised institutions rose from 2,009,827 to 2,107,127 or by 97,300; that in unrecognised institutions fell from 47,235 to 43,815 or by 3,420. Of the total number of pupils studying in all classes of institutions on 31st March 1925, 1,770,472 were males, and 380,470 were females; in the preceding year the corresponding figures were 1,692,688; and 364,374 respectively.

2. Different classes of recognised institutions.—Of the recognised institutions returned on 31st March 1925, 61 (including the special University classes) were arts and professional colleges; 996 were high schools, 1,691 were middle schools, 50,450 were primary schools; and 2,692 were special schools. On the corresponding date in 1924 there were 59 arts and professional colleges, 955 high schools, 1,664 middle schools, 49,425 primary schools, and 2,546 special schools. Of the recognised institutions, 334 were managed by Government and 3,656 by District and Municipal Boards; 43,307 received aid from public funds, and 8,593 were unaided. In the previous year the corresponding figures were 373, 3,465, 42,800 and 8,011 respectively. The decrease in the number of schools managed by Government was due to the deprovincialisation of the model primary schools for girls which however continue to exist as aided schools.

3. Expenditure on public instruction.—The total expenditure on public instruction amounted during the year under review to Rs. 3,56,45,939 as compared with Rs. 3,44,48,307 in the year preceding. Of the total expenditure Rs. 1,33,82,962 were met from Provincial Revenues; the contributions from District and Municipal funds amounted to Rs. 15,45,805 and Rs. 3,05,988 respectively; while Rs. 1,46,36,126 and Rs. 57,75,058 were provided from fees and other private sources respectively. In the previous year the contributions from Provincial Revenues, and District and Municipal funds amounted to Rs. 1,30,09,486, Rs. 14,89,234 and Rs. 3,30,354 respectively; while Rs. 1,40,16,364 and Rs. 56,02,869 accrued from fees and other private sources respectively. Thus expenditure increased from all sources except municipal funds.

4. Noteworthy features of the period under review.—No important development in education was carried out during the year under review. This was in part due to the absence of large new funds for development, as also to the fact that the unusual political conditions of the year, viz., a ministry struggling for its very existence followed by the temporary breakdown of the reformed system of administration was not favourable to the initiation of a constructive educational policy. Little progress was made in the direction of University reform, or the establishment of a Provincial Board of Secondary Education, though attempts were made to ascertain how far an agreed bill acceptable both to the University and to Government, was possible. A strong committee of the University, however, sat during the winter and spring, and produced proposals for the stabilisation of the post-graduate department, which were later on carried into effect. In primary education there is little to record beyond a normal increase in schools and pupils, the sanctioning of a few schemes and the starting of a certain number of additional free primary schools by the Corporation of Calcutta. The following were some of the prominent educational features of the year:—

(i) The dissolution of the Education Ministry in August 1924 and the consequent assumption of the control of the Department by His Excellency the Governor, Education at a later date becoming a Reserved subject administered by a Member, after a further short-lived ministry in March 1925.

(ii) The provision of funds (Rs. 6,35,400) by the Legislative Council in August 1924 for expenditure on account of the salaries of the inspecting officers employed under the Education Department, the bulk of the provision for which had in the previous March been refused.

(iii) The stoppage of recruitment to the Indian Educational Service, the Secretary of State deciding to make no more appointments, permanent or officiating, pending his formal orders on the Lee Commission's proposals on the future of the Service.

(iv) The publication of the revised Maktab curriculum.

(v) The revision of fee rates in Government High English Schools.

(vi) The pronouncement by Government of its views on the revision of the Matriculation Regulations including the use of the vernacular as a medium of instruction and examination, and the appointment by the University of Calcutta of a committee to consider them.

(vii) The abolition of fees in practising schools attached to Guru-training Schools.

(viii) The laying of the foundation stone, by His Excellency the Governor, of the Islamia College, Calcutta.

(ix) The prescription of 15 as the provisional age for admission to the Matriculation Examination.

5. But far the most notable, as also the most melancholy educational event of the year 1924-25 was the death of Bengal's most striking educational personality, Sir Ashutosh Mookerji. It is too early yet to estimate the real effect of his loss upon the educational progress of the province. Striking tributes were paid to his memory soon after the event, notable among them the speech delivered by His Excellency the Chancellor at the special senate meeting over which he presided. The death of the man who was five times Vice-Chancellor of the University of Calcutta and who had made the University what it is to-day, left a gap in the educational life of Bengal which will long remain unfilled. This is not the place to repeat or supplement the tributes which were paid by all classes to the work accomplished by him, not only for education, but in other spheres of public activity, nor to attempt to frame an estimate of its significance. The chronicler of this brief record of the year's events in education can but place the event on regretful record and pass on. And in so doing, he has to add that within a few brief months of that event, the blow to education in Bengal was intensified by the death of another great Bengali administrator and educationalist. In the words of His Excellency the Chancellor, "When Sir Ashutosh Mookerji died, a feeling akin to consternation was created in our minds. In the midst of our sorrow and apprehension, however, we felt that though no one was capable of bringing to the administration of the University that unique combination of almost superhuman industry, knowledge, and intellectual grip, which characterised Sir Ashutosh, yet in Mr. Bhupendra Nath Basu, we had a great Bengali statesman and patriot who would, we hoped, be able in spite of his frail health, to steer us through the troubled waters that still lay ahead of us". Mr. Basu, however, died on September 16th, and the hope that as Vice-Chancellor of the University of Calcutta, to which post he had been appointed in the previous year, he would be able, at least in part, to fill the gap left by the death of his predecessor, fell to the ground.

These two great losses overshadow the educational year 1924-25, and leave upon the record a deep tinge of melancholy.

CHAPTER II.

Controlling Agencies.

1. The agencies which control educational activities in the Presidency of Bengal are the departmental staff, local bodies and missionary agencies, Indian and non-Indian.

2. The Indian Educational Service.—The future of the Indian Educational Service is uncertain, and recruitment even on a temporary or officiating basis has been suspended until further orders. The situation is productive of considerable inconvenience, but little can be done to ameliorate the position until final orders as to the future are passed by the Secretary of State. The effect of the Secretary of States's stoppage of all appointments to the Indian Educational Service is that such Indian Educational Service posts as can without grave loss of efficiency be thus filled are replaced by Bengal Educational Service posts, while those which need more highly paid officers are filled on special terms on a contract for a term of years. The Indian Educational Service posts concerned however have so far not been abolished, but merely kept in abeyance. While applications for appointment to the Indian Educational Service are not being entertained, arrangements have been made for the consideration by the Provincial Selection Committee of applications from persons possessing superior qualifications for higher educational appointments.

(i) Men's Branch.—On the 31st March 1924 the men's cadre of the Indian Educational Service consisted of 68 appointments of which 3 posts were in the higher selection grade, 10 in the lower selection grade and 1 on a special rate of pay. The remaining 54 posts were on the ordinary time-scale of the service. No change occurred during the year under review and the cadre of the service on the 31st March 1925 was the same as in the preceding year. During the year 1924-25 Rai Kumudini Kanta Banerji Bahadur, Principal, Rajshahi College, retired from the service of Government after a period of 37 years of untiring zeal spent largely at Rajshahi College, of which he became Principal in 1897. He died shortly after his retirement. He was a great Principal and Bengal is the poorer for his loss. During his tenure of office Rajshahi College developed from a humble mufassal college into an institution which can take rank with some of the finest colleges in India, and has distinct aspirations after the attainment of University status. Of the European members of the service Messrs. Hornell, Turner and Holme retired on the expiry of the leave which they had taken preparatory to premature retirement. Mr. W. C. Wordsworth proceeded on leave preparatory to retirement on proportionate pension.

(ii) Women's Branch.—The cadre of the Women's Branch of the Indian Educational Service consisted of 4 posts as in the previous year. During the year Miss L. Brock retired from service. Miss Brock served as Inspectress of Schools for upwards of 20 years. Her work was distinguished by indefatigable energy and earnest endeavour, and it is not too much to say that the great advance which has been recorded in the education of women and girls in Bengal since 1910 is due largely to her capable and effective administration.

3. Bengal Educational Service.—(i) Men's Branch.—On the 31st March 1924 the number of appointments in the Men's Branch of the Bengal Educational Service was 211 including 5 temporary posts. During the year under review one post at Dacca Intermediate College was replaced by a post in the Subordinate Educational Service and the post of Inspector of Residence of Students, Dacca, was abolished with effect from 1st April 1925. One of the temporary posts in the Bengal Educational Service was replaced by a post outside the Educational Services. Thus at the end of the year 1924-25 the Bengal Educational Service consisted of 208 appointments of which 4 were temporary.

(ii) Women's Branch.—On the 31st March 1925 the number of appointments in the Women's Branch of the Bengal Educational Service was 20, the same as in the previous year.

4. The Subordinate Educational Service.—On the 31st March 1924 the strength of the service consisted of 1,465 teaching and 330 inspecting appointments on varying rates of time-scale pay, the inspecting appointments including 4 posts of Subdivisional Inspectors created in terms of Education Department letter No. 1598 Edn., dated the 4th August 1922, with effect from 1st August 1922 but kept in abeyance for want of funds. During the year under review 3 teaching posts were added to the cadre and 133 teaching and 2 inspecting posts (of Assistant Sub-Inspectors) were abolished. The service therefore consisted of 1,663 appointments on 31st March 1925, viz., teaching 1,335 and inspecting 328 appointments.

5. Posts outside the classified lists.—The number of posts outside the classified lists on 31st March 1924 was 490. Nine posts were added to the number during the year under review and the total strength on 31st March 1925 stood at 499 as detailed below:—

Ministerial appointments, including the establishments of the Director of Public Instruction and the Assistant Director of Public Instruction for Muhammadan Education.	390
Miscellaneous	109

6. Direction.—Mr. E. F. Oaten was Director of Public Instruction throughout the period under report. He was confirmed in the appointment from 12th June 1924. For the first few months of the year under report Mr. W. B. Finnigan officiated as Assistant Director of Public Instruction, Bengal and Mr. J. M. Bottomley as Assistant Director of Public Instruction for Muhammadan Education. In July 1924 Khan Bahadur Maulvi Ahsanullah was appointed to act as Assistant Director of Public Instruction for Muhammadan Education, and Mr. Bottomley assumed the duties of Assistant Director of Public Instruction.

The strength of the directing staff is inadequate and a point has been reached at which it becomes a duty to state the fact explicitly. The organisation for the control and direction of Education in Bengal was found to be inadequate under pre-war and pre-reform conditions. The volume and complexity of educational work have increased enormously since then and the problem of the administration of the Department during the next few years will tax to the fullest degree the resources of a thoroughly organised and adequately manned headquarters staff. Compared with other provinces Bengal is not well served in this regard. The intolerable burden of work is borne cheerfully by all concerned, and if relief is sought it is not so much because the officers affected desire to lighten that burden, but rather because they are conscious of duties left unperformed or inadequately performed owing to the sheer impossibility of coping with them. Touring for instance has almost ceased, and, when undertaken, can consist only of a hurried journey and the quickest possible return to headquarters. The headquarters staff is losing touch with the mufassal. Various possible remedies have been discussed, but some amelioration of the situation seems inevitable.

7. Inspecting agency.—During the year under review the inspectorate lost the services of Mr. H. E. Stapleton who was appointed officiating Principal, Presidency College, and Khan Bahadur Maulvi Ahsanullah who was appointed to officiate as Assistant Director of Public Instruction for Muhammadan Education. Owing to these transfers and the stoppage of recruitment to the Indian Educational Service, the divisional inspecting staff cannot be regarded as strong. The question whether an English element shall be retained in the inspectorate is one which will have to be faced at an early date, and also the terms on which it is to be recruited if at all. There is also the question of the best method of recruiting Indian officers for the highest posts in the inspectorate. It is very doubtful whether we can serve all our needs by means of promotion only, though this will always be a valuable partial source of recruitment. Of the five Divisional Inspectors three were in the Indian Educational Service and two in the Bengal Educational Service. The inspectorate consisted of 388 appointments on 31st March 1924. During the year under review 2 posts of Assistant Sub-Inspectors were abolished as an economy. The subjoined table indicates the strength, as it stood on 31st March 1925.

8. Extra-departmental agencies.—District and Municipal Boards continued the work of administering Primary Education in their respective areas. The thanks of the Department are due to District and Subdivisional Officers many of whom helped the Department with valuable advice and co-operation as Presidents of the Managing Committees of Secondary Schools. A word of praise and appreciation is also due to the various Indian and non-Indian missionary bodies and societies for the zeal which they showed in spreading and improving Primary Education among girls and women and members of the backward classes. Enrolled in the missionary organisations are some of the most earnest and soundest thinkers upon current educational problems, and the Department has often to thank them not only for co-operation but also for intellectual stimulus.

CHAPTER III.

University and Collegiate Education.

1. Universities.—The two Universities of Bengal, Calcutta and Dacca, continued their work during the year, each on its own characteristic lines. Mr. Hartog, Vice-Chancellor of Dacca University, who received from the University during the year the distinction of an honorary doctorate, presided over the University during the whole of the period under review. Mr. Bhupendra Nath Basu who had been Vice-Chancellor of Calcutta University since April 1923, died on September 16th, 1924. His successor in that onerous dignity was Sir Ewart Greaves, to whose conduct of the almost insupportable burden of work which has fallen upon him a deserved tribute was paid at the Convocation of March 1925. A feature of the period under review due to special causes, was that two convocations were held, in one of which the Chancellor personally conferred the degrees in the absence of the Vice-Chancellor through illness. The University year, as already stated, was overshadowed by the deaths of Sir Ashutosh Mookerji and Mr. Bhupendra Nath Basu who had both been Vice-Chancellor of the University.

2. The Arts and Science classes in the Post-Graduate Department of the University of Calcutta had on their rolls 994 and 205 students respectively on 31st March 1925 as compared with 1,051 and 199 students reading in these classes on the corresponding date of the previous year; there were also 168 students in the University Commerce classes.

The question of changes in the University of Calcutta on the lines of some of the recommendations made by the Sadler Commission is still under discussion between the University and Government; it was not possible during the year under report to undertake legislation towards this end.

On the 31st March 1925 there were 752 students (including 22 research scholars) in the Arts and Science classes of the University of Dacca as compared with 761 students on the corresponding date in 1924. In addition to these, 61 students were under instruction in the Commerce classes of the University. A permanent Head for the Department of Arabic and Islamic studies and an Additional Assistant Lecturer in Chemistry were appointed during the year. A fund was started by His Excellency the Chancellor for the endowment of a chair in Sanskritic studies but the support given has been inadequate. University work is hampered by the unsatisfactory condition of Secondary Education in Bengal.

3. Board of Intermediate and Secondary Education, Dacca.—The Board, of necessity, continues to function, though the necessity of its absorption or replacement by a body operating over a wider area is becoming obvious. It was never intended to be more than a temporary expedient, pending wider reform, but in the absence of reform, its life has to be prolonged. There were as in the previous year two intermediate arts colleges for men controlled by the Board of Intermediate and Secondary Education during the year 1924-25, viz., the Dacca and Jagannath Colleges. The former needs expansion and the latter consolidation. The Jagannath Intermediate College continues to impart instruction in dyeing and commerce, besides teaching the usual arts and science subjects. It became obvious that there was room for another Intermediate College in Dacca, and the Imperial Seminary was raised to the status of an Intermediate College after the close of the year under review. The Intermediate Department of the Eden High School for Girls, which works under the Board, is in a state of arrested development. As was observed in the last annual report the small area within which the Board works and the temporary character of its existence continue to hamper its usefulness. It is impossible for the Board to raise its standards since students will be scared away to institutions outside the Board area, where the old standards prevail. The views of the Board in regard to vocational courses in connection with Intermediate Colleges are expressed in the following extract:—

> Here we must prepare the ground. We must first of all try to turn the minds of the youths of Bengal to practical pursuits, to the possibility of seeking independent careers. * * These men will not go out as experts. They will not perhaps be able even to claim to have completely learnt any craft. But if they take to practical pursuits, their early start, their general intelligence, their education, their practical training (even though imperfect) will all tell in their favour in the struggle.

All of which simply means that as there are not enough "black-coat" posts in Bengal to go round, education must be so devised that the middle class boy will be mentally and physically prepared to take up a "shirt-sleeve" job, if necessary. Brave words, for they postulate a social as well as an educational "volte-face". They are at least free from the pretence that schools for cultural education can give a young man enough cultural knowledge to secure him the social distinction of a degree or diploma, while at the same time equipping him with a practical vocation which will earn him his living directly, he leaves the institution.

The net cost to Government for the maintenance of the Board amounted last year to Rs. 24,754 as compared with Rs. 22,514 in 1923-24.

4. Arts colleges.—On 31st March 1925 the Presidency had 37 arts colleges for men and 4 (including the Intermediate Department of the Eden High School for Girls, Dacca) for women with 22,169 students on the rolls; the corresponding figures for the previous year were 36, 4 and 21,053 respectively. The starting of an intermediate college for men at Howrah under private management accounts for the increased number for 1924-25. Of the 41 arts colleges, 10 were maintained by Government, 17 received aid from Provincial Revenues, and 14 were unaided; as against 10, 17 and 13 in the preceding year.

The cost of maintaining arts colleges amounted altogether to Rs. 31,47,049 as compared with Rs. 29,56,126 in 1923-24. The average annual cost of maintaining an arts college amounted during the year under review to Rs. 76,757. The average cost of educating a student in an arts college was Rs. 141-15 per annum of which Rs. 53-14-1 were borne by Provincial Revenues.

Arts Colleges for Men.

5. Number of colleges.—On 31st March 1925, there were in Bengal 37 arts colleges for men as compared with 36 on the corresponding date of the previous year; the increase was due to the establishment of the Narasinha Dutta College in Howrah. Eight colleges (including the Islamic Intermediate College, Dacca) were managed by Government and 29 by private bodies.

6. Number of students.—The number of students reading in arts colleges for men increased from 20,805 to 21,919 of whom 18,697 were Hindus, 2,853 were Muhammadans, and 369 were of other communities. The corresponding figures for the previous year were 17,656, 2,756 and 393 respectively.

7. Expenditure.—The total expenditure for the upkeep of arts colleges for men rose from Rs. 28,39,808 to Rs. 30,21,296 of which Rs. 10,96,293 were met from Provincial Revenues, Rs. 600 from Municipal funds, Rs. 17,07,691 from fees and Rs. 2,16,712 from other private sources.

8. Grants to private colleges.—In accordance with the recommendations made by a Select Committee of the University of Calcutta Government distributed, as previously, a sum of Rs. 1,29,000 among 25 private colleges, the grants being devoted chiefly to the improvement of the college libraries and laboratories. Besides this amount a sum of Rs. 2,19,263 was expended by Government directly in giving capital and maintenance grants to non-Government colleges during the year under review.

9. Government colleges.—Presidency College.—At the beginning of the year the college suffered a severe loss through the Principal, Mr. Wordsworth, proceeding on leave preparatory to retirement. He had with long interruptions due to the assumption of higher duties, managed the affairs of the college with tact and vigour since 1916. He was succeeded by Mr. Stapleton.

On 31st March 1925 the Presidency College had an enrolment of 958 students (including 206 University Post-Graduate students) as compared with 899 students returned on the corresponding date of the previous year. Of these students 772 were Hindus, and 156 were Muhammadans; the rest belonged to other creeds. The total cost of maintaining the college amounted during the year to Rs. 4,97,956 of which Rs. 3,48,449 were met from Provincial Revenues. The average annual cost of educating a student worked out at Rs. 510-3-2 of which Rs. 357-0-3 were borne by Provincial Revenues.

The Committee, which was constituted to examine various problems connected with the Presidency College, submitted an ad-interim report which dealt among other things with the questions of increased admissions and teaching staff, the enhancement of fee-rates and the status of the laboratory assistants. In July and August 1924 a systematic medical examination of the First, Second and Third Year classes was conducted through the co-operation of the Students' Welfare Committee of the University of Calcutta which revealed the distressing fact that of the students examined only about 20 per cent. enjoyed normal health. As a result of the medical examination it was decided to make games and physical exercises compulsory for the First Year classes and this reform was carried into effect after the year closed. In connection with the Founder's Day celebrations which were held in January 1925, Sir J. C. Bose gave an address to the students on 19th January 1925 and on the following day His Excellency Lord Lytton presided over a reunion of past and present students. The function was a very great success, and the honour of a visit from the head of the province—the first for many years—was much appreciated. Mr. Stapleton is to be congratulated on the successful revival of the function, the inauguration of which was one of the achievements of Mr. H. R. James' principalship.

10. Dacca Intermediate College.—Mr. A. K. Chanda held charge of the college during the year. The college had on its rolls 313 students on 31st March 1925 as compared with 318 returned on the corresponding date of 1924. Of the total enrolment 164 were Hindus, 147 were Muhammadans, and 2 were Indian Christians. The upkeep of the college cost Rs. 1,27,251 of which Rs. 97,629 were provided from Provincial Revenues. The average annual cost of educating each student amounted to Rs. 385-9-9 of which Rs. 295-13-6 were met from Provincial Revenues.

The Dacca Intermediate College is badly in need of expansion; but it cannot develope properly on its present site. The range of teaching is much restricted at present owing to the inadequacy of the space which is available. The scheme for removing the college to new buildings to be built at Amlapara has not yet materialised; meanwhile the college continues to occupy the building in which the School of Engineering was previously accommodated. A scheme was under discussion during the year for the removal of the college to the New Government House.

11. Hooghly College.—Mr. R. B. Ramsbotham was Principal of the college throughout the year. The college had 276 students on 31st March 1925 as against 273 on the corresponding date of the year preceding. Of these students 245 were Hindus, 30 were Muhammadans and 1 was an Indian Christian. The total cost of maintaining the college amounted last year to Rs. 1,21,794 of which Rs. 97,958 were provided from Provincial Revenues. The average annual cost of educating a student works out at Rs. 447-12-4 of which Rs. 360-2-3 were met from Provincial Revenues. Hooghly College has obtained affiliation in Physics up to the B. Sc. Honours standard. It is desirable that the college should be affiliated to the University of Calcutta in Chemistry up to the B.Sc. Honours standard for which purpose the present unsuitable laboratory should be remodelled. Much attention was devoted, as usual, during the year under review to the physical side of student life. The College Debating Club is reported to be languishing in spite of the support and encouragement given to it by the staff. As against this is to be set the fact that the college military platoon has acquitted itself well.

12. Sanskrit College.—Dr. Adityanath Mookerjee was Principal throughout the year. The English Department of the Sanskrit College had 85 students (all Hindus) on 31st March 1925 as compared with 73 returned on the corresponding date of 1924. Besides this number 53 students were under instruction in the Oriental or Tôl Department of the college. The total cost of maintaining the college Department amounted to Rs. 52,058 of which Rs. 47,802 were provided from Provincial Revenues. The average annual cost of educating a student amounted last year to Rs. 627-3-3 of which Rs. 575-14-10 were met from Provincial Revenues. The figure is high, but no reduction in the average cost can take place without an increase of students, which seems difficult. For some reason or other, the Sanskrit College in spite of low fees has ceased to attract students. Students taking up Honours in History and Philosophy were allowed, as previously, to attend lectures at the Presidency College without paying any extra fees. A feature of the Sanskrit College, which, in the opinion of the Principal, deters many students from joining the college is that in the First and Third Year classes students have to read a fairly heavy Sanskrit course (in addition to that prescribed by the University) for which they receive no recognition from the University. The University alone can remedy matters. The college has secured affiliation in Mathematics in the Intermediate standard; the staff required was appointed after the close of the period under review. Although the numerical strength of the college increased slightly last year, the Principal is of the opinion that no permanent and satisfactory increase in the admission can be expected until the staff in English, Sanskrit and Philosophy are strengthened. This is however at least doubtful, since the strength of the college fell before the staff was reduced. As a matter of fact the reduction followed as a result of the falling off of students, and it is very difficult to justify an increase of staff for so small a number of students. No fees are charged to students studying in the Tól or Oriental Department. The final report of the Committee appointed by Government to inquire into the condition of the Sanskrit College is still awaited.

13. Krishnagar College.—Mr. Egerton Smith was Principal of the college during the year. On 31st March 1925, Krishnagar College had 256 students as compared with 222 on the corresponding date of 1924. Of these students 231 were Hindus, 18 were Muhammadans and 7 were Indian Christians. The total cost of upkeep amounted last year to Rs. 1,22,855 of which Rs. 98,263 were provided from Provincial Revenues. The average annual cost of educating a student amounted last session to Rs. 493-6-3 of which Rs. 394-10-1 were borne by Provincial Revenues. As previously, the number of students in the Arts classes was smaller than that in the Science classes. Attendance at monthly examination which are held during term time is compulsory and the results of these examinations are taken into consideration in determining the fitness of a student for promotion to the next higher class or for being sent up for the University Examinations. Both the Hindu and Muhammadan hostels continued to occupy rented quarters during the year under review. A scheme for a specially built Hindu hostel has been approved. The present arrangement for the supply of water to the Science Laboratory is stated to be precarious and unsatisfactory. The urgent needs of the college are additional class rooms, a common room and a hostel for the Hindu students.

14. Chittagong College.—Shams-ul-Ulama Mr. Kamaluddin Ahmed was appointed to officiate as Principal during the year, Mr. J. R. Barrow proceeding on leave. On 31st March 1925 there were 537 students on the rolls of Chittagong College as against 546 on the corresponding date of the previous year. Of the total enrolment 339 were Hindus and 167 were Muhammadans, while 31 belonged to other communities. The total cost of maintaining the college amounted during the year under review to Rs. 1,16,387 of which Rs. 72,443 were met from Provincial Revenues. The average annual cost of educating a student amounted last year to Rs. 233-11-4 of which Rs. 145-7-6 were borne by Provincial Revenues. There has been of late a persistent demand for the opening of Botany and Geology classes at Chittagong College. In August 1924 a scheme for the construction of a hostel for Muhammadan students at a cost of Rs. 81,600 (including the cost of site) was approved by Government out of which a sum of Rs. 50,000 has been allotted for the work. This will remove a long-felt want and give considerable satisfaction to the students of the Muhammadan community. Much attention is given at the college to physical culture. A scheme for the expansion of the college is under preparation. The college magazine, which is a bilingual quarterly publication, was managed ably by a Board consisting of members of the teaching staff and students.

15. Rajshahi College.—The veteran principal of Rajshahi College Rai Kumudini Kanta Banerjee Bahadur retired and died amidst universal regret during the year and was succeeded by Mr. S. N. Maitra. Rajshahi College had 966 students on 31st March 1925 as compared with 908 on the corresponding date of the year preceding. Of these students 759 were Hindus, 206 were Muhammadans and 1 was a Buddhist. The total cost of maintaining the college amounted last year to Rs. 1,67,853 of which Rs. 83,676 were provided from Provincial Revenues. The average annual cost of educating a student amounted last session to Rs. 186-4-8 of which Rs. 92-13-11 were met from Provincial Revenues. The numbers in the Science classes were larger than those in the Arts classes. A new building for accommodating some of the Arts classes and the library was under construction, during the year. The system of medical examination of students instituted in 1921-22 was continued during the year under report. A series of lantern lectures was delivered at the college by a lecturer of the Bengal Social Service League. Roughly about one-half of the total number of students live in the college hostels and attached messes. Rowing is the most popular sport among the students. Rajshahi people dream one day of a University at Rajshahi and there are various schemes for the development of Rajshahi College. The inauguration of an agricultural department of the college, leading eventually to an agricultural college, is a project cherished by a large section of influential people there. Others want Law classes, M.A. classes in History, M.Sc. classes in Chemistry and so on. Considerable local support is forthcoming for these projects, and it is probable that with some increase in the general fee-rate as a basis, a beginning will be possible at no distant date.

16. Aided colleges.—During the year under review the number of aided colleges for men in the Presidency remained stationary at 16; the number of students reading in aided colleges rose, however, from 8,582 to 9,122. Of these students 7,603 were Hindus, and 1,259 were Muhammadans; the rest belonged to other communities. The total cost of maintaining aided colleges amounted last year to Rs. 9,86,351 of which Rs. 2,18,430 were provided from Provincial Revenues. The average annual cost of educating a student in an aided college amounted during the year 1924-25 to Rs. 108-2 of which Rs. 23-15-1 were met from Provincial Revenues, a figure eloquent of the small extent to which the college system outside the directly maintained Government colleges, rests for support on Government, especially when the large unaided system is taken into account. The fact is that by methods of mass production combined with low salaries (there are of course notable exceptions), the college system is able to render itself well nigh self-supporting, and will continue to do so until the University insists on higher standards and the state or the parent provides funds to enable these higher standards to be attained. Among aided colleges the Jagannath College, Dacca, has provision for teaching Dyeing and Commerce in addition to the ordinary arts and science subjects. The Serampore College continues to occupy the unique position of a University in regard to the teaching of Theology, besides being affiliated to the University of Calcutta in Arts and Science. During the year under report the Daulatpur Hindu Academy obtained affiliation in English and Philosophy up to the B.A. Honours standard. The science classes at St. Xavier's College are deservedly popular. The Wesleyan College, Bankura, has commenced teaching Chemistry up to the B.Sc. Honours standard, a welcome development in view of the high standards and traditions of this college. Victoria College, Comilla, secured affiliation in English (Honours), Mathematics (Pass) and Economics (Pass) standard. The Scottish Churches College continued to help in maintaining high collegiate standards in Calcutta and last session had about a hundred ex-students belonging to the University Post-Graduate classes.

17. Unaided colleges.—During the year under report there were in Bengal 13 unaided arts colleges for men having on their rolls 9,546 students on 31st March 1925. The corresponding figures for the previous year were 12 and 9,125 respectively. The increase in the number of unaided colleges for men was due as explained above to the starting of an Intermediate College at Howrah. The total cost of maintaining unaided colleges amounted last year to Rs. 8,11,932; the average annual cost of educating a student was Rs. 85-0-10. The South Suburban College, Bhowanipore, was re-named Ashutosh College after the late Sir Ashutosh Mukherjee, who was President of the Governing Body. The Vidyasagar College arranged to open classes in Botany for which additional class rooms were under construction during the year under report. The Central College, Calcutta, and the Uttarpara College both of which teach up to the Intermediate standard only, appear to be struggling for existence. The former has provision for teaching the arts course only and its fate is an eloquent tribute to the intensity of young Bengal's demand for instruction in natural science. In both cases, the roll number was below 100.

18. Advisory Committee for Higher Education.—At a meeting held on 29th November 1924 the Advisory Committee for Higher Education finally agreed to recommend the rate of 8⅓ per cent. to be contributed by the University of Dacca to the Provident Fund for teachers on condition that the same rate were adopted for the University of Calcutta (Post-Graduate Departments) and also on condition that Government would make a start with a provident fund for colleges.

The Committee also considered the question of standardising the Honours courses at the Universities of Calcutta and Dacca. In Calcutta the Honours course extends over a period of 2 years, while in Dacca it extends over 3 years. The three-year system was recommended by the Sadler Commission. Owing to this divergence of system many students who intend to take Honours are at present unwilling to join Dacca University. The general trend of opinion is in favour of making the Honours course of Calcutta University a three-year course as at Dacca. Sir Ewart Greaves, Vice-Chancellor of Calcutta University, indicated that time would be required to obtain the views of the Principals of Colleges affiliated to Calcutta University, and that there were many practical difficulties in the way. There is much to recommend the change since its real effect would be to reduce the period of general academic study for many students by one year, since a 3-year honours course would be sufficient academic preparation for large numbers of students, whereas a 2-year course is not, and a further 2-year M.A. course is entailed upon such students. It would be easy, by means of a co-operative system with the Post-Graduate Department to introduce the course in Calcutta City itself, but the mufassal problem presents difficulties. The question was postponed for the time being.

19. Conclusion.—There is still a remarkable demand everywhere for the study of science subjects. This is probably due, in part, to a vague idea that science study is in some way "vocational" in a sense in which Philosophy or History is not. So far as the demand is based on this belief, disappointment is in store for the enthusiasts of science. A Law Course, a Medical Course, a Teacher's Training Course, an Engineering Course, a Veterinary Course, are vocational, and a student, who means to take up one of these courses, will naturaly select that preliminary course of studies, whether arts or science, which best prepares for these courses. But if, like so many, he intends to take up none of these specialised courses, but is seeking merely a general academic course leading to a degree, and the vague undefined possibilities that follow it, the choice as between a scientific and a philosophical or literary course is one to be made with careful reference to his temperament, his tastes and his intellectual capacity, and should not be biassed by any misconception as to its "vocational" value. The Principals of certain colleges report that there are already signs of a reaction in favour of the arts course, a reaction due in part to the high fees for science which it has been necessary for colleges in self defence to impose. Science education was too long neglected in India, and it is all to the good that it has come to its own. The next step is to give it its rightful place in the schools, which it has as yet scarcely yet reached. But nothing is gained and much lost if the University and College students of Bengal, while learning of the chemical reactions of matter or the theories of the atom, know, as regards the mass of them, nothing of the lessons of history and the splendour of ancient literature and culture.

CHAPTER IV.

Secondary Education.

1. General statistics.—On the 31st March 1925 all classes of secondary schools in Bengal numbered 2,687 as compared with 2,619 on the corresponding date of the preceding year; the increase was due to the opening of new high and middle English schools. The number of pupils reading in secondary schools rose during the year under review from 352,181 to 368,520 or by 16,339. The cost of maintaining secondary schools in Bengal amounted to Rs. 1,12,82,516 as compared with Rs. 1,09,56,312 in the previous year. The average annual cost of each secondary school was Rs. 4,198-14-9 and the cost per pupil worked out at Rs. 30-9-10.

Secondary Education for Indian Boys.

[The secondary education of Indian girls and Europeans is dealt with in other chapters.]

2. Schools and pupils.—The number of secondary schools for Indian boys rose during the period under review from 2,498 to 2,566 or by 68. High and Middle English schools increased by 40 and 49 respectively, but Middle Vernacular schools decreased by 21. Purely vernacular education is not popular, and this accounts for the gradual elimination of Middle Vernacular schools from the Educational system. High and Middle English schools gained 8,598 and 7,859 pupils respectively; while Middle Vernacular schools lost 659 pupils.

3. Expenditure.—The total direct expenditure on secondary schools for Indian boys amounted during the year under review to Rs. 93,12,095 as compared with Rs. 89,91,941 in the preceding year. Of the total expenditure incurred in 1924-25 Rs. 16,60,397 were provided from public funds, and Rs. 76,51,698 were met from private sources; against Rs. 16,99,228 and Rs. 72,92,713 respectively in the previous year. Thus with the opening of new secondary schools under private management the expenditure from private funds increased, but that from public funds slightly decreased. At the close of the year the Legislative Council voted an increased annual grant of 3 lakhs of rupees for secondary education, but this did not take effect till after the close of the period under review. High English schools cost Rs. 71,03,121; Middle English schools cost Rs. 21,36,891; and Middle Vernacular schools Rs. 72,083.

4. Manual instruction.—As in the previous year 22 secondary schools in the Province possessed arrangements for imparting manual instruction. The extension of the scheme to other schools was not found possible owing to the lack of funds. The Conference of Educational Officers which met in Calcutta in February 1925 under the Presidentship of the Director of Public Instruction and considered inter alia the question of "vocational" and practical courses in high schools was of opinion that a Bengal high school is not the place for vocational training in the strict sense of the phrase; this might more properly be given in special institutions at the end of the general school course; it was however desirable that a choice from certain practical or non-literary subjects such as Carpentry, Weaving, Smithery, Agriculture, Gardening and Drawing should be introduced in high schools with a view to adding interest and diversion to the general course. The idea of giving instruction in such schools in subjects like type-writing and shorthand was deprecated. What the Bengali school boy of 12 to 16 needs, it would seem, is not so much vocational as "avocational" training, training that will take him away from his books, and help him to create hobbies, or teach him to use his hands in making things for himself, and to employ his spare time usefully and profitably; it confuses the issue and darkens thought if we conceive of secondary school education as being direct preparation for a vocation. As regards high schools the term "Vocational training" should disappear in favour of the more strictly correct phrase "practical training" or "practical arts training". Beyond all this, however looms the vaster question: "Does not rural Bengal need an entirely different type of school?" a school which while not definitely "vocational", will relate itself in every subject of its curriculum to the life of the village and prepare the boy not to desert it, but to stay in it and develop it?

5. "B" Classes.—The "B" or Science Course Classes attached to five Government schools in the Presidency had an enrolment of 110 pupils on 31st March 1925. Of the 36 candidates, who were sent up for the "School Final" examination, 25 were successful. The Examination has aimed at the creation in schools of a "modern" side, but it has operated within narrow limits, and has not achieved its aim, as for various reasons few boys have entered for the examination.

6. High schools under the Board of Secondary and Intermediate Education, Dacca.—The Board of Secondary Education, Dacca, has revised the curriculum of high schools under it. History and Geography have been made compulsory subjects and Science has been included in the curriculum. The small area allotted to the Board—the Board's jurisdiction extends to twelve high schools only—and the arrangement by which its existence is sanctioned from year to year places the Board in a very unsatisfactory position. The necessities of the position were summed up last year in the phrase "end or extend", which still stands as a statement of the two obvious alternatives, though pending a decision on University reform the adoption of either course presents difficulties. The Chairman of the Board makes the following observations, with regard to High School Education which may be regarded as indicative of the present general situation:—

But there is no real life. All sense of larger purpose is gone out of school education. The old unquestioning faith in Western education has lost its hold on the country. And just as that faith was somewhat blind, the unfaith also is somewhat blind. The movement for "national" schools, captured the imagination of the country but did not last, and now a re-action has set in. The country has returned to the old schools, but it has returned to them with a heart that is sick. School-going has become mechanical and aimless. A complete reorganisation of intermediate and secondary education on a broader basis and with practical aims is the first, the greatest, and the most urgent need.

7. Experiments in Education.—The "Dalton Laboratory Plan", according to which each boy progresses in proportion to his own mental powers without retarding more capable boys, was introduced into the four top classes of the Armenitola High School, Dacca, in January 1925, by Mr. T. J. Collins, the Head Master, who made a special study of the subject while on leave in England last year. The two essentials of the scheme, viz., (1) capable teachers and (2) a variety of reference books have been provided as far as possible. The students are reported to be working better according to this method than they did under the class system; and the parents of the pupils, who raised some objection at first, are beginning to appreciate its value. His Excellency the Governor of Bengal visited the school on 11th February 1925 and wrote as follows:—

> I was much interested also to see some of the classes working in laboratories on the Dalton Plan—a most encouraging departure from the old established didactic method of teaching.

The scheme is frankly experimental, and will be abandoned if it is proved that it is not suitable in Indian conditions. It is understood, however, to have succeeded at Sylhet in Assam, and it is hoped that the result at Dacca will be equally encouraging.

Another very interesting experiment, which is being carried on in this school, is the working out of "projects", that is the systematic study of selected subjects not part of the prescribed curricula by a pupil or a group of pupils under the direction of a teacher. The work turned out by some of the pupils is reported to be extremely promising.

In certain schools under the control of the Board of Secondary Education, Dacca, the system of "grading" boys in particular subjects for the purpose of teaching according to their efficiency, irrespective of the classes to which they belong, is being tried. The system has the advantage of helping the better boys to go forward, and of adapting teaching to the capacity of those who are behind-hand.

8. Deprovincialisation of Government high schools.—It was decided during the year under review to abandon the idea of establishing a Government zilla school at the headquarters of the district of Burdwan. A high school on an aided basis was started in the buildings constructed recently at a cost of Rs. 2,17,000 for the proposed zilla school. Some of the teachers of the local Municipal High School obtained appointments in the new school, new staff also being recruited. Part of the grant of the Municipal School, together with a proportion of the pupils, was transferred to the school. The school, called Burdwan Town School, has been placed under a strong representative committee of management with the District Magistrate as President. The site acquired in 1920 for the Zilla School together with the buildings erected thereon has been leased to the Managing Committee of the aided school at a nominal rent of Re. 1 per annum subject to the usual conditions imposed in such cases. The work of the school will be carefully watched, as its cost to Government is much less than that of a zilla school would have been, and if fully successful it will demonstrate the wisdom of the economical policy followed by Government in this instance.

The proposal to deprovincialise the High School at Jamalpur in the district of Mymensingh and to conduct it as an aided institution has been held in abeyance, and no general policy of deprovincialisation has been adopted.

9. The Matriculation Examination.—The results in the Matriculation Examination continue to be the subject of comment. The comparatively easy standard of the examination which makes it possible for large numbers of students who are not really ready for a University course to enter the University is being reflected in colleges as well as in schools. The remedy—the only remedy that really holds the field—lies in the creation by the Legislature of a representative authority which shall control and supervise secondary education. The problem is how to reconcile the rights and claims of the University of Calcutta in respect of secondary education with those of the community as a whole. So far the Gordian knot remains uncut. Meantime secondary education drifts without defined aims. There is probably no harder worked public body in India than the Syndicate of Calcutta University, but with all the good will in the world the busy professional men who compose it cannot give the school problem, which really needs the whole-time services of several first-rate administrators, one tithe of the attention which it really demands. It has become an administrative task, the duties of which demand undivided attention.

Until recently boys under the age of 16 years were debarred from appearing at the Matriculation Examination in terms of Section 3, Chapter XXX, of the University Regulations. This restriction has been removed and boys of 15 years of age may, under a recent regulation of the University of Calcutta, sanctioned by Government, be permitted to appear at the Matriculation Examination, provided that the Head Master certifies that the boy is fit for the responsibilities of college life. This is an ad-interim decision pending the final disposal of the question. The reform of the curriculum of the Matriculation Examination is overdue. The University submitted certain proposals for the necessary changes in 1922, but their acceptance in toto presented considerable difficulties, and Sir P. C. Mitter, as Minister of Education, thought it best to defer action till the formation of the Board of Secondary Education, which it was part of his policy to create. When Mr. Fazlul Haq became Minister, it became clear that the creation of a Board was likely to be in some measure delayed, and the views of Government in the Ministry of Education were communicated to the University. Two years had however been lost. Owing to the pre-occupation of the University with the post-graduate problem, a further year elapsed before the University's views on Government's communication were formulated and despatched. The proposals are now under the consideration of Government. Features of the proposals are the entire abandonment of an age-limit for the Matriculation, coupled with an age-limit of 15 for entrance to colleges, the adoption of the Vernacular as the medium of instruction and examination in schools, the abolition of a compulsory classical language, the prescription of history and geography as compulsory subjects and the enforcement, where possible, of practical work like carpentry and other forms of manual or practical training. Though there may be difference of opinion in regard to details, the proposals are in the main on sound lines, and Government's communication in 1924 dealt with the proposals from this point of view.

10. General conditions.—The condition of secondary schools in general and of high schools particularly continues to be unsatisfactory. In a considerable number of the aided schools some improvement has been effected by an increase in grants, fee-rates, and in teachers' salaries. But a large proportion of the schools under private management is reported to be struggling for existence. It was stated in the last report that the remedies for the situation were new sources of revenue, viz., new grants-in-aid, which cannot be large in the absence of new taxation, increased subscriptions or endowments, and increased fees. The department has been able to do something in regard to the first and the third sources. Three lakhs were voted in March last and in return for a grant from this source many schools have increased their resources by raising fees. The detailed report on the results belongs not to this, but to the next report. The essential problem however remains untouched, and only vastly greater resources can enable it to be tackled with any prospect of success. When one surveys the high school system in Bengal, with its well nigh thousand schools, recognised by the University, which are preparing candidates for a University education to which many of them can never attain, and in many cases are preparing them utterly badly, and yet are certainly preparing them for nothing else, one becomes convinced that the schools in a large number of cases are in urgent need of a new orientation. At present they are preparing their pupils for an examination, whereas their task is to prepare them for life. Probably—though here one must necessarily speak hesitatingly—at least one-third of the schools ought to cease to be recognised high schools, and become middle schools with a strong practical bias, which in many cases would in Bengal be agricultural. This would ensure that the genuine ordinary high school, worthy of the name, and competent to do its work, would not be weakened by the loss of pupils who now in many cases are lost to it owing to the attraction of the cheap fees of the undercutting bad high school. Bad schools, like bad money, drive out good. The whole problem however of the weak, struggling, and incompetent high school is one that needs the unremitting attention of first class whole-time thought. It is easy to say—" this is a bad school—let us refuse to recognise it ". This, however, the University regards as school-murder, and normally it shrinks from drastic action of the kind. The problem of educational administration is to discover the right type or types of school required in place of the scores of struggling and incompetent high schools now attempting an impossible task. This discovered, the administrator can then say: " change or cease to be ". For the great and immensely difficult task of laying down the lines of future school development in Bengal, and of directing and guiding this development detail by detail, the present organisation is unsuited. If custom had not staled us to its use, it would be clearly recognised that the work involved has passed beyond the possibility of effective administration by a body which is necessarily so limited in constitution and character, and so hopelessly overworked in other directions, as the existing recognising authority. It has itself recognised this by devolving the main bulk of its school administrative work to a Schools Committee, but this solution can only be regarded as an unsatisfactory and temporary palliative of a situation that requires more fundamental treatment.

11. Principles of distribution of grants-in-aid to secondary schools.—The Conference of Educational Officers referred to above discussed the question and arrived at the following decisions among others:—

(a) that a minimum expenditure scale of Rs. 540 (11 teachers) per month be insisted upon provided that the University insists on its own scale of minimum salaries.

(b) that no grants should be given to schools in which the scale of fees is less than the minimum prescribed by the Department. (This is a descending scale commencing at Rs. 3 in the highest class.)

(c) that financial inducements should be held out to non-Government schools to send their teachers for training and to employ trained teachers, by enabling them by special grants to pay trained teachers more highly.

(d) that the minimum grant to a high school should be Rs. 100 a month.

(e) that no grant should be given to a school, unless it has 150 boys at least, and its continued existence is educationally clearly desirable.

These general principles were followed, after the close of the period under review, in the distribution of the 3 lakhs grant for secondary education, though certain exceptions were made in special cases.

CHAPTER V.

Primary Education.

1. General statistics.—On the 31st March 1925 the Presidency of Bengal had 50,450 primary schools for boys and girls with an enrolment of 1,615,424 pupils as compared with 49,425 schools attended by 1,546,402 pupils on the corresponding date of 1924. A sum of Rs. 59,58,807 altogether was spent during the financial year 1924-25, for the upkeep of primary schools as against Rs. 56,73,154 in the year preceding. The average maintenance charges of each primary school amounted to Rs. 118-1-10 annually, and the cost of educating each pupil was Rs. 3-11.

Primary education of Indian boys.

2. Schools.—The number of primary schools for Indian boys rose from 36,578 to 37,071 or by 493. The following table shows the distribution of primary schools for Indian boys (together with their enrolment) in the different parts of the Presidency during the last two years:—

Division.	1923-24.		1924-25.
	Schools.	Pupils.	Schools.	Pupils.
Burdwan	8,273	259,084	8,458	268,286
Presidency (excluding Calcutta).	6,215	227,363	6,311	231,159
Calcutta	346	20,517	410	24,912
Dacca	9,091	321,789	9,090	326,514
Chittagong	5,679	209,117	5,910	235,528
Rajshahi	6,974	218,034	6,892	223,157
Total ..	36,578	1,255,904	37,071	1,309,556

3. Pupils.—At the close of the year under report primary schools for boys were attended by 1,309,556 pupils (including 52,997 girls) as compared with 1,255,904 children (including 53,198 girls) in 1923-24. In addition to this number 164,906 pupils were in the primary department of secondary schools on 31st March 1925 against 152,468 children reading in secondary schools in the previous year. Pupils reading in boys' primary schools and in the primary department of secondary schools together, therefore, numbered 1,474,462 in the year under review as compared with 1,408,372 pupils in the year preceding, an increase of 66,090 children.

4. Relative progress of Hindus and Muhammadans.—Primary schools for Indian boys were attended by 597,265 Hindu and 687, 399 Muhammadan pupils on 31st March 1925. The corresponding figures for 1923-24 were 575,637 and 657,204 respectively. Thus the number of Hindu pupils rose by 21,628 and of Muhammadan pupils by 30,195 during the year under review. Of the total Hindu male population 5·6 per cent. and of the total Muhammadan population 5·3 per cent. were in boys' primary schools on 31st March 1925; the percentages for the preceding year were 5·5 and 5·07 respectively.

5. Expenditure.—The total cost of maintaining primary schools for Indian boys amounted during the year under report to Rs. 49,26,451 as compared with Rs. 46,87,765 in the year preceding. Of the total expenditure Rs. 2,359,658 or 47·89 per cent. were contributed by public funds, while Rs. 25,66,793 or 52·11 per cent. were met from private sources. In the year 1923-24 public and private funds represented 49·16 and 50·84 per cent. respectively of the total expenditure on primary schools for Indian boys. The expenditure from public funds was made up of Rs. 15,39,775 contributed by Provincial Revenues and Rs. 6,97,323 and Rs. 1,22,560 by District and Municipal funds respectively. The corresponding figures for the previous year were Rs. 15,24,200, Rs. 6,67,786 and Rs. 1,12,835 respectively.

6. Panchayati Union schools.—Funds were allotted during the year under review for the construction of 84 Panchayati Union schools for boys. As a result of an inquiry instituted last year in connection with the expansion of the Panchayati Union scheme it is considered desirable to push forward the scheme to its completion. A sum of Rs. 1,00,000 was provided in the Education budget for 1925-26 for the establishment of new Panchayati Union schools in the Province. The Panchayati Union schools have so far been run on a Lower Primary basis in conformity with the standing orders of the Department, but with the introduction of the revised curriculum for primary schools in which no distinction between the Lower Primary and the Upper Primary course is retained, the question has arisen whether these schools should not teach the full five years' course equivalent to the old Upper Primary standard. It appears, however, to be necessary that pending the completion of the Panchayati Union scheme these schools should confine themselves to the three years' preliminary course unless District Boards undertake to supplement the Government aid by contributions from their own funds for the maintenance of the two years' extra course.

7. Primary schools under Mr. Biss's proposals.—A recurring sum of Rs. 75,000 was available for the introduction in Municipal and Union Board areas of schemes of primary education development deriving their impetus and character from the two reports of Mr. Biss. During the year under review 3 Municipalities in the Presidency, viz., Dacca, Budge-Budge and Howrah, received sanction to the introduction of schemes of free Primary Education on the lines of Mr. Biss's proposals. The Dacca Municipality has started 3 schools in the first instance to serve equally Moslem and non-Moslem localities. The Budge-Budge Municipality has decided to devote the grants available in the first few years to the construction and maintenance of school houses. The number of boys aged 6 to 11 years in the Howrah Municipality being over 4,000 the Municipality has introduced the scheme tentatively in 5 primary schools having an enrolment of 750 pupils.

The following local bodies submitted schemes of free Primary Education which received sanction after the close of the year 1924-25:—

1. Aichganti Union (Khulna).
2. Narayanpur Union (24-Parganas).
3. Kavirajpur Union (24-Parganas).
4. Palong Union (Faridpur).
5. Berhampur Municipality.
6. Comilla Municipality.
7. Sherpur Municipality (Bogra).
8. Panihati Municipality (24-Parganas).
9. Kurumgram Union (Birbhum).

Up to the close of the year under report sanction of Government had been accorded to the inauguration in connection with such schemes of 220 primary schools in 60 Union and Municipal Boards. The sanctioned projects involved a recurring expenditure of Rs. 71,714 annually. Further progress was therefore impossible without the provision of additional funds. Additional provision was made after the close of the year under report.

8. Mr. Biss's proposals and the Panchayati Union scheme compared.—Mr. Biss's programme was far more ambitious than that aimed at by the Panchayati Union School scheme. The former aims at providing each Municipal or Union Board area with a central and one or more ancillary schools according to the needs of the locality on a scale of pay higher than is customary in existing primary schools, whereas the Panchayati Union scheme sets out to provide each Union with one school only and that too of a cheap type. The expenditure on the former is divided equally between Government and the Local Body, while that on the latter is borne exclusively by Government. Progress along the lines laid down by Mr. Biss must, of necessity, be slow unless Municipal and Union Boards come forward more readily with their share of the cost. Several projects even after sanction by Government had to be abandoned on account of the inability or unwillingness of the local bodies to make their pledged contribution. The Panchayati Union school scheme as a contribution towards the solution of the problem of the spread of literacy, has solid merits, but it also possesses defects, most of them fortunately remediable with increased funds. But more and more the thinker on the problem of primary education is forced to the view that everything so far attempted in this sphere merely skirts the problem. No solution of the problem is possible without a comprehensive bill which places the responsibility for the foundation of schools wherever they are needed upon local bodies, and in one way or other compels them to raise the bulk of the necessary funds within the area affected. It is for the statesman and the politician, and not the educationist, to say whether this essential basic foundation of the educationist's future work can possibly be laid, or whether the idea, and with it all future hope of development, must be put aside as a chimaera of the imagination.

9. Primary education in Calcutta.—The bulk of privately-managed primary schools in Calcutta continued to be miserably housed. On 31st March 1925. the city had 410 primary schools attended by 24,912 pupils as compared with 346 schools with an enrolment of 20,517 pupils on 31st March 1924. The increase was due to the inclusion of 3 suburban municipalities in the Corporation of Calcutta during the year under report. Of the total number of pupils 15,351 were Hindus and 8,044 were Muhammadans. The number of boys reading in primary schools and in the primary department of secondary schools together numbered 34,785 on 31st March 1925, as compared with 29,432 in the previous year. The primary schools in Calcutta cost Rs. 1,96,590 in the last year against Rs. 1,70,324 in the year preceding. Of this amount Rs. 86,293 was contributed by public funds, while Rs. 1,10,297 came from private sources. During the year under review the Corporation of Calcutta adopted a five-year programme for the expansion of primary education. It spent during the last year Rs. 24,308 on the upkeep of the free primary schools for boys and Rs. 27,996 on other primary schools.

10. Curriculum.—The revised curriculum for primary schools was introduced in January 1925 into all the districts of the Presidency. It is a compromise between the two curricula formerly in use in the two parts of Bengal. The old curriculum of Western Bengal has been divested of superfluous items, while the Eastern Bengal curriculum has been made more comprehensive by the supply of certain deficiencies. The conference of educational officers which met in Calcutta in February, 1925 came to the decision that public examination at the end of class V should be revived. The question has therefore again come under review by Government.

11. General remarks.—As stated in the last annual report, higher pay for teachers, extension of training facilities, and the introduction, where possible, of free primary education are recognised as desirable palliatives of the present unsatisfactory condition of primary education in Bengal. But in the absence of a comprehensive scheme of advance, which honestly faces and solves the financial problem which underlies the whole question, they will remain palliatives only.

12. School post offices.—The number of teachers who worked as Postmasters during the year under review was 536 against 544 in the preceding year. The remuneration for postal work varied as before from Rs. 3 to Rs. 16 a month.

CHAPTER VI.

Training of Teachers for Indian Schools.

A.—Training of Men Teachers.

1. Training Colleges, General.—The two Government secondary training colleges had on their rolls 107 students on 31st March 1925 as compared with 92 on the corresponding date of the preceding year.

2. The David Hare Training College.—Twenty-nine students were under training in the B. T. and 14 in the L. T. class of the David Hare Training College on the last day of the year under report. The cost of maintaining the college was Rs. 54,913 as compared with Rs. 56,952 spent in the previous year. Twenty-two out of 29 students passed the B. T. and 8 out of 14 students passed the L. T. Examination during the year.

The new buildings for the Training College, the attached hostel, and the demonstration school at Ballygunj, are practically complete. Lectures on school hygiene and sanitation, vocational guidance, scout craft, corporate life among students, and the aims and scope of the League of Nations, were delivered at the Training College by gentlemen specially competent in those subjects. A beginning was made in experimental work in the way of educational measurements.

3. The Teachers' Training College, Dacca.—The college had 56 students in the B. T. and 8 students in the L. T. class on 31st March 1925. Of these students 47 belonged to Bengal, and 17 came from Assam. In addition to this number there were 2 scholars who were engaged in research work at the Training College. The cost of maintaining the Training College amounted during the year under report to Rs. 84,716 as compared with Rs. 82,064 spent for the purpose in the preceding year. The college presented 57 candidates at the B. T. and 7 at the L. T. Examination; 52 were successful in the former and 5 in the latter Examination. The announcement that a Government post would be guaranteed to the best B. T. of the year was a considerable incentive to the students. The most important event of the last session was the Educational Exhibition which was organised at the college and opened by Lady Hermione Lytton on behalf of His Excellency the Governor of Bengal who was unable to perform the function owing to illness. The Exhibition, which in reality was an endeavour to show the activities of the Training College in the direction of training, research, and educational experiment, served a useful purpose. It attracted a large number of visitors—teachers as well as others interested in school work—from Dacca and outside. Mr. West is to be congratulated on its success, for which he was mainly responsible. Saturday lectures by gentlemen not members of the staff were resumed last session and several interesting and instructive discourses were given by members of the Dacca University staff and others

4. These two colleges are doing very useful work within their sphere of action Further facilities for secondary teachers' training are however necessary, and Bengal will have to create another college at no very distant date.

5. Vernacular Training Schools.—The number of Normal or First Grade Training Schools in Bengal remained stationary at 6, viz., 5 directly managed by Government and 1 under aided management. These schools had altogether 371 pupils on their rolls on 31st March 1925 as compared with 399 on the corresponding date of 1924. The cost of maintaining the Vernacular Training Schools amounted during the year under review to Rs. 1,06,151 of which Rs. 1,01,451 were provided from Provincial Revenues. The corresponding figures for the preceding year were Rs. 1,11,757 and Rs. 1,06,264 respectively. Out of 172 candidates who appeared at the Final Examination, 135 were declared to have passed.

The Conference of Educational Officers, which met in Calcutta in February 1925, was of the opinion (a) that the course of studies in Normal Schools should extend over 2 years as at present in Eastern Bengal, and (b) that admissions to Normal Schools should be confined to Matriculates and that the value of the stipends should be raised to Rs. 10 a month. Instruction in "First aid" is a feature of the work of the Hooghly Training School, and teachers trained in this subject are reported to be in great demand. A boy scout organisation has been in existence in connection with the Chittagong Normal School for about 7 years.

6. Guru and Muallim Training Schools.—On the last day of the year under report the Presidency had 99 Guru and Muallim Training Schools with an enrolment of 1,765 pupils as compared with 99 schools with 1,740 pupils on the 31st March 1924. Of the 99 schools 5 were conducted as grant-in-aid schools; the rest were managed directly by the Department The total cost of maintaining the Guru and Muallim Training Schools amounted during the financial year 1924-25 to Rs. 2,87,455 of which Rs. 2,81,732 were borne by Provincial Revenues. The corresponding figures in 1923-24 were Rs. 2,96,017 and Rs. 2,82,979 respectively. Out of 1,532 candidates who appeared in the Final Examination from Guru and Muallim Training Schools during the year under review, 1,237 were successful, as compared with 1,635 candidates and 1,261 passes in the preceding year. Buildings for the central Guru-training Schools at Suri and Midnapur were under construction during the year under review. The success of Guru-training Schools even of the new type is considered to be doubtful by some Inspectors of Schools in view of the low initial qualifications of the gurus which admit of no decent superstructure. The only remedy is increased pay of teachers, which when possible will attract a better type. The difficulty is one which faces any training system which works in the earlier stages of educational progress, and will be gradually removed, as it has been removed in Western countries, only by the growth of a higher general level of educational attainment. Of itself, of course, training, without other developmental agencies, can do little. Some Guru-training Schools afford facilities for experiments in gardening by parcelling out small plots among the gurus. A few schools have museums or collection of suitable objects attached to them.

7. Half-yearly Examination of Secondary School teachers—Six candidates appeared in the Examination out of whom 5 were declared to have passed.

B.—The Training of Women Teachers.

8. Training Colleges for Women.—The proposal for starting under the direct control of the Department a Training College, where women teachers employed in secondary schools in the Province may be afforded facilities for training, continues to be in abeyance. On 31st March 1925 the Training class attached to the Diocesan College (which is aided by the Department) had 11 pupils in the B. T. class. The cost of maintaining the Training Department amounted during the year under review to Rs. 8,196 the whole of which was provided from Provincial Revenues. The college presented 11 candidates at the last B. T. Examination of whom 10 were successful. The Loreto House Training class presented 5 students at the L. T. Examination all of whom were successful.

9. Training School for Women.—On the 31st March 1925, the Presidency had 10 Training Schools and classes (with 178 pupils) which had facilities for training women teachers working in primary schools and the lower classes of secondary schools. The corresponding figures for the previous year were 11 and 189 respectively. The decrease in the number of training schools from 11 to 10 was due to the closing down of St. Margaret's Training class, the pupils of which have joined the United Missionary Training class. Seven of these training schools were managed by Christian and Brahmo missions. The total cost of maintaining these schools amounted during the year under review to Rs. 70,053 of which Rs. 61,046 were provided from Provincial Revenues; the corresponding figures for the preceding year were Rs. 71,323 and Rs. 59,623 respectively. The permanent retention and reorganisation of the Training School for Moslem Women Teachers, a Government Institution, was approved by Government, after the close of the period under review. The scheme of reorganisation to which effect is to be given when funds are available, provides for additional stipends, two additional mistresses for the attached practising school, additional rent for increased accommodation, and an increase in the salary of the school clerk.

The Training classes maintained at the Brahmo Girls' and the United Missionary Society's schools are reported to be attracting well-qualified pupils—mostly Matriculates and a few who have read up to the I. A. standard. On the other hand the qualifications of the pupils who are admitted into the Hindu Widows' Training class and the Moslem Training class are decidedly low. The results of the Training School Examinations during the year under report were as follows:—

	Candidates presented.	Candidates passed.
(1) Senior Vernacular Teachership Examination ..	29	26	West Bengal.
(2) Junior Teachership Examination	60	46	West Bengal.
(3) Teachership Examination	22	17	East Bengal.

10. General observations.—The officiating Inspectress of Schools, Presidency and Burdwan Divisions, observes that the number of trained teachers supplied annually by the Training classes is very much below the demand; indeed the demand is so great that every candidate presented at the examination secures a post before the result is out. Like her predecessor in office the Officiating Inspectress of Schools urges the appointment of a Physical Instructress to conduct classes in Physical Training in all Training Schools. The Inspectress of Schools, Dacca Circle, is of opinion that the facilities for training women teachers which exist at present in the 3 Eastern Divisions are lamentably inadequate.

CHAPTER VII.

Professional and Technical Education.

1. Law Colleges and Classes.—Arrangements for imparting legal education existed, as previously, in 3 institutions in the Presidency, viz., the Calcutta University Law College, the Law Department of the Ripon College and the University of Dacca. The three institutions had altogether 3,634 pupils on 31st March 1925 as compared with 3,140 on the corresponding date of the year preceding. Of these students 3,076 were Hindus, 526 were Muhammadans, and 32 belonged to other communities. The upkeep of the University Law College and the Law Department of the Ripon College cost altogether Rs. 2,47,885 during the year ending 31st March 1925, as compared with Rs. 2,27,683 in the previous year. The cost of maintaining the Law Classes at the University of Dacca, which has not been shown separately in the University returns, has been included in the table under the head "Universities". Out of 1,369 candidates who appeared at the B. L. Examination in 1924-25, 633 were successful.

2. Medical Colleges and Schools.—As in previous years provision for the study of medicine was made in three institutions in Bengal, viz., the Calcutta Medical College, the Carmichael Medical College, Belgachia, and the School (strictly College) of Tropical Medicine and Hygiene. The three institutions together had 1,682 students (including 12 women) on 31st March 1925 as compared with 1,708 pupils on the corresponding date in the year preceding. Of these students 1,486 were Hindus, 140 were Muhammadans, 41 were Indian Christians, and 15 were of other communities. The cost of maintaining the 3 institutions amounted during the year under review to Rs. 10,44,220 as compared with Rs. 9,87,741 spent for their upkeep in 1923-24. Out of 457 candidates who appeared in the Final Examination from these institutions 217 passed.

On the 31st March 1925 there were in the Presidency 8 Medical Schools with 1,851 students (including 37 women) on their rolls as against 5 Medical Schools having 1,478 pupils in 1923-24. The upkeep of these Medical Schools cost Rs. 2,70,736 as compared with Rs. 2,49,813 in the year preceeding. Of 402 students, who appeared in the Final Examination from Medical Schools, 302 were declared to have passed.

3. The Bengal Engineering College.—Mr. Richardson the Principal was on leave during part of the period under review. Mr. A. Macdonald made a competent officiating Principal. On the 31st March 1925 the Bengal Engineering College had 321 pupils on its rolls, viz., 138 in the Civil Engineering Classes, 80 in the Mechanical and Electrical Engineering Classes, 51 in the Mining Engineering Classes, and 52 in the Industrial Classes, as against 293 students on the corresponding date of 1924. The total of 321 was composed of 268 Hindus, 29 Muhammadans, 22 Europeans and Anglo-Indians, and 2 Indian Christians. The sum expended on the upkeep of the college amounted to Rs. 3,27,546 including Rs. 2,93,440 borne by Provincial Revenues; the corresponding figures for the preceding year were Rs. 3,08,001 and Rs. 2,72,706 respectively. The quantity of work turned out by the College Workshop during the year under report was valued approximately at Rs. 13,200. The results of the College in the various examinations held during 1924-25, are noted below:—

Examinations.	Candidates.	Passes.
B. E.	21	18
I. E.	49	25
Associateship in Mechanical Engineering	3	3
Diploma in Mechanical and Electrical Engineering ..	22	14
Diploma in Mining	13	10

The construction of the new barrack for European and Anglo-Indian students and the Activated Sludge Sewerage system was completed during the year under review. The latter is a system of great interest, which has been adopted in India so far to an extremely limited extent. The Professorship of Civil Engineering was vacant. "This", the officiating Principal observes, "is fair neither to the students nor to their future employers". The situation was due to financial stringency, and budget provision for the post has since been made. The improved courses in Mechanical and Electrical Engineering introduced since 1922 have resulted in an increase in the work of the teaching staff, particularly in the Electrical Department, and the appointment of additional staff has become an urgent necessity. The Electrical Artisan Classes which are now attended by many students of the bhadralog type are reported to be doing very useful work. The Annual Mining Camp was held at the Central Kirkond Colliery in Jharia where underground and surface Surveys were made. The guarantee of an appointment to the Indian Service of Engineers, which was previously given to the students of the Bengal Engineering College, was withdrawn during the year in accordance with orders issued by the Government of India, but no announcement has been made as to the system of recruitment which it is proposed to apply in future to appointments in the Indian Service of Engineers and the Bengal Engineering Service. The withdrawal of the guarantee was made for certain administrative reasons which the department recognised to be unchallengeable. The College is confident that it can more than hold its own in the struggle for public appointments without such guarantee.

But it is not to public appointments that the College mainly directs its efforts. No better summary of the aims of the College exists than that given by His Excellency Sir John Kerr when he distributed the prizes in June 1925.

This College stands for the Indianisation of the Engineering profession in Bengal It is only in recent years that engineering has been regarded by parents in Bengal as a suitable profession for their sons, and as an occupation worthy of the best brains and ability that Bengal can produce. The College, therefore, is engaged in pioneer work on behalf of engineering as a profession for the young men of Bengal, and on the success of its work depend very largely the future and the very existence of that profession in Bengal. Hitherto industrial concerns, and to some extent Government also, have been compelled to go to England and elsewhere for engineers of full qualifications and attainments, but if Bengal can turn out engineers equal to those who have obtained their training in other countries, it is clear that they would be in a strong position in competing for employment locally . . . . . Firms which pay large salaries to engineers imported from Europe have got to be persuaded that the Indian Engineers trained in India would meet their needs. It is essential, therefore, that this College, as the nursery of the Engineering profession in Bengal, should be equipped and maintained at the highest possible standard, and no considerations, political or financial, must be allowed to lower its standard.

4. The Ahsanullah School of Engineering, Dacca.—Mr. Henderson was Principal throughout the year under review. On the 31st March 1925 the Ahsanullah School of Engineering, Dacca, had an enrolment of 478 students (268 in the Upper Subordinate, 125 in the Lower Subordinate and 85 in the Artisan Classes) as against 481 pupils on the corresponding date of 1924. Of these students 436 were Hindus, 39 were Muhammadans, and 3 were of other creeds. There were besides 46 passed students who were undergoing practical training in the school workshop and with the Public Works Department, Railway Companies and other authorities. The cost of maintaining the school amounted to Rs. 1,14,671 during the year 1924-25 of which Rs. 90,071 were met from Provincial Revenues. The corresponding figures for the previous year were Rs. 1,04,679 and Rs. 79,388 respectively. The term of 5 years for which the school was affiliated to the Overseer Examination Board having expired last session the Institution was inspected by Messrs. Weston and Gwyther on behalf of the Board with a view to its re-affiliation for a further period of 5 years. The Engineering School has succeeded in recent years in attracting candidates of a higher calibre than formerly. With the growing intensity of the struggle for appointments, and the increased willingness of the middle class to enter upon practical or industrial vocations, the process will doubtless continue. Care has had to be taken to ensure that Moslems are admitted in reasonable numbers to the school, which might not be the case it a purely merit or mark basis of admission were adopted. The permanent duplication of the Upper Subordinate Classes had not been sanctioned at the close of the period under review, but it followed shortly after. Additional sections had, however, with the approval of Government been opened temporarily in all the Upper Subordinate Classes, and an additional staff of 6 teachers appointed to cope with the increased work. The main hostel of the Engineering School is still located in the southern wing of the old Secretariat Building, a part of which is also occupied by the University of Dacca; the joint occupation of this building has proved inconvenient in many ways. The problem of increased hostel accommodation has become more pronounced as a result of the duplication of the Upper Subordinate Classes, and the financing of the approved scheme for a new hostel is a very urgent matter, which it is hoped will not long be delayed. During the year under review the school workshop turned out work valued at Rs. 7,173.

Of 17 candidates who appeared in the Pleaders' Survey Examination held at this centre only 5 were successful. The Practical Survey Training of Overseer and Sub-overseer students was carried on as usual for about 6 weeks in the local and mufassal fields. Thirteen of the Artisan students completed their training last session. A proposal for introducing a new Mechanical and Electrical Engineering course of the University type which was recommended by the Dacca Vocational and Technical Education Committee is now before Government, but the difficulties are considerable, not the least of them being the view which is strongly held by some that suitable practical training cannot be arranged for a largely increased number of University trained engineers.

The results of the Upper and Lower Subordinate Examinations are noted below:—

	Presented.	Passed.
(1) Upper Subordinate Examination (Part B)	58	43
(2) Upper Subordinate Examination (Part A)	124	58
(3) Lower Subordinate Examination	67	26

5. The Mainamati Survey School.—On the last day of the year under review there were 86 students including 4 Kanungoes on the rolls of the Survey School at Mainamati as compared with 80 pupils on the corresponding date of 1924. The upkeep of the school cost Rs. 17,367 of which Rs. 12,969 were provided from Provincial Revenues; the corresponding figures in 1923-24 were Rs. 14,736 and Rs. 11,164 respectively. Pending the completion of the permanent school house for which funds were allotted last year the Survey School continues to occupy temporary quarters The syllabus for the first and second year classes has been modified with a view to reducing the length of the 1st year course from 14 to 12 months. Twenty-five students were sent up for the Final Survey Examination of whom 18 were successful. In the Amin Examination 44 students passed out of 53 who sat for the test. A revised scale of pay was sanctioned by Government last year for the teachers employed in the Survey School at Mainamati.

6. The Government School of Art, Calcutta.—Of the 5 Art Schools (1 Government, 3 Aided and 1 Unaided) which were returned on 31st March 1925, the Government School of Art, Calcutta, is the most important. It had on its rolls 361 students on the last day of the year as against 340 in the year preceding. Of these students 343 were Hindus, 10 were Muhammadans, and 8 were of other communities.

The cost of maintaining the school amounted last year to Rs. 47,987 of which Rs. 40,229 were provided from Provincial Revenues; in the year preceding the upkeep of the school cost Rs. 49,735 of which Rs. 45,244 were met from Provincial Revenues. With a view to making the school more self-supporting increased rates of fees were introduced in the School of Art with effect from July 1924; the number of free and half-free studentships was also reduced. As many as 33 scholarships were awarded last year by the various local bodies and states to their nominees under instruction in the School of Art. Mr. Percy Brown, Principal of the School, held charge during the greater part of the year.

7. The Government Commercial Institute, Calcutta.—At the close of the year under review there were 25 Commercial schools and classes (Government 1, Aided 6 and Unaided 18) for imparting Commercial education to Indian boys. The Government Commercial Institute, Calcutta, had 230 pupils on 31st March 1925 as compared with 349 students on the corresponding date of 1924. Mr. Sen continued to officiate as Principal. The Day and Evening Classes of the Institute were attended altogether by 89 and 485 students respectively last session. The cost of maintaining the Institute amounted during the year under review to Rs. 53,267 of which Rs. 38,700 were met from Provincial Revenues; the corresponding figures for 1923-24 being Rs. 54,721 and Rs. 34,554 respectively. Of 55 students who appeared last session in the Final Commercial Course Examination 30 were successful. In the special Commercial Course Examination 158 candidates appeared and of these 121 passed. Classes were started for the first time last year at the Commercial Institute for preparing students for examinations of the Institute of Bankers. The Imperial Bank of India and other Banking Institutions have declared their intention to throw open responsible posts to passed students of these classes. To give the students greater facilities for studying Commercial Geography and allied subjects the question of providing the Institute with a Commercial Museum has been raised.

The fee-rates for the Evening classes were slightly enhanced last session, greater uniformity being introduced in the matter of charges. The report of the committee appointed by Government in connection with the institution of a separate examination in Accountancy in Bengal is still under the consideration of Government. The whole future of the institute, especially the suggestion with regard to its deprovincialisation with a block grant, came under consideration during the year, and after its close a strong committee consisting mainly of business men was appointed to make recommendations.

8. The Government Weaving Institute.—The Government Weaving Institute, Serampore, returned 79 pupils on 31st March 1925 as compared with 118 students who were under training on the corresponding date of 1924. The abolition of stipends previously available (although 6 of these were restored last session) and the commencement of the session in November instead of July which is customary in other schools, are reported to have kept admissions below the normal figure. The upkeep of the Institute cost Rs. 51,074 of which Rs. 50,493 were borne by Provincial Revenues; the corresponding figures for the previous year were Rs. 45,251 and Rs. 44,609 respectively. Forty students appeared in the Final Examination of whom 26 were awarded diplomas. Of the 55 students who appeared in the last London City and Guilds Examination 44 were successful, 5 being awarded bronze and silver medals for proficiency. Nine out of the 12 women who were admitted last session completed their training.

Demonstration parties were organised by the Institute as in previous years at important centres with a view to explaining to local weavers the value of improved appliances. Persistent efforts were also made during the year under review to introduce fly-shuttle looms among local weavers. A hand book containing useful information on small hand and power loom factories was prepared for the guidance of people interested in the matter. The outlying and peripatetic weaving centres continued to function effectively.

9 Vocational courses at other centres.—The subjoined table shows briefly the progress made in vocational courses conducted at other centres:—

Centre.	Subjects taken up.	Candidates.	Passed.
Jagannath Intermediate College	I Sc. Examination with Dyeing.	82	44
Ditto. ..	I. A. Examination with Commerce.	78	30
Calcutta University ..	B—Commerce Examination	107	34
Dacca University ..	Ditto ..	32	17

10. Of the Professional and Technical Schools returned on 31st March 1925, 3 were Music, and 4 were Agricultural Schools. The former had 66 pupils and cost Rs. 1,122 during the year under report; the latter had 83 pupils and cost Rs. 6,649.

CHAPTER VIII.

Education of Indian Girls and Women.

1. Institutions and pupils.—The year 1924-25 closed with 13,494 recognised schools of all types for Indian girls with a total enrolment of 317,873 pupils; in the preceding year there were 12,961 recognised schools for girls with 301,997 pupils. Both schools and pupils thus increased in number during the year under review, the former by 533 or by 4·1 per cent. and the latter by 15,876 or by 5·2 per cent. Of the total number of pupils reading in recognised schools for girls on 31st March 1925, 132,217 were Hindus and 178,191 were Muhammadans, the rest being drawn from other communities. The number of unrecognised schools for Indian girls in 1924-25 was 230 with an enrolment of 6,477 pupils, as compared with 243 schools and 6,888 pupils in the year preceding. Of the pupils reading in unrecognised schools on 31st March 1925, 3,389 were Hindus, 2,941 were Muhammadans and 147 were of other communities.

2. Controlling Agency.—In 1924-25 the Female Inspecting Agency consisted, as in the previous year, of 2 Inspectresses and 12 Assistant Inspectresses of Schools. Miss Irons returned from leave and resumed charge of the East Bengal Circle. During the year Miss Brock, Inspectress of the Presidency and Burdwan Divisions, proceeded on leave preparatory to retirement, and was succeeded by Miss H. B. Bose. The value of Miss Brock's energetic and competent work for the education of Indian girls, during a period of 20 years, can scarcely be over-estimated, and her departure constitutes a heavy loss to the Department, and to female education generally. The Assistant Inspectresses of Schools were divided equally between the Presidency and Burdwan Divisions and the Dacca, Chittagong and Rajshahi Divisions.

3. Collegiate Education, Arts Colleges.—During the year 1924-25 the number of Arts Colleges for Women remained unaltered. Of four such institutions two, Bethune College, Calcutta, and the Intermediate Department of the Eden High School, Dacca, are maintained by Government, one, the Diocessan College is aided by the Department, and one, Loreto House, is unaided.

On the last day of the year under review, Bethune College had on its rolls 140 students, as compared with 134 on the corresponding date of 1923-24. The cost of maintaining the College amounted during the year 1924-25 to Rs. 72,853 (as compared with Rs. 71,326 in the year preceding) of which Rs. 63,478 were borne by Provincial Revenues. The average annual cost of educating a student worked out at Rs. 505-14-9. The College presented 26 students at the B.A. and 30 students at the I.A. Examination; of the former 21 and of the latter 26 were successful. A course of valuable lectures on "Health in the Home" was delivered at the Bethune College last session under the auspices of the Bengal Social Service League.

There were 26 students at the Intermediate classes attached to the Eden High School, Dacca, on 31st March 1925 as compared with 25 on the corresponding date of 1924. Eleven candidates appeared at the Intermediate Examination in Arts, all of whom were successful. The cost of maintaining the Intermediate Department amounted during the year 1924-25 to Rs. 20,298 as compared with Rs. 16,300 in the previous year.

The Diocesan College had 62 students on its rolls against 64 in the preceding year. The upkeep of the College cost Rs. 24,182. It passed 8 candidates out of 10 presented at the B. A. Examination. All 13 candidates who were presented at the I. A. Examination were successful. Extra courses were given at the College last session in needle-work, embroidery and home-nursing.

There were 22 pupils on 31st March 1925 at Loreto House as compared with 25 on the corresponding date of 1924. The cost of the College classes of the institution amounted to Rs. 8,420. Five candidates were presented at the I.A. Examination and all passed; at the B. A. Examination also five students were sent up and all five passed.

4. Secondary Education.—(i) HIGH SCHOOLS.—The number of High English schools for Indian girls rose during the year 1924-25 from 14 to 16; the increase in number was due to the starting of an aided High English school at Dinajpur and an unaided High school in the town of Dacca. There were 3,790 pupils reading in High English schools for girls on 31st March 1925 as compared with 3,166 in the preceding year. Of the 16 High schools for girls 4 were managed by Government, 11 were aided and 1 was unaided. Special mention may be made of the Gokhale Memorial Girls' School, Calcutta, which was opened in 1920, by Lord Sinha. The maintenance charges of the school amount to over 2,300 rupees a month of which a sum of Rs. 650 a month is contributed by Government. The school has discarded the prescribed syllabus of studies and follows a special curriculum which covers six years. English is taught by European Mistresses. The object of the school is not to prepare pupils for examinations but to make them fit for the duties of life. At the same time the authorities feel that it is not possible for a modern school to disregard examinations and though they have not so far presented pupils for the Matriculation Examination, they cannot avoid a decision on the point in the near future. The supporters of the school including Mrs. P. K. Roy, its Honorary Secretary, went on deputation to His Excellency the Governor, with a view to obtaining a grant of land for a site for a new permanent school building. A grant of land was found impossible, but the question of the grant of a building contribution from which a site might be bought was taken up for consideration. Each day scholar is charged Rs. 5 and each boarder Rs. 35 a month. The school constitutes a very interesting experiment in girls' education, and meets a real need.

(ii) MIDDLE SCHOOLS.—On the last day of the year under review, there were in Bengal 36 Middle English schools for Indian girls, with 4,723 pupils; the corresponding figures for the preceding year were 35 and 4,482 respectively.

The number of Middle Vernacular schools for girls in 1924-25 remained unchanged at 27; but the number of pupils reading in these schools fell from 2,896 to 2,720. The Binapani Parda Middle English School, Calcutta, has opened classes beyond the Middle English stage and instructs the girls in first aid and Hygiene. The Sakhawat Memorial and Surhawardy Moslem Girls' schools rank with the best Middle English schools for girls in Calcutta. Of the other Middle schools those at Baniban, Contai, Narainganj, Faridpur, Noakhali, Comilla, Rajshahi and Rangpur, have been mentioned for successful work.

5. PRIMARY SCHOOLS.—The year 1924-25 closed with 13,363 primary schools for Indian girls, with 305,000 pupils as compared with 12,833 schools with 289,792 pupils on the 31st March 1924. Primary schools for girls belong to one or other of the following main types:—

(a) Model Primary schools.—As a result of retrenchment these schools have been deprovincialised and are being conducted as grant-in-aid schools. The teachers employed in Model Primary schools are as a rule paid better than those working in other classes of Primary schools.

(b) Urban Girls' schools.—Schools of this class exist only in certain important centres in East Bengal. They receive substantial grants from the Department and are on the whole efficiently managed.

(c) Panchayati Union schools.—As stated in previous reports both the capital and maintenance charges of these schools are provided by Government. No funds were available during the year under review for the establishment of new panchayati union schools for girls.

(d) Peasant Girls' schools.—There are 22 schools of this type, all located in backward areas and remote places of the Presidency Division. They have not been a success owing to local apathy.

(e) Aided Primary schools.—Of the aided primary schools for girls those which are aided by the Department and municipalities are reported to be in a much better condition than those which are subsidised by District Boards.

The Corporation of Calcutta have opened a few free primary schools for girls. Twelve primary schools for girls, comprising "the Dacca town girls' schools scheme", were provided last year with additional trained mistress at the expense of the Department. Inspite of crippled resources European and American Missions continue to maintain a large number of primary schools. The Nari Sikha Samiti and the Society for the improvement of the backward classes, Bengal and Assam, are also doing valuable work, in maintaining with assistance from Government a large number of girls' primary schools scattered over the Presidency. The work of the Nari Sikha Samiti is being watched with special interest by the Department, since it is felt that the energy and enthusiasm in the cause of Indian girls' education which inspires the Samiti, and most of all its Honorary Secretary, Lady Bose, may in due time become a very valuable asset to the Department in its efforts for the extension of female education.

6. SPECIAL SCHOOLS.—The number of Technical, Industrial and Special schools for Indian girls, remained stationary at 46, during the year under review, but the number of pupils attending these schools fell from 1,405 to 1,379. Most of the Industrial schools for girls are under Mission management. In these schools technical instruction is usually combined with the rudiments of general education. The most prominent among special schools are the Lace schools at Kalimpong and Dacca and the Weaving school at Padrishibpur, Bakarganj.

7. Zenana Education.—On 31st March 1925 there were 58 Zenana teachers who taught altogether 1,278 pupils. The Zenana system of education has not succeeded and it has been decided to revise and remodel the scheme. It is hoped that a better system may be devised by borrowing certain methods from the well-known Parents' National Union Scheme of Education which has done so much for the improvement of educational method in England. For this purpose an experimental scheme is being tried at Dacca by Mr. West, Principal, Teachers' Training College, with the assistance of the Head Mistress of the Vernacular Training Class, Dacca, and a Zenana Governess. The course includes model lessons in Reading, Writing, Arithmetic, Hygiene and General information, prepared in fortnightly assignments of work. The standard is that of the Lower Primary Course. A Zenana Governess visits the pupils twice weekly at first but with the progress of the pupils her visits become less and less frequent, until the minimum of a fortnightly visit is reached. On finishing their assignments the pupils undergo a test and if successful they are allowed to begin the next assignment. The pupils do the greater portion of the work themselves; the governess merely assists them when difficulties arise. Independent work is thus encouraged. The basic object of the scheme is not so much to teach as to get the pupils to educate themselves which is essential, if Zenana education is ever to make headway.

8. Needle-work.—The peripatetic needle-work teachers continued to work well. The Inspectress of Schools, Dacca Circle, is of opinion that needle-work should be made a compulsory subject for girls' schools.

9. Co-education.—The number of girls reading in boys' schools rose slightly during the year under review from 54,096 to 54,907.

10. Conclusion.—The factors that hinder any rapid spread of female education in India are well known, and need not be repeated here. It is worth placing on record, however, the fact that of the girls reading in recognised schools at present, only 1·2 per cent. are in stages above the Primary. The figure is eloquent to prove that those many devoted workers who are striving for the spread of education among the women and girls of Bengal stand as yet only on the threshold of their task.

CHAPTER IX.

Education of Europeans and Anglo-Indians.

1. Institutions.—On the last day of the year 1924-25 the Presidency had 63 Institutions for the education of European and Anglo-Indian children as compared with 64 on the corresponding date of the year preceding. The decrease in the number of schools by 1 was due to the exclusion from the list of European schools of St. Gregory's School, Dacca, which has been recognised by the Board of Intermediate and Secondary Education as a school for Indians. Of the total number of European schools which existed in Bengal last year 58 imparted general education while the remaining 5 were meant to provide some form of special instruction. Of the schools for general education 14 were returned as Higher Secondary, 7 as Secondary, 20 as Higher Grade, 16 as Primary, and 1 as Ungraded. As previously only 3 of the institutions, viz., the Victoria Boys' School, the Dow Hill Girls' School, and the Dow Hill Training College, Kurseong, were controlled by Government; the rest were controlled in the main by the different religious orders.

	1923-24.				1924-25.
	No. of institutions	No. of boys.	No. of girls.	Total.	No. of institutions.	No. of boys.	No. of girls.	Total.

Total ..	64	5,387	5,187	10,574	63	5,755	4,861	10,616

*Supplementary classes.

The above figures include 1,673 non-European children studying in European schools on 31st March 1925 as against 1,777 (1,040 boys and 737 girls) who were neither European nor Anglo-Indian on the corresponding date of 1924. The figures are worth noting since criticism of the amount of the European schools budget sometimes overlooks the fact that a very definite portion of the grant enures to the benefit of non-Europeans.

3. Expenditure.—The education of European and Anglo-Indian children in Bengal cost Rs. 35,36,616 during the year under review as compared with Rs. 35,78,078 in the preceding year. The expenditure was distributed as follows:—

	Rs.
(i) Provincial Revenues	9,75,427
(ii) Municipal grant	17,313
(iii) Fees	16,26,444
(iv) Endowments, subscription and other sources ..	9,17,432
Total ..	35,36,616

4. Scholarships.—During the financial year 1924-25 the expenditure on scholarships amounted to Rs. 30,485 as against Rs. 33,833 spent for the purpose in the previous year. The expenditure for 1924-25 did not include, as it did previously, the amount of extra-provincial scholarships paid in Bengal.

5. Grants.—The rejection by the Bengal Legislative Council of the sum of Rs. 99,000 provided in the Education Budget of 1924-25 for direct grants to non-Government primary schools for Europeans created consternation among the elementary schools. The resulting financial situation of these schools appeared likely to be very serious indeed, but matters were adjusted by Government in accordance with the announcement made after the action of Council, and in the end the schools did not suffer. An additional grant had also to be made to St. Andrew's Colonial Homes, Kalimpong. There was a change in the system of dispensing aid to the Kalimpong Homes during the year under review. Instead of making special capitation and other separate grants to the Homes it was decided to bring them under the operation of the ordinary grant-in-aid rules for European schools. It was also accepted that only as a matter of special urgency could the renewal of the old large special grants be contemplated, and that they could not be regarded as normal features of the European schools budget.

6. Teachers.—European schools in Bengal employed 696 teachers on 31st March 1925 as compared with 682 on the corresponding date of the previous year. Of these teachers 66 were graduates; 296 (including 26 graduates) were trained and 400 (including 40 graduates) were untrained.

7. Training of teachers.—There being no institution in Bengal for the training of European male teachers, intending candidates are in accordance with existing arrangements deputed to the Chelmsford Training class attached to the Lawrence School, Ghoragali, Punjab. Owing to lack of accommodation at the Training class no candidate was deputed from Bengal for training during the year under review. Twenty-two women teachers, as compared with nineteen in the previous year, were under training at the Dow Hill Training College on 31st March 1925. At the annual examination held in November 1924 nine out of ten senior students who sat for the final examination passed. Of the eight junior students who sat for the first-year examination all were successful.

8. Practical training.—There were fourteen schools, which taught the school final course including commercial, industrial or technical subjects. There were 193 pupils on the rolls on 31st March 1925. Special classes in plain cookery and needle-work were maintained in the Dow Hill School and St. Helen's Convent, Kurseong, and at the Loreto House, Calcutta. Special classes for probationary sick nurses were held at Loreto Convent, Entally, and at St. Andrew's Colonial Homes, Kalimpong. Special classes for children's nurses were held at St. Andrew's Colonial Homes, Kalimpong.

9. The City and Guilds Examinations.—The City and Guilds Examination Committee continued to hold examinations in Domestic Science subjects. These examinations were held in November 1924 at Kurseong for candidates from Dow Hill School and at St. Helen's Convent, Kurseong. The entries and the results of the Examination were as follows:—

	Entries.	Passes.
(1) Plain needle-work	14	12
(2) Plain cookery	10	8

10. Examinations.—The following table shows the results of the various examinations for which pupils entered in 1923 and 1924:—

(3) Cambridge Higher School Certificate Examination.	5	4	2	..	4	3	1	..

11. Education of deficient and defective children.—The children's House, Kurseong, the only institution in Bengal where mentally and physically defective European children are trained by special methods had on its rolls 11 pupils on 31st March 1925 against the same number in the year preceding. A sum of Rs. 1,800 was paid from Provincial Revenues towards the upkeep of the institution.

12. The Sussex Trust.—The income derived from the Sussex Trust Fund was utilised during the year under review for the objects noted below:—

(i) Capital expenditure—Rs. 60,000 for the construction of dormitories at the Dow Hill Girls' School.

(ii) Recurring expenditure—Rs. 15,942.

The latter amount represents the expenditure on the award of scholarships to European and Anglo-Indian boys and girls and to passed students of the Bengal Engineering College, besides the cost of the maintenance charges of 3 primary schools intended for backward communities. Altogether 34 boys and girls (studying in India and the United Kingdom) were benefited by the scholarships.

13. Doveton Trust Fund.—The total income (including the balance available on 31st March 1924 and also the interest up to October 1924) and the expenditure of the Doveton Trust Fund amounted to Rs. 13,738-3 and Rs. 6,509-6 respectively during the year under report. Fifteen scholarships at rates varying from Rs. 8 to Rs. 25 a month were awarded last year, and one of Rs. 30 a month was renewed.

14. State scholarship.—No new State scholarships were awarded during the year 1924-25. One of the existing State scholars forfeited his scholarship which was re-awarded to Mr. Eric Britter.

15. Controlling Agency.—Mr. W. F. Papworth was in charge of the duties of the Inspector of European Schools, Bengal, throughout the period under review.

16. The European Schools Code.—The new Code of regulations for European schools was under preparation during the year under report and is now practically complete.

17. Educational Exploration.—The main experiment that was made in European schools in new methods of teaching was in connection with the Dalton Laboratory system. The system was given a trial in three schools—St. Paul's School, Darjeeling, the Diocesan Girls School, Darjeeling, and the Pratt Memorial School, Calcutta. The system constitutes such a revolutionary change that it was natural that there should be a certain amount of nervousness in regard to the experiment. St. Paul's School, Darjeeling, after a time reverted to older methods, finding it unsuitable to its needs.

It is generally admitted that the "assignments" which are the crux of the Dalton system are not as suitable to the lower classes as they are to upper classes The experiment has therefore been tried in Secondary schools only, so far. It has not yet been proved that the European schools in Bengal provide a suitable field for this form of teaching organisation but deductions from the experiments so far made must be postponed to a later report. For a proper working of the Dalton system specially provided rooms are needed for each subject and they must be furnished with a good library and equipped with manuals and books of reference related to each particular subject. If these conditions cannot be provided, it is useless to attempt an experiment of this kind.

The majority of European schools too are chained to prescribed examinations, success in which has an important bearing upon the obtaining of employment and consequently all the energies of the teachers are apt to be concentrated upon preparing pupils for public examinations. In these circumstances departures from mere routine can only be made with hesitation and in addition very few are equipped to make them. Very little, for instance, is being done in the matter of studying the psychology of the growing European or Anglo-Indian child in Bengal conditions. Measurements of mental fatigue, nervous tension and concentration ability, etc., are studies which require special training on the part of teachers, and provision of suitable apparatus. Both are in general absent. In other words owing to various causes, of which one basic factor is finance, there is not that vigorous professional educational life which in other better-equipped countries is constantly exploring the causes of things as they are, and pointing the way to things as they might be. But in all discussions it must never be forgotten that the condition of Anglo-Indian education is a reflection of political and economical conditions, and that the Anglo-Indian educational problem is basically a problem in economics and politics, and not in pedagogy.

18. Conclusion.—The condition of European and Anglo-Indian education is one which is giving food for serious anxiety to all those concerned with it. Almost all the schools are suffering from straitened finance, and the creation of a real teaching profession reasonably paid and satisfied with its conditions of work seems very far off. The situation, gloomy as it is, was shot through by one ray of sunshine, the munificent gift of eleven lakhs of rupees made to the Martinière schools by Sir Paul Chater, one of the old boys of the institution. As a result, the Martinière schools, which were suffering like the others from straitened finance, have been placed substantially on their feet, the envy of other less fortunate schools. That Claude Martin's ancient foundation has been permanently rescued from its distresses is a source of great satisfaction to all those who know what sterling work for European and Anglo-Indian education has been carried out by the school throughout its long history.

A feature of the Anglo-Indian system of education is that it ends with school life, and that very few boys and girls proceed to higher education. There is a growing tendency in the community to ask whether if the educational curriculum in the schools were brought into substantial conformity with that of the Indian schools and intermediate college system more pupils might be led to go on to university courses. In other words, should the European schools cease to sit for examinations conducted from England, and affiliate to or be recognised by the local University? The question will probably come up for discussion in the near future, and is one of great moment to the community concerned.

CHAPTER X.

Education of Muhammadans.

1. Statistics of Muhammadan pupils.—The year 1924-25 closed with 1,018,593 Muhammadan pupils studying in all types of educational institutions for Indians as compared with 961,101 returned on 31st March 1924. The proportion of Muhammadan pupils to the total number of pupils under instruction in all classes of schools and colleges on 31st March 1925 rose from 46·9 to 47·3 per cent. In arts and professional colleges Muhammadans formed 12·9 and 12·2 per cent. respectively of the total number of pupils of all creeds, as in the preceding year. In the high and middle stages of instruction the proportion of Moslem pupils was equally poor, viz., 14·6 and 17·2 per cent. respectively of the pupils of all creeds as compared with 14·4 and 18·5 per cent. in the preceding year. In the primary stage however Moslem pupils more than held their own in the competition with Hindus; their proportion to the total number under instruction was 50·5 against 50·1 per cent. in the preceding year. In special schools the proportion of Moslem pupils rose from 60·6 to 63·8 per cent. owing mainly to the increasing popularity of the reformed Madrasahs.

2. Hindu and Muhammadan pupils.—Of the total number of Muhammadan pupils studying in all types of educational institutions for Indians on 31st March 1925, 837,461 were under instruction in schools for boys, and 181,132 were in schools for girls as compared with 948,807 Hindus attending boys' schools and 135,606 Hindus attending girls' schools.

3. Special Moslem institutions.—Besides schools and colleges for general education there are other institutions in Bengal intended to meet the special needs of the Muhammadan community. These special institutions may be grouped under the following heads:—

(i) Islamic Intermediate colleges.

(ii) Moslem High Schools.

(iii) Madrasahs—Senior and Junior.

(iv) Maktabs.

(v) Koran schools.

(vi) Muallim Training schools.

4. Islamic Intermediate colleges.—During the year under review the number of Islamic Intermediate colleges remained unchanged at 2, one at Dacca and the other at Serajganj; the former is maintained by Government and the latter is aided by the Department. The 2 colleges together had 78 students in the Intermediate classes on 31st

March 1925. The 2 institutions sent up 26 candidates to the Islamic Intermediate Examination which was conducted by the Board of Intermediate and Secondary Education, Dacca; of them, 11 candidates, all from Dacca, were declared successful. The Serajganj Madrasah failed to pass any candidates, and it is obvious that this Madrasah has a long struggle before it, before it can rank as an institution of really intermediate status.

5. Madrasahs.—On the 31st March 1925 there were altogether 412 madrasahs in Bengal with an enrolment of 36,499 pupils against 374 madrasahs with 31,613 pupils on the corresponding date of the previous year. The number of madrasahs rose by 10·16 per cent. while the number of pupils attending them increased by 15·4 per cent. The reformed madrasahs show a steady increase from year to year both in number and strength. They are obviously more suited to the needs of the Muhammadan community than the ordinary secondary schools. They cost Rs. 7,72,135 during the year under review, of which Rs. 358,249 came from public funds; the corresponding figures for the previous year were Rs. 7,12,067 and Rs. 3,39,296 respectively. The Inspector of Schools, Chittagong Division, alludes to the support of a large number of orthodox madrasahs by District Boards as a hindrance to a further growth of the reformed madrasah system in his division.

6. Maktabs.—The number of maktabs rose from 15,945 to 17,325 during the year under report; of these 11,619 were for boys and 5,706 were for girls. The number of pupils attending maktabs rose from 456,033 to 510,912 of whom 372,564 were boys and 138,348 were girls. The total expenditure on the maintenance of maktabs rose from Rs. 11,89,079 to Rs. 13,40,884 to which public funds contributed Rs. 6,60,673 as against Rs. 6,19,776 in the year preceding. As before, arrangements were made in each Division for the inspection of maktabs by Moslem Sub-Inspectors of Schools. Through the increasing efforts of these officers a large number of Koran schools were converted into maktabs by the introduction of the secular course into them. All the model maktabs directly managed by Government were deprovincialized in the preceding year with the exception of the one at Calcutta which too was discontinued after June last.

7. Maktab curriculum.—A revised curriculum for maktabs on the lines of that for primary schools was approved by Government during the year under review. The revised syllabus extends over 5 years instead of 4.

8. Junior Madrasah Examination.—In the Junior Madrasah Examination held in November 1924, 857 boys appeared, of whom 539 or 62·9 per cent. were declared successful, as compared with 61·53 in the year preceding.

9. Islamic Matriculation Examination.—One hundred and seventy-seven candidates appeared in the Islamic Matriculation (High Madrasah) Examination conducted by the Board of Intermediate and Secondary Education, Dacca, in which 63 students passed against 74 out of 131 candidates in the preceding year.

10. Hostel accommodation for Moslem students in Calcutta.—The Baker and Elliot hostels attached to the Calcutta Madrasah and the Taylor Hostel in Wellington Street provided, as previously, hostel accommodation for under-graduate Moslem students studying in Calcutta. The Carmichael Hostel managed by Calcutta University caters only for post-graduate Moslem students.

11. Special facilities for Muhammadans.—Muhammadan students continued to enjoy during the year 1924-25 the concessions that were extended to them in previous years, viz., reservation of places in Government and aided schools, the grant of special scholarships and stipends, and free studentships to the extent of 15 per cent. of their total enrolment. The 4 scholarships of Rs. 12 a month and the 6 stipends of Rs. 8 a month each, which used to be awarded annually as a temporary measure on the results of the Islamic Matriculation examination were permanently sanctioned by Government in December 1924.

12. The Islamia College, Calcutta.—The Moslem community of Bengal has for nearly half a century looked forward to the construction of a special college for Moslems in Calcutta. With a view to the establishment of one in the immediate neighbourhood of the Calcutta Madrasah a plot of land was acquired some years ago in Wellesley Street, but the project was held up by financial stringency. The proposal was received last year by Mr. Fazlul Huq, then Education Minister and funds for the establishment of a first grade college for Muhammadans in Calcutta were voted by Council. The foundation stone of the College was laid by His Excellency the Governor of Bengal on 9th December 1924, with solemn and impressive ceremony.

His Excellency's speech contained a reasoned defence of the establishment of a communal or sectarian institution. Two felicitous passages from the speech may be placed on record, as summing up much of the motive behind the Moslem desire for this college.

In this Islamia College, that desire of the Moslem community will be met, and what Sir William Hunter described as a most powerful instinct of the Musalman heart will receive permanent and abiding satisfaction. That feeling which possibly still lurks in rural parts of Moslem Bengal that English education is not the education of a gentleman, that through it even though a Moslem may gain the whole world, he may lose his own soul, will surely disappear for ever when he sees this building in its final splendour, and realises that culture, though in modern form, can still be the handmaid of religion, and can co-operate with it here in Calcutta in producing in large numbers for the service of Bengal that type which has played its part on many stages in the past, and has yet, I believe, a great part to play—the cultured Moslem gentleman.

I perform the ceremony of formally laying the foundation stone of this Islamia College in the sure hope and belief that it will facilitate the harmonisation of the traditional and revered ideals of Islamic culture and Islamic piety with the insistent needs of modern life, and will enable the Moslems of Bengal to play that part in the making of the political and social future of the province to which their numbers, their past history and their very real importance in the body politic entitle them as their just and lawful due.

13. Muallim Training schools.—There are 3 such schools—one at Banspole in the Burdwan Division, one at Bagerhat in the Presidency Division and one at Feni in the Chittagong Division—for the training of Muallims or teachers of secularised maktabs and Moslem primary schools. The proposal for the conversion of the Guru Training school at Natore in the Rajshahi Division into a Muallim Training school is under consideration. There is as yet no Muallim Training school in the Dacca Division.

14. The general impression one receives from this record of Moslem education is that the community is making definite progress in education, but that its advance is not as rapid as its well-wishers could desire. It is hoped however that when the stimulus that is being administered or will be administered by the Moslem Hall in Dacca University and the Islamia College, Calcutta, has produced its full effects, there will be a distinct change for the better in the situation.

CHAPTER XI.

Education of Special Classes.

1. Education of Chiefs and Nobles.—There is no institution in Bengal specifically intended for the education of the sons and wards of Indian chiefs and nobles like those which exist in Upper India. The Nawab Bahadur's Institution at Murshidabad, however, provides special facilities for the education of the Nizamat family, although as an ordinary High English school, it admits boys of all communities. There are four hostels attached to the school one of which is reserved entirely for boys of the Nizamat family and is under the direct supervision of an English Headmaster, Mr. Barker, assisted by a qualified Muhammadan officer. A special feature of the school is its agricultural garden. As in the previous year twenty-six boys of the Nizamat family were in residence in the hostel on 31st March 1925. The cost to Government of the maintenance of the hostel amounted to Rs. 6,198 as against Rs. 6,186 in the preceding year.

2. Education of aborigines and the children of backward classes.—Among aboriginal races the Santhals are making appreciable progress in education, in spite of inadequate funds, as a result largely of missionary effort, while among backward Hindus, the Pods, Namasudras and Rajbansis are rpeorted to be advancing steadily in the van of the main group. The table reproduced below shows the number of boys and girls belonging to backward communities that were under instruction in schools and colleges on 31st March 1925:—

	Boys.	Girls.	Total.
In arts colleges	380	..	380
In professional colleges	31	..	31
In secondary and primary schools ..	166,404	14,607	181,011
In special schools	6,297	53	6,350
Total ..	173,112	14,660	187,772

The corresponding numbers on 31st March 1924 were 145,183, 14,194 and 159,377 respectively, and it is clear that there has been definite progress. The succeeding paragraphs give a brief account of the educational progress achieved by members of the backward classes during the year under review in each part of the Presidency separately:—

Calcutta.—On the 31st March 1925 there were in Calcutta 17 primary schools which had 493 pupils of the backward classes out of a total enrolment of 754. Thirteen of these primary schools were managed by Christian Missions. There were, besides, 2 special schools in the city which had 70 pupils belonging to backward communities on their rolls.

Presidency Division outside Calcutta.—During the year under review 55,146 pupils of the backward classes were attending schools for boys and 2,651 schools for girls. One High English and 2 Middle English schools in the district of Jessore were attended mainly by Namasudra children. In the district of Khulna there are several Middle English schools which cater chiefly for the education of Namasudras and Pods. In addition to secondary schools there exist large numbers of primary schools in the districts of 24-Parganas, Nadia, Jessore and Khulna which are attended mainly by the children of the backward classes; three of the primary schools in the 24-Parganas district were maintained from the income of the "Sussex Trust Fund". Nine Middle and 16 Upper Primary scholarships were secured by boys of the backward classes. A Pod boy, who also obtained a middle scholarship, was awarded the Chandra Nath Sapui Gold Medal for the year.

Burdwan Division.—As noted in previous reports the Santhals constitute the bulk of the aboriginal population of the Division. Out of 222 Santhal schools one was of the Middle English Standard, two were Middle Vernacular schools, 215 were primary, two others were Guru-training schools, and the remaining two were Industrial schools. Steps have been taken to raise the Middle English School at Bhimpore in the centre of the Santhal population to the status of a High English school. The school has over 200 pupils on its rolls, and has been provisionally recognised by the University for two years for the purpose of sending up candidates for the Matriculation examination. In this school at Bhimpore which is the central school and coping stone of a large system of primary schools in the north-western part of the Midnapore district established by the American Baptist Mission, the Mission is making a most interesting experiment, the object of which is to evolve a type of education which will give boys in rural areas endowed with ability the opportunity of proceeding to higher education, but which will at the same time in all the work of the school keep close touch with village life, will lead pupils to appreciate the privileges and opportunities of the village, and will equip and encourage them progressively to improve that environment. In short, an endeavour is being made to co-ordinate class room work with village industrial arts. This does not mean that Bhimpore is a vocational school in any strict technical sense. The aim throughout the school is not to have vocational work as an adjunct, as something supplementary to the ordinary curriculum, but to relate it directly and definitely to the ordinary curriculum of each class. For example jute-growing would be related to the Geography of Bengal. Spinning and weaving and the study of the cotton industry would include acquaintance with cotton-growing countries, cotton mills and various inter-related problems such as transportation, export and import, etc. The experiments will be followed with great interest as it will show how far what is known as the "project" method of education can be made generally applicable to conditions in Bengal. One of the main problems of the day is to discover what is the right type of rural secondary school for Bengal. The problem is not an easy one. What is certain is that the present academic high school is not the right type. Probably several types are required. But they must in the main cater essentially for rural needs, as does Bhimpore. "The great object of the rural high school should be to serve as a social and educational centre for the development of the potentialities resident in the rural culture and the rural population. All other aims should be subordinated to this one". So runs a passage from the recent American Survey of the Philippine educational system. America can help Bengal considerably in solving its rural school problem, and the results of the American experiment at Bhimpore will be carefully watched. Our present academic high school in rural areas obviously makes no attempt to cater for the special needs of that large proportion of its boys whose education will go no further than the school. Bhimpore aims at ascertaining by experiment whether something more suitable for that large proportion who must continue to live in the village cannot be devised, which will at the same time not neglect those who will go on to higher education and professional life of some kind or other. Whatever the result of the experiment, we shall learn much from it. Of the total expenditure incurred by the Santhal Education Board on the upkeep of the Santhal schools Rs. 25,443 came from Provincial Revenues, and Rs. 1,494 from the District Fund. One Middle, 2 Upper Primary and 12 Lower Primary scholarships were awarded to Santhal pupils. Altogether 29,168 pupils of the backward classes were under instruction during the year in the various recognised schools of the Division.

Dacca Division.—The number of pupils belonging to the backward and aboriginal classes studying in all classes of institutions in the Division rose from 59,503 to 60,244 or by 1·3 per cent.; the Namasudras represented 82·2 per cent. of this number. Nine schools (3 of which were aided) for Fishermen and 5 for Muchis were returned from the Dacca district. The enrolment of special schools in the district is reported to have declined owing to the abolition of a certain number of night or continuation schools. There were 40 schools for aboriginal tribes and 1 for criminal races in Mymensingh. The District Board of Bakarganj maintained 12 free primary schools including 1 for girls in the colonisation areas of the Sundarbans for Magh pupils; the enrolment of these schools is reported to have decreased owing to economic stress. Eight Middle and 13 Upper Primary scholarships were awarded to pupils of the backward classes during the year under report.

Chittagong Division.—The schools in the Chittagong Hill Tracts, which are chiefly intended for hill tribes, included 1 High English school at Rangamati, 3 Middle, 151 Primary, 1 Training, 1 Industrial and 38 unrecognised schools, and had a total enrolment of 3,572 pupils. The Missionary Society at Chandragona in the Hill Tracts maintains a training school for primary school teachers. In the Lalmai Hills in Tippera there were 2 aided primary schools for Tipras. The high, middle and primary schools in the Cox's Bazar subdivision had altogether 469 Magh pupils on the rolls on 31st March 1925. This subdivision had besides 17 Kyang or Budhist monastic schools with 431 pupils. Pupils belonging to non-aboriginal backward communities, who were reading in the high, middle and primary schools in the Chittagong Division on the last day of the year, numbered 11,105—boys 9,457 and girls 1,648. Nine Middle and 13 Primary scholarships were awarded to boys of the backward classes.

Rajshahi Division.—The district of Dinajpur had 50 Santhal schools including 1 Middle English school, with 1,328 pupils. The local Santhal Education Board, of which the District Magistrate is President, directly managed 10 schools, and subsidised 23 others. The contributions from Provincial Revenues and District Funds towards the upkeep of the schools under the control of the Santhal Education Board amounted during the year to Rs. 3,254 and Rs. 1,968 respectively. The Baptist, Catholic, and Presbyterian Missions between them maintained 23 schools and are valuable agents in connection with Santhal education. The Malda district had 16 Santhal Primary schools with 397 pupils. The local Santhal Education Board (presided over by the District Magistrate) received from Government and the District Board financial assistance to the extent of Rs. 1,348 and 384 respectively. Pupils belonging to other backward communities numbered 23,989 including 1,480 girls: Rajbansis constituted about half of this number.

3. Education of defectives.—Eleven European children suffering from mental and physical defects were under training in the Children's House at Kurseong on 31st March 1925. The Deaf and Dumb School, Calcutta, had 110 pupils on the rolls including 14 girls, and the Blind School had 48 pupils including 14 girls. There were 20 pupils in the Deaf and Dumb School, Dacca, and 8, including 3 girls, at the Deaf and Dumb School at Faridpur. The Deaf and Dumb School at Barisal, which has a weaving class attached to it, had 16 pupils on its rolls. The Deaf and Dumb School at Chittagong had 8 pupils, including 2 girls. The financial assistance rendered by District Boards and Municipalities in the shape of scholarships and stipends to deaf mutes and blind children under training in the Calcutta schools was continued during the year under report. The total expenditure on the education of defectives was Rs. 66,544.

4. Tea-garden schools.—The district of Jalpaiguri returned 60 tea-garden schools of which 10 were "A" class, 20 "B" class and 30 "C" class. The work of some of the schools is criticised in the reports. They cost Government Rs. 4,708 and the District Board Rs. 360. The district of Darjeeling had 57 tea-garden schools with 1,483 pupils. The upkeep of these schools cost Rs. 10,106 to which Provincial Revenues and District Fund contributed Rs. 5,109 and Rs. 396 respectively.

5. Education of factory children.—The children of mill employés in the district of 24-Parganas are generally educated in the primary schools and maktabs which are in existence in the locality. The Special Primary School at Titagarh, and the Rifle Factory and Metal Factory Schools at Ichapore, which cater specially for the children of mill hands, are reported to be doing very useful work. The Titagarh School had, as previously, 3 sections, viz., Hindi, Urdu and Telegu. The Rifle Factory School, which is subsidised by Government, was reorganised last year; the teaching staff was strengthened considerably, and the school building was extended and thoroughly equipped at a cost of Rs. 12,327. The Metal Factory School receives at present no aid from Government.

6. Education of Jains.—The Jain School at Bogra started in 1923-24 is reported to have deteriorated considerably. It had only 10 pupils on the rolls on 31st March 1925 against 57 on the same date in the preceding year.

CHAPTER XII.

Unrecognised Institutions.

On 31st March 1925 there were in Bengal 1,283 unrecognised schools with 43,815 pupils as compared with 1,352 schools attended by 47,235 scholars on the corresponding date of the preceding year. Of the total number of pupils under instruction in unrecognised schools on the last day of the year under review 19,963 were Hindus, and 22,484 Muhammadans; the rest belonged to other communities. Unrecognised schools are gradually passing into the fold of recognised schools, and this tendency supplies the explanation of the decrease in the number of schools and pupils which has occurred during the year. Indigenous schools teaching advanced courses in Arabic or Persian are found to develop in course of time into reformed Madrasahs and Koran schools into secularised maktabs teaching the recognised courses.

2. The majority of unrecognised institutions aim at imparting religious instruction combined with a smattering of general and "vocational" education. Absence of method, defective teaching and discipline, irregularity of attendance, and overcrowding of the curriculum are reported to be some of the normal features of these schools. The curriculum of some of these indigenous institutions aims as high as that of a university or college, while the lowest among them are elementary schools teaching the 3 R's. The most conspicuous among these institutions for boys in Bengal are the Kabindra College, Goila, district Bakarganj, and Santiniketan, Bolpur, district Birbhum. The former is known as a seat of higher Sanskrit studies; in the latter the founder (Dr. Rabindra Nath Tagore) is attempting to combine the oldest Indian traditions with the best features of modern education. Santiniketan devotes considerable attention to the inculcation of religious and moral principles, manual and farm work, art, music, social service and self-help generally. The institution, which bears on every aspect of its work the impress of the culture, the spirituality and the idealism of its founder, values its independence of control as essential to its work. Without in any way surrendering that independence it has recently made arrangements to present such of its pupils as desire it at the examinations of the University of Calcutta. A special feature of its work is the co-education of boys and girls, and its system of open air class work under trees. The visitor has something to criticise and much to praise, but he will agree with wholehearted assent that its library is a scholar's joy, its spirit of unity an oasis of peace in a desert of jarring disharmonies, and that whatever the future may hold in store for it, Santiniketan has already achieved in three main directions, viz., its department of advanced oriental research, in which foreign savants have co-operated, its art school, under the direction of Mr. Nanda Lal Bose, and its village industrial and social service work, in which it has had the skilled assistance of Mr. Elmhirst. Among girls' schools the Mahakali Pathsala at Mymensingh deserves special notice. The Pathsala, which had 236 pupils on its rolls on 31st March 1925, specialises in the teaching of religious subjects on orthodox lines in addition to the ordinary school curriculum. The Pathsala is in receipt of a grant-in-aid from Municipal Funds.

Sanskrit tôls of the old type, which are not under the control of the Calcutta Sanskrit Association, are included among unrecognised schools. In these tôls the Adhyapak (teacher) himself holds examinations and confers titles. They differ from recognised schools not only as regards the courses taught, but also as regards general organisation.

CHAPTER XIII.

Physical and Moral Training.

1. Hostels.—Hostels and boarding houses attached to educational institutions of various grades in the Presidency had 31,165 occupants on 31st March 1925 against 26,964 on the corresponding date of the previous year. Of this number 25,467 resided in hostels for Indians, and 5,698 in hostels for Europeans and Anglo-Indians, as compared with 21,866, and 5,098 on the 31st March 1924. Of the residents of Indian hostels 22,669 were males and 2,798 were females. Of the European and Anglo-Indian boarders 3,681 were boys and 2,017 were girls.

A project for constructing a hostel at a cost of Rs. 81,600 (including the cost of land) for the use of the Moslem students of Chittagong College received the administrative approval of Government during the year under report, and a sum of Rs. 50,000 has been allotted for the work. The need for larger hostel accommodation in connection with the Ahsanulla School of Engineering, Dacca, has become more pronounced with the opening of additional sections.

During the year under review orders were issued by Government in regard to the apportionment of hostel charges between Government and the boarders residing in hostels attached to Government schools and colleges. It was laid down that throughout the Presidency seat rents should be realised at a uniform rate, and that while Government would bear the cost of medical supervision, the cost of the medicine consumed should be paid by the boarders themselves, who should be liable also to pay furniture rent, lighting charges, and the occupier's share of municipal taxes. These general orders are not applicable to the hostels attached to the Presidency and Bengal Engineering Colleges, and hostels for girls and backward classes, which are regulated by specific Government orders.

2. Messes.—The mess scheme in Calcutta continued to be administered, as before by the Students' Residence Committee of Calcutta

University. The post of the Proctor or Inspector of Messes in Dacca was abolished with effect from 1st April 1925, his duties having been transferred to the Board of Intermediate and Secondary Education, Dacca. The Board is now assisted in this work by an Assistant Inspector of Students' residence on a salary of Rs. 200 a month. The changes introduced in the mess scheme at Dacca are tentative and subject to reconsideration on the coming into existence of the Provincial Board of Secondary Education. Reserve funds are being started in connection with most of the Dacca messes with a view to making them gradually self-supporting.

3. Physical training.—As in the preceding year a six weeks' training class for Drill masters was conducted at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium from the 7th November 1924 under the supervision of Mr. N. Ghosh, Adviser in Physical Education, Bengal. The class was attended by the teachers of Government as well as by teachers of non-Government schools. Successful candidates were awarded proficiency certificates on the completion of the course.

As mentioned in previous reports, boys in towns show a particular preference for such games as foot-ball, cricket, hockey and badminton. Boys in rural areas play both indigenous and other games. Schools and colleges located in large towns and in district and subdivisional headquarters are handicapped by want of adequate playing fields. Three grounds on the Calcutta maidan have been placed at the disposal of this Department and are utilised by the boys of various educational institutions in the city. In some of the Eastern Bengal districts boat-racing is a favourite sport during the rains, when the playing fields are under water. The importance of games and physical exercise as an essential factor in education is now generally admitted in Bengal owing to many young men of intellectual capacity, but poor physique, having been rejected for admission to the higher services. Much more attention must be paid to physical culture, it is now admitted, and the University has recently and since the close of the period under review placed its views before Government with regard both to physical and military training.

The Boy Scout movement continues to gain popularity but expansion is retarded by the want of properly qualified scout masters. Where it has taken firm root a visible all-round improvement in the boys is manifest.

4. Medical inspection of students.—An elaborate medical examination of the 1st, 2nd and 3rd year classes was conducted during the year under review at the Presidency College with the assistance of the Students' Welfare Committee of the University. The results of the medical examination reveal that only about 20 per cent. of the students are in the enjoyment of normal good health. To remedy the present state of things it was decided to make physical exercise compulsory for the first year classes with effect from the session 1925-26, and arrangements to this end were made by the Principal in consultation with the Adviser to Government in Physical Education. It is only by systematic medical inspection conducted at regular intervals that parents as well as teachers can be made to realise what is happening under the present system where mental development is allowed to accrue at the expense of the health and physique of students. Fortunately parents are beginning to realise that a good degree coupled with a sick body is a very poor equipment for a young man starting life, and a better public opinion on the subject is in process of formation.

5. Hygiene.—Hygiene is included in the curricula for the Matriculation Examination conducted by the Board of Intermediate and Secondary Education, Dacca. As in previous years a series of lectures on Hygiene and Sanitation illustrated by lantern slides was delivered at several centres by lecturers deputed by the Bengal Social Service League as well as by District Health Officers. These lectures are reported to be very useful and popular, and there is reason to believe that organised efforts in this direction on the part of District Boards and Municipalities through their Health Officers and Sanitary Inspectors will prove to be of great value to the community at large.

6. Religious and Moral Instruction.—The question of religious instruction in schools continues to be a much debated one. As stated in previous reports direct religious instruction is given only in communal schools like madrasahs, maktabs, tôls, mission schools and Mahakali pathsalas. It is extremely difficult to provide religious teaching in schools, where the pupils belong to diverse creeds and communities.

Lessons illustrating a high standard of morality, the inculcation of good habits, and the cultivation of truthfulness, obedience, honesty, respect for elders and similar virtues are incorporated in reading books prescribed or recommended for use in schools.

7. Discipline.—There was no grave general indiscipline during the year under review. But the question still remains one in which achievement is negative rather than positive. "The student" observes the Inspector of Schools, Presidency Division, "lives a parallel life in the atmosphere of two cultures—the quiet resignation of the East and the robust optimism of the West. Hence the present loss of balance in the intellectual and moral life of our students. One of the greatest duties of secondary school teachers is to restore equilibrium by the influence of character, example, culture, and experience".

The evil effects of non-co-operation have practically passed away and it is interesting to note that earnest endeavours are being made to counteract the tendency towards indiscipline by the authorities of several High schools by availing themselves of Durbar Day, Prize Day, and other special occasions to establish direct touch and co-operation with parents and guardians in the matter. The ease with which a new school can come into being owing to the low standards accepted is however a fruitful source of indiscipline. A case occurred during the year in which, in a school of over 300 boys, a new headmaster was resented. School and staff promptly went on strike, downed tools or rather books, and marched off to another building, where they started a new school under another name. The old school ceased to exist, and the new one is a recognised school.

8. National schools.—At the end of the calendar year 1924 the Presidency had 90 national schools with 6,993 pupils as compared with 109 schools with 9,081 pupils in the preceding year. The movement for "national schools", which captured the imagination of the country, has subsided and a reaction appears to have set in. None of the national schools any where conforms to Departmental standards. The schools impart, as stated in previous reports, general education combined with religious instruction and handicrafts such as weaving, spinning, tailoring, etc.

CHAPTER XIV.

Conferences and Committees.

A conference of higher educational officers of the Bengal Presidency was held at Writers' Buildings from the 23rd to 26th February 1925 under the Chairmanship of the Director to discuss various outstanding matters connected with the organisation and administration of the Department. The main topics discussed at the conference were the delegation of powers to the Inspectors of Schools, the recruitment and promotion of subordinate officers, the principles governing the distribution of grants-in-aid to secondary schools, the improvement of the pay and prospects of teachers of non-Government secondary schools, practical training in schools, the revival of public examinations at the end of the middle and primary stages of instruction, and the improvement of High, Normal and Panchayati Union schools.

Conferences of Inspecting Officers were also held at the headquarters of the Burdwan, Dacca and Rajshahi Divisions and by the Inspectress of Schools, Presidency and Burdwan Divisions. A special feature which was much appreciated at the Dacca Conference was the provision of a series of lectures and demonstration lessons, illustrating the latest methods of teaching and organisation by Mr. M. P. West, Principal, Teachers' Training College, Dacca.

Reference has been made in chapters III and VII to the labours of the Sanskrit College Committee, the Presidency College Committee, the Advisory Committee for Higher Education, and the Dacca Vocational Education Committee.

CHAPTER XV.

Text-Book Committees.

Four vacancies in the Calcutta Text-Book Committee and three in the Dacca Text-Book Committee were filled up during the year 1924-25 by the appointment of new members.

Out of 867 books considered by the Calcutta Text-Book Committee during the year under review, 179 books were approved. The Dacca Text-Book Committee considered 868 books of which 325 were approved.

2. Under the recent orders of Government books intended for use as prize and library books in schools in Bengal are now submitted for consideration to the Provincial Text-Book Committees instead of to the Director of Public Instruction.

3 The special feature of the year under review was the introduction with effect from 1st January 1925, of the revised curriculum for primary schools for boys and girls in all the districts of the Presidency. This has simplified the work of the Text-Book Committees.

4. A complete re-organisation of the system of text-book recognition is overdue. In the ordinary course of events, this would naturally await the re-organisation of the control of secondary education in the province and possibly the adoption of a progressive primary education policy, but it is impossible to postpone action indefinitely, and action prior to any further administrative reform will probably be necessary.

CHAPTER XVI.

Education in the Legislative Council.

The year was notable for the small number of questions and resolutions dealing with educational topics in the local Legislature. This was due, in large measure, to the absence of Ministers in the closing mouths of the year, when, the Legislative Council having refused their salaries, they resigned and the control of the Department was taken over by His Excellency the Governor.

The provision of Rs. 6,35,400 required for the salaries of the Inspecting officers of this Department, which had been previously rejected, was passed by the Council in its August session, and the Hon'ble Mr. A. K. Fazlul Haq was thereupon able to withdraw the emergency motion standing in his name for a grant of Rs. 3,17,750 for a similar purpose. This figure represented the absolutely minimum requirements for a skeleton inspecting agency necessary to avoid a complete breakdown of the Educational system of the province. No real discussion of the subject on its merits took place, since Council, in its excitement over the immediately preceding rejection of Ministers' salaries for the second time, was not in a mood to discuss the matter seriously.

Questions were asked more than once about circle schools, and a certain amount of interest was evinced by members in the recent deprovincialisation of Model Maktabs and Model Girls' Schools. Questions on general subjects such as the spread of free Primary Education, grants to colleges, and so on, were fewer. In many cases the questions asked by members were of a communal and local character. The following may be mentioned as illustrative of the type of questions asked: the ratio of Muhammadan teachers to Muhammadan pupils in schools; the number of European and Anglo-Indian students studying in the various European schools in Bengal; the facilities (including provision of scholarships) provided for Moslem boys in Engineering schools and colleges; the refusal of financial help to madrasahs of the old type; the representation of backward classes on the Court of the University of Dacca; the cessation of the Government grant to a specific High English School; and the alleged unfair treatment of Muhammadan students in a certain institution.

The March session of the Council in 1925 had, as usual, for disposal, a very large number of motions for the reduction or refusal of grants for Education, as for other heads of expenditure. These motions, which were part of the policy of obstruction, amounted in all departments to over 1,000, and in Education alone to about 150. The circumstances in which the Budget Session of 1925 came to a close resulted in none of these motions for refusal or reduction being moved; but the labour of preparing material for a defence of almost every item in the Budget added to the burdens of an already overworked Department, which found little consolation from the fact that in the end the material was not required.

In short Education came before the Council in 1924-25 but little and when it did so, it figured purely as a pawn in the political struggle. In the meantime the University remained unreformed; the secondary school system continued to languish in anæmia; and primary education remained an unsolved problem. The Legislative Council by its open discussion of policy and principle has done much in the past and will do much in the future to focus public attention on the proper methods of advance, and the nature of the difficulties to be surmounted, in connection with the Education problem. In 1925, however, it abdicated its functions in this respect.

E. F. OATEN,

Director of Public Instruction, Bengal.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Final Forecast of the Bhadoi Crops of Bengal, 1925-26.

(NOTE.—On an average of the five years ending 1923-24, the area under autumn rice in Bengal has represented some 6·2 per cent. of the total area under rice in British India.

Character of the season.—As reported in the preliminary forecast, the weather during the months of April and May was too wet for the crops, especially in the low-lying tracts of East and North Bengal. Monsoon showers were especially defective in West Bengal, thereby affecting the crops considerably, while moderate showers in Eastern Bengal proved somewhat beneficial. But the lowland crops which already suffered from pre-monsoon showers could not completely recover. A fair crop has been reaped for the Province, as a whole.

Acreage.—The total acreage sown with the different bhadoi crops this year is reported to be 5,903,400 acres as against 5,632,800 acres revised for last year. Of this, the area under autumn rice is estimated at 5,139,200 acres as against 4,857,200 acres last year.

Outturn.—According to the District Officers' estimates, the autturn of autumn rice as well as that of all the different bhadoi crops together for the Presidency, works out at 73 per cent. of the normal as against the same estimate last year.

Accepting 73 per cent. as the outturn of autumn rice, the gross outturn of the crop for the Presidency, on the basis of a normal yield of 10½ maunds of clean grain per acre, is estimated at 1,481,500 tons this year as against 1,400,200 tons last year.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Second Forecast of the Winter Rice Crop of Bengal, 1925-26.

(NOTE.—On an average of the five years ending 1923-24, the area under winter rice in Bengal has represented some 18·7 per cent. of the total area under rice in British India.)

Character of the Season.—As indicated in the first forecast pre-monsoon showers during the months of April and May, being heavy, hampered field operations for deep-water paddy in parts of North and East Bengal. Continuous weak monsoon over the greater part of West Bengal interfered with the transplantation of paddy, especially in the highland tracts, while in East and North Bengal, moderate showers facilitated the operation a good deal, with the result that more area was brought under cultivation. Good rainfall during the first part of September caused further transplantation, and October rain considerably helped the final development of the crops, especially in West Bengal where the rainfall was so long in defect. On the whole, a good crop may be reaped in East and North Bengal and a fair one in West Bengal.

Acreage.—According to the estimates returned by the District Officers, the total area under winter rice is 15,516,300 acres, as compared with 15,589,200 and 15,589,800 acres in the corresponding and final forecasts of last year.

Outturn.—From the summary of the district returns appended, it will be seen that Bakarganj, Jalpaiguri, Rangpur and Faridpur report more than a normal crop (i.e., 133, 117, 115 and 105 per cent., respectively). Three districts, viz., Bogra, Pabna and Mymensingh, report a normal crop. Twelve districts report a crop varying from 83 to 96 per cent. and the rest from 58 to 75 per cent. According to the above estimates, the provincial outturn works up to 92 per cent. as against 89 and 86 per cent. of the normal estimates, respectively, in the corresponding and final forecasts of last year.

Accepting 92 per cent. as the provincial outturn, the gross yield of the crop, on the basis of a normal yield of 12½ maunds of clean grain per acre, is estimated at 6,554,800 tons this year, as against 6,370,900 and 6,156,400 tons, respectively, in the corresponding and final forecasts of last year.

Second Forecast of the Winter Rice Crop of Bengal, 1925-26.

District.	Estimated normal area under winter rice.	Estimated area under winter rice.		Estimated outturn as a percentage of the normal yield per unit of area.		Date by which the harvesting generally commenced this year and whether that date was early, normal or late.	Remarks by District Officers.
		Last year (1924-25).	This year (1925-26).	Last year.	This year.
	Acres.	Acres.	Acres.
24-Parganas ...	840,600	709,600	749,800	92	92	.....	The increase in area is due to timely rainfall. The weather was favourable on the whole. A little damage due to drought has been reported from the Baraset subdivision. The outturn is below the normal for want of sufficient rain.
Nadia	136,800	150,400	130,900	67	67	Latter part of November.	The decrease in area is due to want of sufficient rain both at the time of sowing and transplantation. Insufficient and unequal distribution of rainfall adversely affected the crop. Heavy rain during the middle of October is reported to have done slight damage in Kushtia while it was beneficial in other parts to some extent though late.
Murshidabad ...	351,400	279,900	278,200	83	83	.....	Insufficient rainfall stunted the growth of the crop. The outturn is therefore anticipated to fall below the normal.
Jessore ...	654,800	493,000	474,900	75	67	November. Normal	The effects of weather have not been favourable. The outturn is anticipated to fall much below the normal.
Khulna ...	800,000	740,800	722,700	100	92	.....	The decrease in area is due to want of timely rainfall and to extended cultivation of jute The weather has not been very favourable. Drought caused damage and the outturn has fallen below the normal owing to insufficient rainfall.
Burdwan ...	731,100	755,200	693,200	100	75	End of November. Normal.	The decrease in area is due to insufficient rain, which is causing some damage. The weather has been favourable on the whole. The unequal distribution of rain at sowing time retarded the growth but subsequent rain has saved the crop from being dried up. Insufficient rainfall has caused damage to the extent of 25 per cent.
Birbhum	604,700	446,100	537,000	92	67	Latter part of November. Normal.	The weather was not favourable owing to uneven and insufficient rainfall which caused damage. Late transplantation and drought are responsible for the low outturn.
Bankura	* 440,000	550,000	320,000	75	58	End of November. Normal.	The abnormal decrease in area is due to revision based on settlement records, a large area under transplanted autumn paddy being so long shown under winter paddy. The weather was not favourable at the beginning but it improved to a certain extent after rains in the month of October. Drought in September and at the beginning of October considerably damaged the crop.
Midnapore ...	1,537,100	1,450,000	1,411,800	83	83	Ditto	The decrease in area is due to want of rain. The effects of weather were not favourable due to insufficient rain subsequent to sowing time. The rainfall lately had good effect on the standing crop. The extent of damage is estimated at about two annas.
Hooghly	352,100	184,400	142,000	88	62	.....	The decrease in area is due to inadequate rainfall at the time of transplantation. The weather was favourable at sowing time but unfavourable afterwards. Owing to failure of rain many fields could not be ploughed and the plants withered in many places before they could be transplanted. Some good showers in September and October, however, improved the condition and revived the withering plants which did not die till then. Considerable damage has been done by drought.
Howrah	117,000	93,700	92,700	100	83	.....	The weather was fair. Want of timely rain caused some damage.
Rajshahi	822,700	695,500	925,400	100	83	Early part of December. Normal.	The increase in area is due to the fact that a large area was transplanted after the submission of the first forecast. The weather was fair. Damage is reported from the Natore subdivision.
Dinajpur	1,035,900	996,100	996,000	83	75	.....	The increase in area compared with the first forecast is due to rainfall in the latter part of the season. The effects of weather have not been favourable owing to late rainfall which reduced the outturn.

Darjeeling	30,800	25,500	56,900	92	92	Last week of October. Normal.	The increase in area is due to revision of figures in the last settlement of Terai Government Estates. The weather has been favourable.
Rangpur	692,000	580,000	589,000	100	115	First week of December. Normal.	The weather was very favourable. There was slight damage to the crop in the char area of Kurigram. A bumper crop is expected.
Bogra	361,200	331,000	312,600	90	100	Middle of November	The weather has been favourable.
Pabna	404,200	397,100	412,800	83	100	.....	The increase in area is due to favourable weather at the sowing time owing to copious rain. The drought in June and early part of July has slightly affected the crop. The weather has been favourable on the whole excepting for a heavy flood about the middle of September. Slow subsidence of flood water slightly affected the outturn in some area of Serajganj subdivision.
Malda	304,000	266,000	250,000	109	83	.....	The growth of the crop was stunted for want of timely rain and the outturn is therefore anticipated to fall below the normal.
Dacca	672,400	684,800	679,800	65	92	Middle of November. Normal.	The weather has been favourable. Water-hyacinth caused slight damage to the deep-water paddy and in-rush of flood-water destroyed the crop in certain tracts.
Mymensingh ...	1,455,500	1,331,500	1,294,500	75	100	Latter part of November. Normal.	The decrease in area is due to heavy rainfall at the time of sowing. The weather was favourable.
Faridpur ...	759,900	702,000	730,500	80	105	October. Normal.	The outturn is expected to exceed the normal owing to favourable condition throughout.
Bakarganj ...	1,300,000	1,374,000	1,371,000	83	133	November. Normal ..	The weather has been favourable at the sowing time. But scarcity of rain afterwards affected the growth slightly. This was, however, recompensated by continuous good showers in the early part of October.
Chittagong ...	425,000	429,000	429,000	100	96	November and December. Normal.	The weather was fairly favourable. Almost a normal outturn is expected.
Tippera	787,000	814,600	820,600	67	92	November. Early ...	The weather was on the whole favourable although the rainfall was not adequate. Damage to the extent of one anna was caused by sudden rise of water and by water-hyacinth in Brahmanbaria.
Noakhali	706,000	642,900	643,300	92	83	First week of November. Normal.	The weather was favourable in the Sadar subdivision but was not so elsewhere.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

First Forecast of the Spring Oilseed Crops of Bengal, 1925-26.

(NOTE.—On an average of the five years ending 1923-24 the area under linseed in Bengal has represented some 3·8 per cent. and that under rape and mustard 18·7 per cent. of the total area under these crops in British India.)

Explanatory.—Three forecasts are issued for the spring oilseed crops. The present one deals with the area sown and the general condition of the crops.

Area sown.—Oilseeds are grown chiefly in the Rajshahi, Dacca and Presidency Divisions. In the other two divisions, the cultivation is small. The total area under these crops (excepting sesamum for which separate forecasts are issued) is returned at 897,000 acres this year as against 882,900 and 884,600 acres, respectively, in the corresponding and final forecasts of last year.

Character of the season.—Wet weather during the months of September and the first half of October interfered with the field operations with the result that the sowings were late in the some districts. Subsequent dry weather has facilitated the progress a good deal. The present outlook, so far, is fair, on the whole.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Monthly Weather and Crop Report of Bengal for November 1925.

I. Character of the season.—The rainfall during the month was generally in defect of the normal; the precipitation being above the average only in the districts of Jalpaiguri, Darjeeling, Bakarganj, Noakhali, the Chittagong Hill Tracts and in the Cooch Behar State. The usual rainfall statement is appended.

II. Progress of agricultural operations.—Reaping of winter paddy progressed under favourable weather conditions and the retention of soil moisture as a result of good rainfall in October facilitated the field operations for spring crops a good deal.

III. State of standing crops.—The standing spring crops were thriving under dry and sunny weather. The condition of sugarcane was favourable.

IV. Prospects and probable outturn.—The prospects of winter paddy were favourable in East and North Bengal and those in West Bengal were fair. The outturn of the winter paddy was estimated at 92 per cent. and that of bhadoi crops at 73 per cent. of the normal.

V. Damage to standing crops.—No appreciable damage to the crops was reported during the month.

VI. Condition of agricultural stock.—The condition of live-stock was fair. Sporadic cases of cattle disease were reported from thirteen districts.

VII. Failure of pasturage and fodder.—Insufficiency of fodder was felt in parts of Pabna and Rajshahi districts.

VIII. Prices of food-grains.—During the second fortnight of the month the price of the cheapest quality of rice rose in 4 districts, fell in 12 and remained stationary in the rest of the Presidency. The prices ranged from 5 seers at Faridpur to 7 seers at Midnapore.

IX. Condition of agricultural population.—The condition of agricultural population was reported to be fair.

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT OF THE BOARD OF REVENUE ON THE LAND REVENUE ADMINISTRATION OF THE PRESIDENCY FOR THE YEAR 1924-25.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

Land Revenue.

CALCUTTA, THE 21ST DECEMBER 1925.

RESOLUTION—No. 12940.

READ—

The Report of the Board of Revenue on the Land Revenue Administration of the Presidency for the year 1924-25.

The office of the Member of the Board of Revenue was held by Mr. D. H. Lees, C.S.I., from the beginning of the year under report till 12th November 1924. He was succeeded by Mr. K. C. De, C.I.E., who held the office during the rest of the year.

2. The general features of the year described in the report were a freedom from widespread natural calamities and serious outbreaks of epidemic disease, weather conditions which were not very favourable to agriculture, high prices of the main crops of the province and the continuance of high prices for most articles of common use and also for labour. In conditions such as these the large class of people dependent on fixed incomes again suffered, but the agricultural and labouring classes were compensated for the higher cost of living by the higher value of crops and labour. In Northern Bengal the ready repayment of the agricultural loans distributed after the floods of 1922 was a satisfactory sign that the agricultural population had recovered from the effects of that calamity.

3. By comparison with other years public health in the greater part of the province is said to have been fairly satisfactory, but the report shows how great is the task of bringing preventable diseases under control. The loss of life from cholera was considerable and small-pox claimed more victims than in the previous year. Malaria continued unabated, and all districts were, more or less, affected by it. Kala-azar within the last few years has spread almost throughout the province. There is however cause for real satisfaction in the organised efforts now beginning to be made in some districts. The formation of anti-malarial societies is a welcome sign of a growing determination to unite in using the discoveries of science in ridding the country of its worst scourges.

4. Useful information about the collection of land revenue is contained in the report, but there is little which calls for comment. The current demand showed an increase of Rs. 1,31,730 and collections were good, being 94·5 per cent. of the total demand and 100·3 per cent. on the current demand.

5. The cost of management of Government estates shows a slight decrease as compared with the previous year. Although the grant at present allotted to the Board for the improvement of Government estates is admittedly insufficient, it is satisfactory that the Board were able to spend substantially larger sums on agricultural and sanitary improvements.

Settlement Kanungos were appointed as officers-in-charge of eleven khas mahal circles in various districts in place of Sub-Deputy Collectors. This experimental measure of economy is reported to have worked satisfactorily.

6. The report contains an interesting account of the colonisation work in the Bakarganj and 24-Parganas Sunderbans. No new development of importance is recorded, but progress was made with the work of constructing embankments and providing drainage channels and tanks for drinking water. In the Bakarganj estates co-operative credit societies continue to flourish, and it is satisfactory to note that a number of new schools were established and arbitration boards are beginning to do useful work in the settlement of petty disputes.

7. Since the report of the Board was written, the Bill to amend the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885, has been introduced and referred to a Select Committee. It is certain that a Bill so closely affecting the great majority of the people of this province will be subjected to much criticism ; but the Governor in Council hopes that the examination by the Select Committee will lead to the recognition of the fact that the Bill represents an earnest endeavour on the part of the committee over which Sir John Kerr presided to hold the scales even between landlord and tenant, to reduce causes of friction and litigation, and to render less difficult the working of a complicated system of land tenure.

8. During the year under report, a minor change was made in section 20 of the Bengal Tenancy Act in order to settle a question of status which was rendered urgent by the settlement operations in the district of Khulna. No reference has been made in the report to the effect of the Bengal Tenancy (Utbandi Amendment) Act, 1923, but no difficulty in its working has yet come to notice. The Act of 1918 which added provisions to the Bengal Tenancy Act imposing restrictions on the alienation of their lands by aboriginals has proved a useful measure and has been extended to other districts.

9. The thanks of the Governor in Council are due to the Board of Revenue for the efficient administration of the Land Revenue Department.

By order of the Governor in Council,

W. S. HOPKYNS,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

RESOLUTION—No. 16506A.

In paragraph 460 of their report the Bengal Retrenchment Committee recommended a reduction of permanent establishments by the discharge of all superfluous officers. The Government of Bengal, in accepting their recommendations, explained in Resolution No. 3108A., dated the 16th March 1923, the course of action which they intended to adopt to carry them into effect, and in pursuance of that resolution, in Government order No. 3129A., dated the 16th March 1923, it was directed that no extension of service should be sanctioned except by the order of the Member or Minister in charge and with the concurrence of the Finance Member. All departments were directed to prepare lists of surplus officers and to forward them to the Appointment Department, and Commissioners of Divisions and the several departments of Government were instructed not to fill vacancies without communicating with the Appointment Department which would supply them with the list of surplus officers for reference. In Government order No. 1083A.-D., dated the 12th June 1923, it was laid down that, in the case of vacancies in the ministerial ranks in district offices, it should be open to the head of the office, with the approval of the Commissioner of the Division, or, in the case of a judicial officer, with the approval of the District Judge, to fill such vacancies by officiating arrangements if an appointment could not be made from the surplus list. The same procedure was to be followed in respect of vacancies in the Civil Secretariat and in the offices subordinate to heads of departments, officiating promotions or appointments being made with the approval of the Secretary and the departmental head, respectively.

2. In December 1923 Government reviewed the effect of these orders, and in their order No. 14259A., dated the 22nd December 1923, emphasised the obligation to see that their promise in respect of the provision of employment for surplus officers was fulfilled and reiterated the instruction that in filling vacancies no opportunity of providing for surplus officers should be lost. In order that progress in the absorption of surplus officers might be watched, it was also directed that all administrative departments should report quarterly to the Appointment Department the extent to which they and their subordinate offices had been able to give effect to the orders.

3. In November 1925 a further review of the position was made. It was found that, up to November 1925, the names of 209 retrenched officers of departments and offices under the local Government had been received and that, of these, 139 had been provided with employment, 19 had definitely refused reasonable offers of appointment, and the remaining 51 were officers whose qualifications were either too high or too low for ordinary ministerial appointments. In consequence, owing to the necessity to keep open permanent vacancies for retrenched officers who might be subsequently appointed, vacancies have been kept open for undesirably long periods, and it has been impossible to confirm candidates from outside the surplus list appointed at intervals in the absence, at the time, of suitable retrenched officers. These officers have therefore remained officiating in temporary posts, with the result that they have not been eligible for increments of pay, and this has led to general dissatisfaction amongst them.

4. The surplus list has now been in existence for more than two and a half years, and the Governor in Council considers that it has served its purpose. Government have fulfilled their obligation to the retrenched officers in regard to their re-employment as far as possible, with due regard to their qualifications and the nature of the vacancies arising from time to time, and it has been decided that the continuance of the list for any further period will injure the efficiency of the administration. The Governor in Council acccordingly directs the abolition of the surplus list with effect from the 31st December 1925 and the cancellation from that date of all previous orders on the subject.

By order of the Governor in Council,

L. BIRLEY,

Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

Bills introduced in the Council of State and Legislative Assembly, Reports of Select Committees presented to the Council and Assembly and Bills published under Rule 18 of the Indian Legislative Rules.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Bill was introduced in the Legislative Assembly on the 25th August, 1925 :—

No. 34 OF 1925.

A Bill further to amend the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, for the purpose hereinafter appearing ; It is hereby enacted as follows :— V of 1908

Short title.

1. This Act may be called the Code of Civil Procedure (Amendment) Act, 192 .

Amendment of section 102, Act V of 1908.

2. In section 102 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (hereinafter referred to as the said Code), for the words "five hundred" the words "one thousand" shall be substituted. V of 1908.

Saving of present right of appeal.

Amendment of section 103, Act V of 1908.

4. In section 103 of the said Code, for the words "but not determined by the lower appellate Court" the words "which has not been determined by the lower appellate Court or the finding of such Court on which has been reversed by the High Court on any of the grounds stated in sub-section (1) of section 100" shall be substituted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Section 102 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, lays down that no second appeal shall lie in any suit of the nature cognizable by Courts of Small Causes, when the amount or value of the subject-matter of the original suit does not exceed Rs. 500. Under section 103 in any second appeal the High Court may, if the evidence on the record is sufficient, determine any issue of fact necessary for the disposal of the appeal but not determined by the lower appellate court. The Civil Justice Committee have recommended—

(1) that the limit in section 102 should be raised to Rs. 1,000 ; and

(2) that section 103 should be amended so as to extend the power of High Courts to determine issues of fact to cases where the finding of the lower appellate court is vitiated by an error such as is described in section 100 (1).

The Bill has been prepared to give effect to these recommendations. As regards the second proposal, the local Governments and High Courts were consulted, and it has received the practically unanimous support of the authorities who have so far replied.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Forecast of the Winter til (Sesamum) crop of Bengal, 1925-26.

(NOTE.—On an average of five years ending 1923-24, the area under til in Bengal has represented some 3·2 per cent. of the total area under til in British India.)

Character of the Season.—The weather at the time of sowing and during the early period of growth proved unfavourable in West Bengal owing to defective monsoon showers, while in East and North Bengal many fields could not be properly sown on account of late subsidence of the flood water. Consequently less area was sown this year. Good rainfall during the early part of October materially improved the prospects in the important districts and a good outturn may be reaped for the Presidency as a whole.

Acreage.—The total area sown with the crop this year is estimated at 47,300 acres against 51,400 acres last year.

Outturn.—According to District Officers' estimates the outturn of the crop for the province as a whole works out at 94 per cent. of the normal against 79 per cent. last year. Taking 6½ maunds as a normal rate of yield per acre, the gross outturn for the province is estimated at 10,000 tons this year against 9,100 tons last year, or an increase of about 10 per cent.

Director of Agriculture, Bengal (offg.).
